

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, July 16th, 1897. Another disgraceful chapter in the history of Congressional sugar scandals was written this week.

A prominent republican was asked when the tariff bill would get out of conference, and he replied disgustedly: "When its schedules can no longer be profitably worked on the stock market."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable.

Jerry Simpson had to smile when his resolution for the appointment of a select committee of five to investigate the sugar trust and its relations to Congressional legislation was referred to the Judiciary committee of the House, which has not been appointed yet.

Probably the majority of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations seek to ease their consciences by such "hot-stuff" as the report made this week on the resolution directing the President to demand the release of three Americans who are in Cuban prisons, having been captured on the steamer Competitor.

Senator Tillman never loses an opportunity to remind the country of the contempt he feels for the democracy of ex-President Cleveland.

The strength which comes to us from eating nourishing food is better than stimulation, because it is new strength.

The health which belongs to a strong body, well nourished by proper food (properly digested), is the only health that is lasting.

The difference between Shaker Digestive Cordial and other medicines is simply that it helps nature to make strength. It does not profess to cure sickness, except as that sickness is a result of weakness caused by food not properly digested.

Shaker Digestive Cordial will relieve the pangs of indigestion, and take thin, sick, weak people as well as if their stomachs had never been out of order.

It is a gentle aid to the digestion of nature's strength-maker, food. At druggists. Trial bottle, 10 cents.

INTERNATIONAL WOMAN'S CONGRESS.

Important Meeting Which Will be Held in Brussels Next Month.

An international woman's congress will be held this summer at Brussels, from August 4 to 7, under the auspices of the Ligue Belge du Droit des Femmes (Belgian League of Woman's Rights).

Republican Senators resorted to filibustering to break a quorum in order to prevent a vote on the Pacific Railroad resolution of Senator Harris, of Kans., which Senator Morgan declares will save the people of this country $30,000,000, if adopted in time to prevent the completion of the scheme started during the last administration to get possession of the road through an alleged reorganization and purchase, not to mention what will be saved to other creditors and to stockholders.

Republicans were afraid to kill the resolution by a direct vote, so they resorted to such roundabout methods of doing it as refusing to vote, thus breaking a quorum. Under the Senate Rules a "counted quorum" doesn't go.

An African Delicacy.

The flesh of an elephant is eaten in its entirety by several of the African tribes. A detail of the process of butchering the animals is not pleasant reading. The tools used are the assejai and hatchets. The rough outer skin is first removed in large sheets.

Beneath this is a subcuticle, a pliable membrane, from which the natives make water skins. The elephant yields large quantities of fat, used in cooking their sundried bilong, or dried strips of elephant's flesh, and also in the preparation of vegetables.

A lean explorer of the Caucasian race agree that one part of the elephant's carcass, when properly cooked, is a succulent dish that will regale the most delicate taste. This part, very strangely, is the first joint of the leg below the knee, which one would suppose to be the toughest portion of the animal.

To prepare the joint, a hole three feet deep is dug in the earth, and the sides of it are baked hard by means of large live coals. Most of the coals are then taken out, and the elephant's foot is placed in the rude oven. The hole is then filled with dirt, tightly packed, and a blazing fire is built on top, which is kept replenished for three hours. The foot is thus evenly baked, and when done, instead of strong, tough meat fibre, it is a gelatinous consistency that may be eaten with a spoon.—Public Opinion.

THE PIANO OF THE FUTURE.

Electric Current Substituted for the Old Levers and Hammers. No more hammers in pianos. The old-fashioned method of pounding music out of wires by the aid of a wonderfully complicated system of lever keys has been branded as a back number.

Dr. Richard Eisemann of Berlin has patented a system which does away with the levers entirely. He calls this new appliance the electro-phonio piano. Its distinctive principle consisting in the fact that the vibrations of the chords are not produced by hammers, but by an electric current and by means of microphones acting as interrupters of the current.

All the delicate and complex mechanism of the old piano is done away with. The little electrical devices are arranged on the crosspiece extending over the strings. Upon this electric magnets are placed, so as to be only a hair's breadth from the strings.

Pressing down the key sends the electric current into the corresponding electro-magnet. This attracts the metallic string below, but the microphone interrupts the current and therewith the attraction. The string returns to its former place, and this continued attraction and interruption of the current is carried on, the number of vibrations being regulated by the pitch of the string.

The high sounds produced by this method have a decided register tone, and the lower and middle registers suggest the "cello" or the organ. In reality, the installation of this new system creates a new instrument, so different are the qualities of sound produced by the new method and the old.

