LINCOLN'S CAR. plemantled and Decaying in Omaha Rail-

In an obscure corner of the yards of the Union Pacific car shops in Omaha, in a dilapidated and abandoned condition stands a truly historic relic known as the Lincoln car. Its sides are cracked and weatherbeaten, and the glass in its windows and the brass railings on its platform are long ago All the compartments and sumptuous interior furnishings and decorations have been removed, and it stands like a barren, decaying hulk of its once proud self. This car was built specially for Mr. Lincoln in the United States military car shops in Alexandria, Va., in 1864, by B. P. Lamason, master car builder, and was certainly one of the handsomest private railroad coaches in its day. It was used by the President repeatedly on his visits to the Army of the Potomac down in Virginia, and also to New York and Philadelphia.

The Lincoln car is forty-two feet long by eight and one-half feet wide, and during the time Mr. Lincoln used it was divided in three compartments.

The car was considered in that day a triumph of the car builder's art. The walls of each of the compartments were padded with rich, corded crimson silk upholstery reaching half way to the ceiling, and the frieze of the President's room was decorated with painted panels of the coats-of-arms of the different States of the Union. The car was irouclad, armor being set in between the inner and outer walls, rendering it bullet proof. This added considerable to its weight, so much so that its builders thought it necessary to mount it on four four-wheeled trucks.-Chicago Tribune.

A Sandstorm at Sea.

The Royal Mail steamship Volta which has arrived at Liverpooi, reports that when between Cape Blanco and Cape Verde, a sandstorm was experienced which lasted for two days. The sand had been carried from the deserts of Northwest Africa, and was so thick that it was like a mist on the The sun was partially obscured, and soundings had to be taken. The vessel from stem to stern was covered with sand of a red color, and looked as if she had been painted red. There were also flocks of birds which had been blown from the land, and these settled on the ship from time to time. The sand had a troublesome effect on the crew and the passengers, who could scarcely remain any time wheel?" is a question often asked. The bicycle, although an extremely delicate piece of mechanism, will last for many years, even though its first owner may keep it only a season, if it receives but ordinary care. But long life for a wheel can only be assured by careful spin, and cleans it, or has it cleaned thoroughly, say once a month, and lubricates it properly at stated intervals, will find that the machine will not only last longer, but the rider will derive more benefit from its use and experience fewer mishaps than would be the Danger in Early Rising.

Until now people have been content to accept the theory that early rising -in conjunction, of course, with a correspondingly early habit of going to bed-is conducive to health. But this belief, like many others, has been shattered by the latest scientific research. "People who get up early," says an eminent scientist, "are more liable to go mad than others."

In support of his theory he cities the prevalence of insanity among those engaged in agricultural pursuits. Though it is sad to see a time-honored doctrine thus exploded, one is disposed to favor the new opinion at the expense of the old. In any case, there can be no harm in being on the safe side, and after all, it is so easy not to get up early.

The bill to protect the free exercise of the suffrage at elections and to prohibit official interference has been so amended in conference committee as to make it a mockery. There is no protection in it for the voter, nor any dissuasion for the political "heeler."

A "Touch" For McKinley.

A man about 40 years old and with long hair, accompanied by a woman entered the telegraph office in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad station in Hoboken, N. J. recently and wrote a telegram, which he addressed to President McKinley. The telegram was a request to send two railroad tickets for a passage between New York and San Jose, Mich.

"Send that off at once," said the man, " and I'll wait for an answer." After listening to the conversation of the couple the operator concluded that they were religious cranks. He then returned the message, saying that he would not send it. The man and his companion argued with the operator, but in vain. Finally they went away indignant. They said they would bave the dispatch sent from New York .- New York Sun.

Lee May Be Made President

The University of Virginia has never had a president, the chairman of the faculty discharging the duties of that office. But the growth of the institution has made the appointment of a president desirable, and such an officer will probably be elected at the coming commencement in June. No names have been suggested, except that a Richmond newspaper reported that General Lee, now consul general at Havana, would be sounded as to whether he would accept the post. It is altogether probable that there is no authority for this statement, and it cannot be learned that he is even being considered in connection with the office .- Baltimore Sun.
