Eugene Moss of near Nuremberg met with a distressing accident Saturday evening, which resulted in the loss of one of his eyes. He was chopping wood in his back yard, when his wife called him to supper. When he threw down the axe to answer his wife's summons to supper, a chip flew up, striking him in the eye displacing one of the eyeballs. The injury was of such a nature that he was taken to Philadelphia on Monday where an operation was performed and the eyeball removed. Mr. Moss has many relatives in the upper end of Columbia county.

MAIN BUILDING, NATIONAL EXPORT EXPOSITION, SEPT. 14 TO NOV. 30, 1899, AT PHILADELPHIA.

GENERAL HAWLEY'S COMPLIMENTS .- The Famous Soldier, Statesman and Orator Speaks Words of Praise. In a personal letter to the Chief of the Department of Publicity and Promotion, of the National Export Exposition, General Joseph R. Hawley, United States Senator from Connecticut, who was President of the Centennial Commission of 1876, writes:

"I am complimented by the request you make of me concerning the proposed National Export Exposition of American Manufacturers, to be held in Philadelphia this fall. It would be impossible for the business world to devise any scheme of the kind that would not be deserving of the hearty support of all the citizens and the good will of the whole country. It was one of the highest honors of my life that I was President of the Centennial Commission of 1876, from the beginning to the end. Of course we should have failed had it not been for the powerful, patriotic and constant support of all the strong men of Philadelphia. Your Exposition and Commercial Congress are both grand conceptions, and I look forward to a splendid beginning and ending of Further on in his letter General Hawley, referring to an invitation extended to be present at the convening of the Commercial Congress, says that it will give him pleasure to attend and address the delegates.

queer Blunder at a Wedding.

A marriage of a singular character recently took place at the registrar's office, Langport, England. The bride and bridegroom, supported by the usual escort, having presented themselves, the registrar requested the witnesses to be seated, and, addressing the bridegroom and lady, who remained standing, elicited from them solemn declarations of knowing no lawful impediment to being joined in matrimony. Having called those present to witness, they took each other as husband and wife, it remained only for the bridegroom to slip the golden hoop on the fair one's finger, when, much to the astonishment of the registrar, the bridegroom mustered courage to ejaculate in the Somerset vernacular: "Thic be the young 'coman I wants to get married to over there," pointing to one of the patient witnesses. It was then discovered that the bridegroom had married his own sister. The marriage, of course, was invalid, and after rearranging the parties the ceremony was performed
