WORDS OF WISDOM.

Find a way or make one. Everyworld always listens to a man with a than by over-severity. will in him. - Morden.

The only worthy end of all learning, of all science, of all life, in fact, is that human beings should love one the best-dressed member. another better .- George Eliot.

A loving confidence in the God we have offended is the key to his heart, the key which unlocks the treasury of his grace.-Rev. E. M. Gouldburn,

There are no songs comparable to the songs of Zion, no orations equal to those of the prophets, and no politics like those which the Scriptures teach.-Ino. Milton.

If you would be well with a great mind, leave him with a favorable impression of you; if with a little mind leave him with a favorable impression of himself.-Coleridge.

When God sends darkness, let it be dark. 'Tis so vain to think we can light it up with candles, or make it anything but dark. It may be because of the darkness we shall see some new beauty in the stars.-The Story of William and Lucy Smith.

Restraining grace is an amazing work of God. It is more wonderful than his setting a bound to the sea, that it cannot pass over. Think what a hell every unconverted bosom would become if the Spirit were to withdraw and give men over to their own hearts lusts.-McCheyne.

The universal reign of love, creating new economies, a new commerce, new politics, a new social life, supplanting greed or gain with passion for service, and mutual competition with mutual helpfulness, unreal as it seems to us, immersed in the struggle and held by the habits and ruled by the ideas of to-day, is yet the destined result and fulfillment of the centuries and ages of divine teaching .- Philip

Creation is the organ, and a gracious man finds out its keys, lays his hand thereon, and wakes the whole system of the universe to the harmony of praise. Mountains and hills, and other great objects are as it were the bass of the chorus; while the trees of the wood, and all things that have life, take up the air of the melodious song.—Spurgeon.

Make the Most of Yourself-

It is the duty of every man to make the most of himself. Whatever his capacities may be, he is sure to find some place where he can be useful to himself and to others. But he cannot reach his highest usefulness without good health and he cannot have good health without pure blood. The blood circulates to every organ and tissue and when it is pure, rich and healthy it carries health to the entire system, but if it is impure it scatters disease wherever it flows. Hood's Sarsapa- Grasley, carpenter.

Catawissa boro-Chas. O. Brown, rilla is the one true blood purifier It cures salt rheum, scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia and rheumatism because these diseases have their origin in the blood.

Mowing of the Harvest.

After every harvest, especially a wet one, there is sure to be a rank growth of weeds that until harvest have been kept back by the growth of grain. So soon as that is removed they have all the soil to themselves, and if rain occurs while the weather is warm a greater amount of plant food than the field has previously furnished. No wonder that the weeds find these conditions so favorable Hidlay, farmer. that they quickly overshadow the grass and clover seedings. The only way to cure this evil is to go over the piece with the mower set high enough to miss most of the clover and therefore not leaving much of a mulch over it when cut. If this is done, the rag-weed and other weeds that crowd out the clover will themselves be overshadowed and smothered by it. The check to growth of ragweed, which is at this season nearly ready to flower, is much greater than it is to the clover, which is not so far advanced. As a consequence the clover growth quickly smothers the ragweed so that it is scarcely able to blossom again. This is not the best of this method. The stimulation to the soil by cutting off the tops of ragweed and an occasional clover leaf will make so large a growth of clover that a month later it will probably also need to be cut to keep the clover from blossoming and seeding, as spring sown clover will sometimes do the same year it is sown, says American Cultivator, authority for the foregoing.

A DELIGHTFUL BALM TO CATARRH Suffers.-Time was when such drastic measures as the physician's knife or burning the affected parts in catarrh cases were resorted to Modern medical science has stepped in and the means of curing has lost all the barbaric tendency. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder is a most potent temedy. It relieves in a few minutes burg Belt R. R. Company. Assessment of and cures most stubborn cases.
