Andrew Carnegie has been remarkably successful as a business man, starting life in poverty he has worked his way up to the ranks of the mulimillionaires and now retires from active business enterprises to enjoy his fortune and continue his philanthropies, which for years he has been distributing with a lavish hand. Mr. Carnegie in an interview says that "he did not sell out his business, either call on or address the above. because he was frightened by the trusts, or because business was not prosperous. In fact it never was so prosperous, nor were its prospects ever so good." Long ago he formu- burg visited her parents on Second lated a policy not to spend his old age in business, struggling after more dollars, but beleived in developing a dignified and unselfish life after 60 years of age. He will continue his work of philanthropy during the remainder of his life-time, and will doubtless prove in himself an exception to a declaration he is credited with having made, that "to die rich is to die disgraced." The world would be better if it had more rich men like Andrew Carnegie.

Gets too Much Money.

Hullinger, Although Helpless from Rheumatism, Wants His Pension Cut Down From $72 to $50.

fantry of Wooster, Ohio, asked to have his pension cut down. For years he has been a helpless invalid, as the result of rheumatism contracted in the War of the Rebellion. He has been receiving $72 per month, and has been cared for by a son and daughter.

Hullinger in a letter to the pension department asked that his allowance be cut down to $50 per month, as $72 was more than he needed. A special agent sent to investigate says no change will be made.

Hullinger is an ardent church member, and it is supposed he has scruples against taking more than he needs. His son left home a year ago and he lives with his daughter, who is married. His poor limbs are twisted so that he cannot walk, but he is very contented. He has no use for so much money; he don't know what to do with it all. The patriotic old veteran thought that his country needed the funds worse pension reduced.

Wilson is a careful worker, and it is through his care and forethought largely that the successful plan of organization of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum has been carried out.

SOME BIG FEES.

European Physicians Sometimes Obtain Fortunes for a Single Operation.

Several European physicians have made fortunes by single operations. Dr. Thomas Dimsdale, a Hertfordshire specialist, who was summoned to St. Petersburg in 1752 to vaccinate Empress Catherine II., received $60,000 and a pension of $2,500 a year. A certain Dr. Butler, who had obtained a world-wide reputation for his operations in lithotomy, received a lakh of rupees (then forth $50,000) from each of six Indian rajahs for releasing them from their pains. The late ezar of Russia paid Prof. Zacherine, a noted specialist of Moscow, $75,000 for two days' attendance. Dr. Gale, of Bristol, received a check for $250,000 for curing a certain prominent nobleman of a diseased knee. Dr. Gale Yowski, who traveled all the way to Teheran to attend the son of the late shah, received $35,000 and his expenses. Sir William Jenner received a baronetcy and $50,000 for four weeks' attendance at the bedside of the prince of Wales. Sir Morell Mackenzie received $100,000 for attending Emperor Frederick. Perhaps the most extravagant fee of all, however, is that of an English army surgeon, who charged an Indian rajah $50,000 for one prescription in a simple case of rheumatism.

Belligerent Crabs. The most savage specimen of the crab species is found in Japan, seeming to dream of nothing but fighting, to delight in nothing half so much. The minute he spies another of his kind he scrapes his claws together in rage, challenging him to the combat. Not a moment is wasted in preliminaries, but at it they go, hammer and tongs. It sounds like two rocks grinding against one another as their claws rattle against the hard shells. The sand flies as the warriors push each other hither and thither until at last one of them stretches himself out in the sun, tired to death. But he does not beg for mercy or attempt to run away, only feebly rubbing his claws together in defiance of his foe. That foe comes closer, and with his claws trembling with joy at his victory the conqueror catches hold of one claw of the vanquished crab, twists it until it comes off and bears away the palpitating limb as a trophy of his prowess. Such is a battle between warrior crabs.

DISORDERS IN SPAIN.

Troops Called Upon to Quell Riots In Valencia.

Disturbances In Other Places, and Many Casualties Reported-Mintster of War Polavieja Consents to Reduction of Proposed Army.

VALENCIA, Spain, July 3.-Very se-of Valencia, General Molto, the troops occupied the streets Saturday morning and now hold all the strategic points. At the beginning of the riots the mob placed obstacles on the street railway tracks and stopped the cars, stoning the gendarmes when they tried to remove the barriers. Finally the troops charged, Mauser bullet passed through a shop only after fierce fighting, in which many were wounded. About 8 o'clock in the evening the mob attacked a monastery, and the brother who was acting as gate porter was obliged to defend himself with a revolver. They then moved upon a Jesuit house, which had a narrow escape from being burned to the ground, the troops arriving just in the nick of time to pre-points, and the artillery was held in read-iness. The rioters thereupon erected barricades, which the cavalry captured vent the mob from setting it on fire. An enormous number of arrests have been made. It is not known how many have been wounded or whether any have been killed.

At a late hour the generals held a con ference and decided to continue the mili tary occupation of all points of vantage. The mayor of Valencia issued a proclamation calling upon the people to cease resisting the law.

The riots were renewed vesterday, and the rioters stoned the gendarmery in barracks. It is reported that a captain of gendarmery was severely injured by a tlying missile.

A Riot In Madrid.

