HISTORY OF BUTTONS. THE

Wearing Ornamental Ones in Vogue Long Ago.

Recently at the Hotel Drouot, in Paris, there was a sale of a curious and interesting collection of ancient buttons, the property of Baron Perigpan of Paris. This collection, which was exhibited in 1889 at the Exposition of Decorative Arts, might rival any one of those belonging to the most enthusiastic buttonists in the world. Clapisson, the musician, collected 7,750 different specimens. In 1849 a collec-tor in Ghent exhibited more than 30,000, and M. Maignen, the librarian of the Grenoble library, gained a certain reputation in this branch of curiosities through his collection of buttons of liveries and uniforms. The puttons of the 18th century bring high prices in the market at the present time. There are some of them that Fragonard, we are told, decorated with his marvelous pencil. In his time it was fashionable to make presents of was tashionable to make presents of buttons as big as a crown piece, on which allegories and various subjects were carved. Bachaument writes in his "Secret Members" November 18, 1876; "The mania for buttons is today extremely ridiculous. They are not only of enormous size, some of them as big as six-pound crowns, but minintures and pictures are made upon them and ornamentation is ex-tremely costly. Some of them repre-sent the medals of the twelve Caesars, others antique statues, and still others the Metamorphoses of Ovid."

leabey, in his biographical notes, says that when he came to Paris he worked for a living by making copies of Vanloos and Bouchers on the lids of valloos and bouchers on the fids of snuff boxes, and that for these medallions he was paid from 6 to 8 francs each. "As it was still the fashion," he said, "to wear buttons as big as a five-frans piece, upon which cupid's flowers and landscapes were cut in cameo, I went into that busi-ness. I got 12 sols for each."

Two years after this period in the life of Bachaumont buttons abandon-ed erudition to take up edileship. All the fine monuments of Paris were carved on them. Then came the patriotic buttons, representing the taking of the Bastile, the embiem of the three orders, the Phrygian cap, the portraits of Louis XVI., of Mirabeau, Shortly afterward these ornaments were laid aside. The reign of the artistic button was over, and the mother of pearl button became general.

pearl button became general. The oldest buttons at present in the museums and among the collections are the gold buttons discovered at Mycenae, at the time of the excava-tions undertaken by Dr. Schlieman, and also those found in the temp of Califordia L. The latter work exhibited Childeric I. The latter were esthibited cially able to carry out any obligations at the Louvre in the Muses des Souvcrains. They are made of gold and of colored glass, imitating garnet. Buttons detached from copes and religious gar-ments of the middle ages and of the Renaissance have also been discovered.

Man's Ancestors.

We can polat now to the long-since extinct ancestors of the lowest vertebrates; we are able to introduce all the reptiles, the birds, and the mammals to their primitive prototypes; in the mammals, particularly, gap after gap which seemed to separate species and genera and orders have been successfully spanned by the discovery of intermediate forms; and we have now the genealogical trees of the deer, musk, horse, tapir, rhinoceros, cat, lemurs, menkey and many others. And yet as regards the pedigree of man we are still in the dark. Professor Huxley's impressive words still hold. Palacontology sheds no light on man's origin or his last pithecold parents; for so far as that light is bright it shows him substantially as he is now, and when it grows dim it permits us to see no sign that he was other than he is now.

Missing-links to connect the human species with the demonstrated evolutionary law of the world of life and matter, are quoted of course. But it seems well nigh impossible to prove that an alleged link is anything more than an extreme instance of some particular type. And it is pretty certain that if missing links exist, they must be sought for in a period much fur-ther back than we are at present able office. to explore.-Science Siftings.

purposes of a cabinet. In either case an electric lining is used, consisting of strips of metal mounted in connection with the thin metal sheets, so arranged that even a pin thrust through the cabinet and penetrating the lining will sound the alarm. The door of the vault can not be opened, nor can the curtain of the cabinet be raised, until a time lock has disconnected it from the alarm system. In order that the alarm box may be proof against molestation, it is made of steel and placed within a hood lined in the same way at the cabinet. Any attempt at tampering will cause an alarm to be sounded, as in the case of the cabinet. The door is held closed by heavy lag bolts, the partial removal of any of which will give a warning signal. There are several of these lag bolts, and before the door can be opened they have all to be removed, which requires a considerable length of time.

Taking No Chances.

There used to be a peculiar old justice of the peace in Vevay, Ind., down near the Ohio river, who entertained very queer notions concerning court procedure. On one occasion, after all the evidence was in and the plaintiff's attorney had made an elaborate argument, the defendant's attorney arose to begin his plea.

"Hold on there," exclaimed the Court. "I don't believe I can let you proceed, Mr. Smith. I have a very clear idea now of the guilt of the prisoner at the bar, and anything from you at this time would have a tendency to confuse the Court. I know the man is guilty now, and I donit want to take any chances."-Chicago Times-Herald.

Marriages That Made History.

The marriage of Ethelbert, king of Kent, with Bertha, the Christian daughter of Charibert, king of Paris, paved the way to Christianity in Engand. The marriage of Henry VIII with Anne Boleyn was one of the principal factors leading to the reformation. Ethelred the Unready's marriage with Emma of Normandy gave the Conqueror an axcuse for asserting his claim to the English throne. The marriage of Henry I with Matilda of Scotland reconciled the people of could live for a time and still be in-England to the conquest by restoring the line of Cedric. Henry II's marriage with Eleanor of Aquitaine made England the first continental power
