ans on the public stage. "Now, there are those curious little bubbles of glass known variously as Prince Rupert's drops' and as 'Dutch tears.' Apparently they are merely little globules of glass with elongated acte globales of glass with clongated tails, made by heating a small glass rod in a fiame and allowing the mol-ten drops to fall into water After they have cooled you may pound the thick part with a hammer or mallet, yet you cannot break them. On the where how it was back in the place wher you cannot break them. On the other hand, if you break a little piece off their tails, or touch any part of them with a quariz crystal, they will disappear into the surrounding atmos-phere quicker than snow will melt on both first the surrounding atmosa hot fire. To the person who does not know the reason the performance is most astonishing.

"And yet it is all very simple. It is what is known as surface co Glass when heated to a mol besion. hesion. Giass when heated to a mol-ten state has naturally reached a very high temperature, and when the drops of melted glass are allowed to fall into the cold water the sudden change pro-duces a stress all over the surface of the drop which is really terrific. This stress however, must be considered the drop which is really terrific. This stress, however, must be considered as a whole. It is very strong when taken all together, but it is exactly as though a piece of very thin rubber was stretched over the surface of the glass. If you punctured the rubber its haste to resume its normal condi-tion would pull it off the glass.

"So when you break off the tail of the drop or cut through the film of very hard glass with a crystal, its endeavor suddenly to resume its normal deavor suddenly to resume its normal condition results in its own destruc-tion, and it breaks up into particles which are really finer than the finest sand. It seems like a wonderful per-formance, but it is no as re wonderful than many another which any young-ster could perform if he would study even the simplest forms of chemical action." action."

iome more elevating and refining than music, but too often the acquir musical skill and knowledge ng of by a child or young person is given a wrong motive. The knowledge is val-aed as a means of attracting attention to self rather than to the making of ife to self and to others more lovely and cheerful. The power to create sweet melodies for others to enjoy hould be a great and unselfish pleasire.

Too rarely is the musical education ased for the brightening of the home. Foo rarely is it considered "worth while" to play or sing for the gratiication of one or more members of a amily or the family. Music not only gratifies the sense of bearing, but is the most powerful stimulus to the ima, ination. It paints pletures which no artist can repro-duce, it writes poems of sweeter chythm and meter than have ever been written een written.

"Play that little march again," sala tired man to his daughter, as he lay with closed eyes on a couch, resting after a hard day's work and worry. "I should think you would be tired bearing it," she replied, a little petu-lantly, but she played it over, this time with more care and feeling than be-fore

"It always rests me," said the weary man. "It brings before me a picture of willows by a brook, a peaceful andscape where cattle graze. At the mount of the second point of the second second part, the scene changes some-what, but the willows are there, always waving gently in the summ wind. It is beautiful."

Nutritious Food for Children.

Children need more nutritious food Children need more nutritious food than older people do; or at least they suffer more from the want of it. Po-tatoes, white bread, pastry and the many kinds of sweets that make up the food of grown people do not sup-ply the necessary nutriment for the growing brain, bone and muscle of children. Sooner or later a diet con-taining so much starch will tall on the taining so much starch will tell on the system; if may be in a ruined diges-tive apparatus, weakened bones, or in many other forms of weaknesses al-most unknown in by-gone days, when plain and simple food was the rule. In most foreign countries sweets (ex-cept at holiday seasons) are almost nknown. Sometimes the food is of the plainest and coarsest, but almost invariably the children are rugged and healthy. As soon as children begin to eat care should be taken that they to eat care should be taken that they have nourishing food. always re-membering that their stomachs cannot digest as hearty food as a grown per-son's can. It requires but a little time to prepare some extra dish for the little one. Rice flake or whealiet can be prepared in a few minutes. It is light, and children love it. Oat flake may be given in small quantites. fake may be given in small quantites. Graham prepared in almost any way is good. Buckwheat cakes are whole-some, if the flour is made from clean grain. It is the smut on buckwheat which is poleonous and causes eruptions on the skin.-Troy Times.

How Rennet Is Made.

How Rennet Is Made. "It is strange, but not one person in i hundred can tell you exactly what rennet it," said a wholesale dealer in the commodity. "Rennet is the glutin-sus membrane covering the stomach of the calf, and its preparation for the narket requires a high degree of skill. It is obtained first by cutting away carefully the lining and soaking it in sait and water for several days, the water being changed every day until every part is thoroughly cleaned. It is then placed in a high clean tub, and the whole mass is covered with the Fery best cherry wine. This is al-lowed to remain on the rennet till it becomes a thick jelly-like substance. which is then dissolved in alcohol and therry wine.
