COLONIAL DELICACIES.

Thanksgiving Dishes That Ticked the Palates of Our Forefathers.

In later days, when the colonies had just finished the war of the Revolution, the Thanksgiving dinner was not confined to a consumption of turkey. There were other dainties considered to be finer than turkey. The royal roast goose was a great favorite with the colonial dames who prided themselves upon their cookery.

Epicures of the modern school all know that the delicate flavor of the goose can be improved by the addition of a small quantity of juniper berries, and the colonial ladies displayed great knowledge when they flavored the dressing of the goose with these berries.

Another Thanksgiving dish highly prized by colonial epicures was ham baked in cider, and if the same delicacy were prepared today it might make the fortune of some ambitious chef. This is the way it was done a hundred years ago.

Wipe a whole ham clean and put in a baking pan, skin side down and over the flesh side sprinkle one-half a teaspoonful each of pepper, cloves and allspice and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of mace and cover all with a little onion juice. Into the bottom of the pan put a sprig of celery, two bay leaves and a slice of onion. Put a cup of flour in a bowl and add sufficient water to make a paste, cover the ham with the paste as far down as the skin and then turn into the pan two quarts of cider. Put in a hot oven and cook for 8 1/2 hours, basting every 15 minutes. When cooked, take off the crust, turn over and take off the skin and put in another pan with the fat side up. Brush over with a beaten egg, sprinkle with chopped parsley and bread crumbs and bake in a hot oven for one hour, when it will be ready to serve.—San Francisco Examiner.

Boiled Turkey.

Many old fashioned cooks and some of the new fashioned consider that the proper way to cook a turkey is to boil it. To do this, draw and wash the turkey thoroughly, wipe with a soft cloth and rub the inside with salt. Make a stuffing of one quart of bread crumbs, a tablespoonful of butter, salt, pepper and chopped parsley and mix the ingredients together with an egg. Fill the breast of the fowl with some of this stuffing and put the remainder into the body. Tie the legs and wings close to the body and place it in salted boiling water with the breast downward. Boil rapidly the first half hour, then draw it to the back of the stove and cook slowly until tender. Serve with celery or chestnut sauce. If oysters chopped are used in the stuffing, serve with an oyster sauce. An old fashioned custom was to serve ham or smoked tongue with a boiled turkey.—Exchange.

Dr. Depew Favours Southern Cooking. Chanancy Depew actually licked his chops when asked about his Thanksgiving dinner. "Give me," he said, "a bit from my Hudson river farm cooked by an old mammy from Virginia. No one but a southern dandy can cook a turkey. A colored woman knows how to spice up the animal until it tastes like a drop of sweet nectar, and she understands getting it rich and done. Give me an old mammy's cooking every time. We used to have an old mammy so lazy she wouldn't move, but when it came to Thanksgiving time she'd rouse herself and cook a turkey to the taste of the queen, or to my own taste—quite as critical a one."—Selected.

A Reminder of the Fathers. Thanksgiving day comes with its annual reminder of the fathers, who in the midst of their poverty and distress thanked God for their blessings and had hope for the future. It is the self sacrifice of one generation that constitutes the prosperity of the next. The rock of Plymouth is no stony boulder to be shied from rough contact by a marble canopy. It is rather a sure faith in the supreme obligations of duty and of personal character as the main element of durable success.—Independent.

Thanksgiving Bounty. One of the benign results of the observance of Thanksgiving day is the encouragement it gives to public benevolence. While it is a day set apart for the acknowledgment of national, family and personal blessings, every American is taught from childhood that on this day he must share the loaf, feed the hungry and give ear to the cry of distress. The significance of the day is lost to those who appropriate it solely for personal gratification and selfish enjoyment.—Exchange.

A Thanksgiving Thought. There is something lacking in the sincerity of the man who goes into the temple on Thanksgiving day to acknowledge the good gifts of Providence to him if he has done nothing through the year or on this day to uplift his fellows, to bring sunshine into sunless hearts and to distribute in some measure the benefactions which we all hold in trust for the benefit of the helpless sons and daughters of men.—Selected.

Excellent Sauce For Roast Turkey.

Shell and blanch three dozen French chestnuts. Boil in water enough to cover them for 30 minutes. Drain off the water and pound the nuts to a paste. Add a tablespoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne pepper. Stir gradually into the paste a pint of milk. Rub the mixture through a coarse sieve and place over the fire in a double boiler to cook for half an hour.—Selected.

New England Pumpkin Pie.

Take a firm pumpkin, pare, cut up and stew until dry. To a quart of stewed pumpkin add a cup of molasses, a cup of sugar, the beaten yolks of 6 eggs, half a cup of butter, a pint of milk, half a teaspoonful each of ground ginger and cinnamon, with a pinch of salt. Mix well and pour into deep pie pans lined with puff paste. Bake in a well heated oven.—Eliza B. Roper.

A Great Lecture.

Upon a Great Subject by a Great Man.

The man is Mr. Booker T. Washington, Principal of the Tuskegee, Ala., Normal School for colored men and women.

The subject is: "Solving the Negro Problem in the Black Belt of the South." The lecture, as heard by thousands of the most intelligent people from Boston to San Francisco, is said to be a magnificent presentation of a great subject.

The Philologist Society have gone to great expense—reaching fully one hundred and twenty-five dollars—to bring this noted, and in many respects, wonderful colored man from Alabama, to the people of Bloomsburg. Here is an opportunity you cannot afford to miss.

The occasion of his visit is the twenty-sixth annual reunion of the Philologist Society at the Normal School, on Thanksgiving evening.

Mrs. Alice Goodwin, of Boston, representing the National Waif Saving Association, whose object is to open up training schools throughout the country in connection with the reformatory, was in town on Thursday. She was calling on the newspapers to get them to assist in this work. The object of these training schools is to have a place to send young men on committing their first offense, and give them a chance to redeem themselves, before they are branded as criminals. Mr. Frank Torrence, of Pittsburg and Mr. Samuel Small, of York, are two Vice Presidents of the new Association.

You Have Waited For This.

There are many people who would be glad to abandon the habit of drinking coffee if they could only find some substitute for it. That substitute is Grain O, made from pure grains and, in the opinion of those who have given it a thorough trial, a beverage in every way preferable to coffee. Grain-O is not a stimulant,—it is something better. It is cheering, nutritious and strengthening. In other words it is a food-drink, as coffee is not. It is acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and agrees even with confirmed dyspeptics. Unlike coffee Grain-O produces no nervous action. It never interferes with sleep. As for the flavor of Grain-O, people who use it say that after using it a week or two they like its taste better than that of coffee. Grain-O is sold by all grocers at 15c. and 25c. per package. Try it. 11-12-4td.