After a largely attended meeting yes-terday in favor of the revision of the trial of the alleged anarchists now imprisoned at Mont Juich fortress for complicity in the bomb throwing during the Corpus Christi procession a formidable demonstration was made against the Jesuit convent. The gendarmes who were summoned were received with volleys of stones. They charged the rioters, injuring many.

PICTURES OF PLANT GROWTH.

Moving Picture Machine Made to Do Service For Science. WASHINGTON, July 3.-The agricultural department has pressed the moving picture machine into the service of science. The division of vegetable pathology now has a device of this sort in opera-tion in one of its greenhouses, photographing the growth of a small oak tree The machine works automatically, taking a picture each hour. At night an electric light is thrown into circuit as the exposure is made. The machine has been run ning about two weeks and will be kept going about two weeks longer on its present subject. When the series of pictures is completed, it will be possible to reproduce with the stereopticon the growth of the plant from the time the first shoot appears above ground till the tree is in full leaf and a foot or more high. It is pointed out that a lecturer before a class of students could show in five minutes the growth and seed distribution of any noxious plant, such as the Canadian thistle, or the life history of an insect pest so that it could be readily recognized and combated on its first appearance in a region, even though the workers there had never seen it in actual

HARTMAN & SON, BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Memoir of Levi Kinley.

[Communicated.]

Death, whose quiver is never emptied, nor his bow unstrung, has stricken another shining mark. That venerable form and saintly presence, whose greetings we have hitherto so fondly cherished, has disappeared. He is not here; he has gone from us, and henceforth we must look for him on the other shore,

"Where the saints of all ages in harmony meet, Transported their Saviour and brethren to greet.

Levi Kinley, of Espy, this county, departed from earth for the better world at 2 o'clock a. m., on Friday, June 16th. His pilgrimage here was about seventy-two years, of which forty-six was spent in the service of his Divine Master. He was also a soldier in the war for the preservation of the Union, and was always ready and willing in its detence.

He was a man of a very generous heart, that ever throbbed in sympathy with the woes of all with whom he Con. Second and Iron Sts. came in contact-he was indeed the exemplification of all that is Christlike in human character. Modest, gentle, sweet spirited, charitable None could know him and not love him. The character and life of this good man can be but imperfectly pictured in this short sketch. His life was a sermon. He "was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost." His meek spirit, his honest and sincere nature, his abiding faith in God, his uniform spirituality, were those of a communion with God, it is no wonder that all who came in contact with him marked the transparent purity and the sweet temper of his life; and we are not astonished that he passed peacefully into the embrace of death. The eternal arms were around and about

His life was a checkered one; afflictions sore came in his latter years. He was a long and intense suffer, but he was very patient, his usual remark being, "It is all right, God knows He gloriously anticipated the best.' fulfillment of the promise of Jesus, "Where I am there shall ye be also."

A very devoted wife and other relatives mourn the loss of this good man, which is his infinite gain.

Fully aware of his approaching death, he made arrangements for the funeral service, even selecting the nymns and text. On Sabbath, June 18th, before a large concourse of friends the funeral services were held in the Espy M. E. Church, the sermon being preached by the Rev. Wm. R. Owen, of Shamokin, Pa., from the selected text: Revelations, xxi: 25, "There is No Night There." The sermon was very appropriate and full of encouragement for the bereaved

A life so beautiful, so uniform and consistent, so adorned with heavenly graces, could not but end in glorious triumph. Gloriously he lived triumphantly he died, and while we now take leave of our dear brother, we trust we shall see him again, and by God's help we will greet him, and renew our friendship in that land where there is no night," where death is unknown, and farewells are never said, where we shall see the King in his

McClure's Magazine for July-

McClure's Magazine for July opens with a very complete and instructive account of the automobile as it is seen to-day, no longer a matter of mere promise or experiment, but one of practical, constant use; the article explains what it costs, how it is operated, and just what it will do, setting forth the respective advantages and disadvantages of the various kinds. And it is illustrated with pictures of all the more important types. The recent developments will be a surprise to nost readers, although they have been effected almost under their very eyes.

Another article that gives information of very extraordinary interest is Professor Simon Newcomb's account of the tremendous problems that just now press upon astronor for solution. This article is illustrated from some of the most remarkable of the recent elescopic photographs, especially of the Milky Way, showing clearly stars that the numan eye, even with the aid of the strongest telescope, has never seen.

A biographical sketch of Rudyard Kipling by his friend, Professor Charles Eliot Norton, the only authorized account of Kipling's life ever given to the public, is another interesting contribution. And yet another is Mr. W. A. Fraser's account of the "Soldier Police of the Canadian Northwest," illustrating very finely their exceptional skill, faithfulness, hardihood, and bravery. Miss Tar-bell's account of "Lincoln's Great Victory in 1864" supplies new illustration of the imnense hold that Lincoln secured, by his wism, shrewdness, kindness, and honesty, on he faith and affection of the people; and shows how, when it came to the question of Lincoln's re-election, the mere politicians and agitators could make no head against

There is a generous portion of strong, wholesome, and variously entertaining fiction in the number contributed by William Allen White, Stephen Crane, W. A. Fraser, Booth White, Stephen Crane, W. A. Fraser, Booth Tarkington, and J. H. Cranson, the latter a writer who here makes his first appearance, and makes it in a story that gives good token of the return of joyfulness to literature.
