The President's message is all ready to be sent to Congress, and the usual precautions have been taken to prevent its premature publication. In either case the inventors and the honest patent lawyers would be gainers.

Speaking of the probability that one or more Senators may be asked to join McKinley's Cabinet a veteran republican Senator said: "Well, everybody must judge for themselves, but the Senator who has been in office for more than one term who is willing to enter the Cabinet must either have been blind to what went on under his nose or imagine that he possesses the ability to make his ex- regular ivery month, and it's ourselves perience different from that of other men who have tried the same thing. REASON DETHRONED BY JOY. Little Melissa Hunt Wanted a Plane and

Her Brothers Prepared a Surprise. The strange case of Mellesa Hunt, the fifteen-year-old colored girl, at Fishkill on the Hudson, who became insane suddenly aroused widespread interest in the vicinity.

Melissa was quite bright and vivacious before her strange illness. The girl had an aptitude for music, and was gratified a few weeks ago, and she took several lessons.

Melissa was such an apt pupil that she accomplished as much in half a dozen lessons as many girls in two or three terms of instruction. She expressed a wish for a piano and seemed very anxious to own one. Her brothers discovered this idea and told her that as they were poor folks she would have to get along without one

Melissa was very much disappointed, but bore up quite bravely. Her indulgent brothers decided ther that they would gratify ber wish. The jlane was brought to the Hunt residence from the music dealer's and set up in the parlor one afternoon while Melissa was out calling on some young friends. When the young girl returned home there was a twinkle ir Mrs. Hunt's eyes, and she sent Melis sa in the parlor on the pretext of getting a book for her.

The effect of the surprise upon the sensitive nerves of the girl was serious, however, far different from what had been anticipated by the family. As soon as Melissa caught sight of the piano she shricked, then tottered toward the instrument, but did not reach it, as she shricked again and fell in a dead faint upon the parlor floor. The girl's joy had apparently dethroned her reason.

The other members of the family. who had followed Melissa in the ex pectation of enjoying her surprise. were alarmed and ran to her assist ance. They picked her up and had her upon a lounge. By this time the girl was wildly hysterical. A physician was called, mut failed to give the little suffer much relief. She was then afflicted with acute hysterical

For more than a week she did not utter a word and appeared to have lost the power of speech.

Lincoln's Self-Training.

The following account of Abraham Lincoln's early struggle for mastery of thought, told in his own language. may be of use to many young people. It gives the secret of the power of his simple style. In 1860 Mr. Lincoln delivered a campaign address in Norwich, Conn. The Rev. John Guliver. late of Andover Seminary, said that he learned more of the art of public speaking in listening to that speech than he could have learned from a whole course of lectures on rhetoric. He was so much interested in the masterly address that he asked Mr. Lincoln where he was educated. We give the reply in Mr. Lincoln's own words:

Well, as to education, the newspapers are correct. I never went to school more than six months in my life. I can say this, that among my earliest recollections I remember how, when a mere child, I used to get irritated when anybody talked to me in a way I could not understand. I do not think I ever got angry at anything else in my life; but that always disturbed my temper, and has ever since.

I can remember going to my little bedroom after hearing the neighbors talk of an evening with my father, and spending no small part of the night walking up and down and trying to make out the exact meaning of their, to me, dark sayings.

I could not sleep, although I tried to, when I got on a hunt for an idea, until I had caught it; and when I thought I had got it, I was not satisfied until I had repeated it over and over; until I had put it in language plain enough, as I thought, for any boy I knew to comprehend. This was a kind of passion for me, and it has stuck by me; for I am never easy now, when Iam handling a thought, HII I have bounded it north and bounded it south, and bounded it east and bounded it west.

Nothing in a Name.

There was a man whose name was Fish, out Connecticut way, who had a son whom he called Preserved. He might have been somebody, for he even became a Congressman, but when his friends began to talk of him for United States Senator the ridicuiosity of the idea-as the late Senator Summer would say-of preserved fish holding so high a position was a little too much. So he was dropped like a dead herring. A man named Angell, out in Ohio, had the brains of a Mc-Kinley, but his parents called him Welcome Henvenly. When he became old enough to realize the wrong that had been perpetrated he took to drink. He is now a miserable failare-a mortal funk-in the hospital at Cleveland, O., says the World, of that city. There may be nothing in a name, but suppose Washington had been a Snooks, and Washington City had been a Snooksville, do you suppose we could have roused American patriotism as now?

Mrs. Barris relates her experience for the benefit of others.

"I had been sick with ulceration of the womb, causing all kinds of disagreeable experiences, such as irritability, sleeplessness, faintness, and at times hysteries. My physician said it was the worst case he ever had. My back ached, leucorrhœa very profuse, and I had a severe bearing-down pain. The physicians thought I should never recover, and as the last remedy, they procured your Vegetable Compound. I had not taken more than one-fourth of a bottle, before I was more comfortable. I continued its use, also the Sanative Wash, and Liver Pills. After using four bottles, I was able to be out, and do almost all my work. I think the Vegetable Compound is the only medicine that will cure female complaints, and it will reach the worst cases in a very short time. I know it saved my life."-Mrs. M. Can Never Shut Down.

There is truth in the following from an exchange: "There is one matter in which the country newspapers labor at a disadvantage in times of money stringency as compared with the manufactures. The publisher never finds a time when he can shut down his plant and lay off his employes, except when he reaches a point where he becomes a 'busted commodity,' so to speak. The paper must be turned out every week and the expense continues right on, just the same as when money was plenty."
