Growing Children

One-third of all the children die before they are five years old. Most of them die of some wasting disease. They grow very slowly; keep thin in flesh; are fretful; food does not do them much good. You can't say they have any disease, yet they never prosper. A slight cold, or some stomach and bowel trouble takes them away easily.

GRIPPED HIS VICTIM LIKE A BULLDOG.

While intoxicated last night John Smith brutally assaulted Horace Gross, an aged hostler employed by Dr. J. W. Albright, of Muncy. After beating him into insensibility, Smith clutched his victim by the throat. Mrs. Albright, who witnessed the as- sult, secured a carriage whip and lashed Smith severely in an effort to make him loosen his hold. She failed, and cried for help. Several men responded and attempted to subdue Smith by hitting and kicking him.
During the struggle Dr. Albright appeared. Realizing that his hostler's life was in peril, he grasped a neck yoke and struck Smith a stunning blow. The fellow was dazed, and let go his hold. During the excitement Smith made his escape. A warrant is now out for his arrest, but the con- stable of the town is afraid to serve the document. Smith has the reputa- tion of being a bad man, and has frequently figured as a defendant in the criminal courts. Gross may not recover.

The above appeared in Tuesday's Philadelphia Times. Gross is well- known in town, and left here some time ago to work for Dr. Albright.
