WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Corresponden... WASHINGTON, Nov. 27th, 1896.

There is at least one Republican Senator who thinks that the McKinley administration will have to borrow money very early in its career, not withstanding the assertions of the party stump speakers and editors during the campaign that it would never, ease. His plan is in short to authorize the Secretary regular prescription. It is composed of the Treasury to borrow as much money as may be needed to make up the difference between the government receipts and expenditures so long as there is a deficit, the loans to be made payable in a short period. Mr. Chandler seems to agree with the statements made on the stump by sil-

That knowledge will probably prevent action by the administration on the complaints of the gold Democrats.

The four Democratic Senators who bolted the nomination of Bryan-Palmer of Ill., Vilas of Wis., Gray of Del., and Caffery of La.-will not be admitted to the caucus of Democratic Senators which will be held as soon as Congress meets, for the purpose of deciding upon a line of party policy during the session. In addition to the party caucus there will be a silver caucus, attended by the Populists, the silver Republicans and the Democrats, and it is expected that an agreement will be reached under which the silver Senators will act together in all matters concerning finance. Unnecessary Economy in Church Music a Grievous Mistake.

"It is very difficult for some very accomplish any tariff legislation at this excellent and otherwise broad-minded session of Congress, unless some way church people to realize that good music is one of the most powerful auxiliaries to successful church work, them as to what ought to be done. writes Edward W. Bok in the December Ladies' Home Journal. " * * Music naturally appeals to a far larger internal revenue legislation, and a number of people than preaching ever project of adding $1 a barrel to the has or can, no matter how good its tax on beer, which came so near being quality. * * * A church desirous of reaching the largest number of people and doing the greatest amount of good must adjust itself to prevailing conditions. If good music will attract where other attractions fail, why not employ this auxiliary? * * * But good church music can rarely be had from a volunteer choir. And I say this with all due respect to the thoutariff Republicans who want to leave sands who each Sunday throughout our country volunteer their services in divine song. There are innumerable cases where a paid choir is out of the question. I have known of such instances where the singing by volunteer choirs was good. But they are the exceptions; by no means the rule. And it stands to reason that this should whose official duties have made him be so. Excellence in any kind of work calls for study and preparation. personal objection to him, but if the practical work must follow the study period. * * The voice must be cultivated, it must be trained. And this calls for infinite patience, time and money. Trained voices naturally cannot be expected to give the results of all this without compensation. And Whatever may be one's individual the fact that their services are asked opinions, it is clearly apparent that by the church and in the cause of the action of prominent gold Demo- religion does not affect the justice of remuneration. Ministers and janitors are paid, and so should be our church singers if they have good voices.

* * Where a church is able to out the existing bitterness between maintain a paid choir, and seeks to economize with volunteer voices, there is, in particular, a grievous misattacks are being made by the bolters take committed. Music hath charms, it has been truly said, and it has to every one. A church able to spend something on its music cannot afford to have aught but the best it is within successors has to be confirmed by the its means to employ. Those who regulate the affairs of our churches should bear this fact in mind in connection with their approaching Christany nominations, it is certain that the mas festivities and for their regular services in the new year before them. There would be far fewer empty pews gold Democrat for a position from in some of our churches during 1897 if there were better voices in the choirs.

DANGER IN ROENTGEN RAYS. An Experimenter Loses Five of His Fin ger Nalls.

A warning has been voiced by one of the leading English medical journals in regard to the too frequent use of the Roentgen ray apparatus, says the Philadelphia "Ledger.

It is interesting, no dubt, to obtain a series of photographs of one's own skeleton, but if this is to be at the expense of such trifles as one's hair and one's finger nails, it seems hardly worth the cost. One electrical engineer, who has often demonstrated the the beauty of his own finger bones by placing one of his hands within the radius of the searching rays, has lost all the nails from the fingers of that hand, while Mr. Sidney Rowland, who is one of the leading experimenters in this direction, mentions several cases of similar character in the structural changes that occur in the hair, and so forth, of those who have been frequently shadowgraphed by this method. Thus, in the case of patlents whose heads have been subjected to the influence of the rays, the hair has either turned white or has fallen out entirely. It is suggested that these results are due to the electrical potency of what are called the ultra violet rays of the spectrum, though their precise action is at present by no means thoroughly under-

One curious suggestion has already been made. It is a well-known supersition, and one which has existed for generations, that the people who sleep in the direct rays of the moon have their reasin more or less seriously affected. Now it is said that these ultra violet rays exist in the moonlight, and hence a popular superstition may be founded upon scientific fact.

The Dyspepsia Proof Eskimo.

Much is said about American dyspensia, but there is one native race of America that is certainly not greatly troubled by the modern curse. The sturdy little Eskimos defy all the laws of hygiene and thrive. The Eskimo, like the ordinary dweller in America, eats until he is satisfied, but there is this difference, that he never is satisfled while a shred of the feast remains unconsumed. His capacity is limited by the supply, and by that anly.

He cannot make any mistake about the manner of cooking his food, for as a rule he does not cook it, nor so far as the blubber or fat of the Arctic animal is concerned, about his method of eating it, for he simply does not eat it; he cuts it into long strips an inch wide and an inch thick, and then lowers the strips down his throat as one might lower a rope into a well.

And after all that he does not suffer from indigestion. He can make a good meal off the flesh and skin of the walrus, provision so hard and gritty that in cutting up the animal the knife must be continually sharpened.

The teeth of a little Eskimo child will meet in a bit of walrus skin as the teeth of an American child would meet in the flesh of an apple. And that when the hide of the walrus is from one-half to one and one-half inches in thickness, and bears considerable resemblance to the skin of an elephant. The Eskimo child will bite it and digest it, too, and never know what dyspepsia means.

Curiositles of Seeing.

How many persons have observed the fact that if we run our eyes along the side of a room, or along the horizon, the eveballs do not follow the movement of the head with a smooth. uniform motion, but keep in line by a series of quick, short, almost imperceptible jerks, just as the second hand of a watch moves? At first one may think that this is not so, but careful experiment will prove that it is,

If the eyes are fixed on a moving ob ject, then the motion of the eyeballs in following the object is uniform; but when it is the head that moves, while the objects looked at remain fixed, the eyeballs perform in the manner just described.

It is not necessary in order to observe this phenomenon that visible objects should be before the eyes. Let the reader shut his eyes, press the fingers lightly on the closed lids, and then turn the head from side to side. The little jerks with which the eyeballs follow the motion of the head will be distinctly perceived.

Sunlight is Death to Bacteria.

Fresh experiments on the power of sunshine to kill disease germs were described at a recent meeting of the Biological Society of Washington, In such experiments a plate of gelatine is sown with bacteria, and then portions of the plate are covered, while the remainder is exposed to direct sunshine. In the exposed places the organisms are killed, while they flourish in the shaded parts. This fact is used to explain the beneficial effects of sunlight allowed to flood a sick