ADOPTED THEIR OWN SON.

The Child was Stolen and Lost to the Parents for a Number of Years. In 1876 a careless nurse deserted the perambulator in which she was wheeling the two-year-old son of M. F. Britton, at Montreal, Canada, while she went for a short walk with a soldier's sweetheart from the local English garrison.

When she returned her charge was gone. The family made every effort to recover the little one, but without avail.

As has recently developed, it was stolen by a man named Myers in the hope of securing a reward. After the crime was committed he became so much alarmed that he never dared to claim money from the family, and the child reached the age of seven years under his care.

In 1883 Myers died, and for a year his wife kept the boy with her. She was greatly troubled in her conscience and finally resolved to devise some plan of returning the lad to his family. She feared to go directly to them with her story, and by way of reaching them secured employment as a domestic in their household.

The Brittons were without a child of their own, and when Mrs. Myers suggested that they adopt her "son," a bright lad of ten at the time, they readily fell in with the plan. Mrs. Myers soon afterward left their employ. She kept up a desultory correspondence with them for several years and finally dropped out of sight.

In the meantime the Brittons and their supposedly adopted son removed to a farm in northern New York, and afterward to another near Akron. A short time ago they received a letter from Mrs. Myers, in England, giving full particulars of the abduction of their child twenty-one years ago, and the method she adopted to return him to his own father and mother.—Philadelphia Record.

DOGS OF WAR IN REALITY

Training Great Danes to Drag Soldiers from Bicycles. To let loose the dogs of war is to be a veritable military manoeuvre, for dogs are now being trained by the German army to do actual battle. The bicycle is responsible for this. Since its introduction into the armies of Europe, German officers have been considering the best method of securing it, and the result has been a decision to train dogs to drag bicycle riders from their wheels.

The Great Dane has been selected for the purpose, as his size and strength make him a powerful and effective antagonist.

At Berlin there are now 1,000 of these great dogs in training. Every day for the past three months they have been taken to the parade ground and been given lessons in distinguishing the German and Austrian uniforms from the French, Italian and Russian, for it is necessary that they should discriminate between friend and foe. Then they are taught to rush upon a bicycle mounted enemy and dismount him.

When it is remembered that nearly all the armies of Europe have adopted the bicycle, the necessity of the best method to lessen their effectiveness can be appreciated, and the German army officers believe they have discovered the method.—New York Herald.

Get a Stateroom on the Sunny Side.

Rooms on the south side of the ship as she crosses are the best. That is the side that the sun shines on, and it always seems to be less wave-beaten than to the north; one's chances of having the port open, if the weather is tolerable at all, are, therefore, better. On the big ships there are staterooms on four decks; the promenade deck, from which one can slip into the open air at once; the salon deck, where the public rooms and the officers' cabins are, and also most of the bed smelies; the main deck given up almost entirely to staterooms, and the lower deck, where people do not stay unless they must.—Scribner's.

THEY FOUGHT A CATAMOUNT.

Berry Pickers Escape With Torn Clothing and Many Hurts. James Hough and John B. Hanlon, of Free'land, had a desperate encounter with a catamount on Friday. They were engaged in picking berries in Oley Swamp, and while Hough was stooping to the ground the catamount sprang from a tree, alighting upon his back and imbedding its claws into his neck.

Hanlon sprang to his companion's assistance with a club and struck the animal a terrific blow, telling it to the ground. It again dashed upon the berry pickers. The young men made a desperate struggle, and the beast was only subdued after having torn Hanlon's clothing almost to shreds and biting and scratching him in many places. His companion escaped under similar conditions.

A Story of a Princess.

An interesting story is told of Princess May. Accompanied by a chaquon, she was driving along a quiet lane near Hammersmith, when they encountered a costermonger whose cart, loaded with fruit and vegetables, stood in the road while he was mercilessly beating a miserable, half starved donkey.

The princess gently remonstrated with the man, but his only reply was oaths and a shower of vindictive blows on the poor beast's back. She ordered her footman to take the club and shout for a policeman and insisted that the footman and "the woman" should both be arrested—he for assault and his mistress for "aiding and abetting" him.

"The man who will kneel to me will beat his donkey," said the disgusted young lady.

Taking out her pocketbook she insisted that the man should sell her the miserable animal, and ordered it to be taken to the park at Richmond, at the same time assuring the wretched coster that he would be held accountable for future abuses of any kind he might purchase with the money he had received for this.
