AN UNUBUAL CALL. Incident in a Country Dector's Life His Trust Not Betrayed.

"The life of a country doctor is not one of ease and luxury," commented an old practitioner. "A call at night and then a drive, perhaps of five or six miles, uphill and down dell in the darkness of the forest. One night I received a call from a distant farm house. Upon arriving there I found a lad of about eighteen with a bullet wound in his shoulder. I dressed the wound with much care, and then the lad with much anxiety observed: "'You won't say anything about this, doctor?

"'Why not, my lad?' I pitied him in a way, for his eyes had a hunted look and he appeared half famished and half dead.

"Because I received this wound in escaping from the Sheriff." "'You needn't tell me.'

No Market for Them.

Washington, D. C., is something of a reckon raconteur. One of his stories is worth repeating. "It was during Cleveland's first Administration," says he. "The horsecars had just been replaced by systems of trolleys and cable-cars. A Texan wrote to the Representative in Congress from his district asking about the market for horses. The constituent said the street-car companies should need horses, which were being killed and fed to the hogs in Texas. they were so cheap. 'There is no mar-ket for horses in Washington,' wrote back the Congressman. 'Horse-cars have just been replaced by trolleys and cable-cars. The trolleys are run by electricity, the cable-cars by steam, and the government is being run by a jackass. There is no market here for horses."-New Orleans Times-Demo-

At a restaurant some gentlemen were discussing politics, when a young student entered and joined in the conversation. His arguments did not please the others, and one of them said to him: "Be quiet. At your age I was an ass myself."

Installation of Rev. P. A. Heilman.

The Lutheran Observer of June 4 contains the following:

Rev. P. A. Heilman was installed pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Baltimore, on Thursday evening, May 20th, 1897. A large audience assembled to witness the ceremony and participate in the service. The wisdom of the committee in charge was shown by selecting a week-day evening, thereby preventing pastors from closing their churches or securing substitutes. Quite a number of the local Lutheran clergy of the city were present. The church was beautifully decorated with many and large palms and ferns, while bouquets of flowers adorned the chancel rail and front of pulpit platform.

Rev. O. C. Roth, of Grace church, delivered the charge to the pastor; and not able to resist temptation, I text, 2 Tim. ii. 15—"Study to show stole. It was for the first time. I thyself approved," etc. The charge the First church, from Ex. xvii. 12— "Aaron and Hur held up his hands." What Lincoln Advised.

When Abraham Lincoln used to be drifting around the country, practising law in Fulton and Menard counties, Ills., an old fellow met him going to Lewistown, riding a horse, which, while it was a serviceable enough animal, was not of the kind to be truthfully called a fine sadler. It was a weather beaten nag, patient and plodding, and it toiled along with Lincoln, and his books, tucked away in saddlebags, lay heavy on the horse's flanks.

" Hello, Uncle Tommy!" said Mr. Lincoln.

"Hello, Abe!" responded Uncle Tommy. "I'm powerful glad to see ye Abe, fer I'm gwyne to have some-Patrick O'Farrell, an attorney of thin fer ye at Lewistown cote, I

"How's that, Uncle Tommy?" "Well, Jim Adams, his land runs long o' mine. He's pesterin me a heap, an I got to git the law on Jim, I reckon."

" Uncle Tommy, you haven't had any fight with Jim, have you?"

" He's a fair to middling neighbor, isn't he?" "Only tollable, Abe."

" He's been a neighbor of yours for long time, hasn't he ?" " Nigh on to fifteen years."

" Part of the time you get along all right, don't you ?" " I reckon we do, Abe."

"Well, now, Uncle Tommy, you see this horse of mine? He isn't as good a horse as I could straddle, and I sometimes get out of patience with him, but I know his faults. He does fairly well as horses go, and it might take me along time to get used to some other horse's faults. For ail horses have faults. Wirt, of fountain pen fame, who has been in New York for two weeks in connection with the fountain pen suits and other business matters, returned home on Saturday. The case of Mr. Wirt against the American News Company for alleged infringement of his fountain pen patents is progressing slowly. All the evidence of the defendant has been put in, and the plaintiff will next have the opportunity of offering some evidence in rebuttal. A Convict-Built Prison.

The last Congress appropriated $150,000 for a penitentiary at Fort Lavenworth, Kansas. It will be a splendid modern structure, near the site of the old prison, and the plan of utilizing the five hundred convicts there to build it is to be carried out. It is expected that the new building will represent an outlay of three times the appropriation. The land of course is free, being a government reservation, set apart in 1827. There will be a dozen rooms devoted to night schools for the men, a first class gymnasium who merit good treatment. The thereafter, from confirmation nist. warden of the Fort Leavenworth state prison, Captain John W. French, speaking of the convicts, said:

"The majority of the men sent to us come from Arkansas, Texas and the Indian Territory. 'Criminals from this section are usually of the frontier type, and, as a rule, are easier to reclaim than those who have been raised in the older and more settled communities. The lax standards of border settlements are often the cause of morals obloquy, but, as a general thing, the border man who becomes a convict is readier to listen to appeals to his reason and conscience, and makes more earnest efforts to reform.'
