

MISS GRANT MARRIED

Becomes the Wife of a Russian Nobleman.

A TWICE PERFORMED CEREMONY.

Quaint Marriage Rites of the Greek Church to be Followed by Nuptials in Accordance With American Statutes.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—In accordance with the rites of the Russian Orthodox church, Miss Julia Dent Grant, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant and granddaughter of one of America's greatest military leaders, General Ulysses S. Grant, last night became the bride of Prince Cantacuzene, Count Spransky, of Russia after simple but impressive ceremonies conducted by Father Hotovitsky of the Russian church, New York.

The queer service last evening in the parlor of Beaulieu, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, uncle and aunt of the bride, had charms which did not fail to impress the few who witnessed it, as it was entirely in keeping with the somewhat novel marriage of an American girl to a foreign nobleman. A special altar had been raised in the parlor by Father Hotovitsky and his assistant. After the room had been formally consecrated, at half past 8 o'clock, the bride appeared at the head of the grand staircase leaning on the arm of her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, third, while at the altar, before which stood the Russian divine, waited Prince Cantacuzene, clad in the full uniform of the chevalier garde. The bride's dress was severely cut and was a simple gown of the richest white satin, with sweeping train and veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley and wore the gifts of the bridegroom, a corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel and a rope of pearls.

Mr. Grant conducted his sister to the altar in the absence of General Fred D. Grant, now serving in the Philippines. The picturesque ritual, interspersed with frequent music by a local quartet, was quite lengthy, the sacred rites of the betrothal marriage being especially interesting and impressive. The services closed with the singing of the Russian national hymn, after which the couple received congratulations, while the orchestra discoursed sweet music. The ceremony consumed fully an hour, and it was nearly midnight before the guests finally departed.

The Second Wedding.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—The wedding of Miss Julia Dent Grant and Prince Michael Cantacuzene of Russia, according to the custom of the Episcopal church, was celebrated at noon yesterday at All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church and was followed by a reception and wedding breakfast at Beaulieu, the summer home of Mrs. Potter Palmer, the bride's aunt.

Regiments Filling Rapidly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The total enlistments for the 12 volunteer regiments last called out aggregate 10,554, of which number 714 men were secured Monday. The Thirty-ninth, at Fort Crook, Neb., is nearly up to the limit, with 1,281 men, and the Forty-fourth, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; the Forty-fifth, at Fort Snelling, Minn., and the Forty-sixth, at South Framingham, Mass., each has recruited more than 1,000 men.

Fruit Destroyed in Michigan.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Sept. 27.—Reports received here from various parts throughout the apple district are to the effect that a terrible northwest gale has stripped of fruit hundreds of apple trees, as well as many peach trees. Leading growers estimate that fully one-fourth of the apple crop has been blown from the trees and that 100,000 bushels of apples will be a total loss.

She promised to be in attendance at the entertainment at the Metropolitan Opera House on Saturday night.

DEWEY COMES HOME.

The Admiral Takes New York by Surprise.

TWO DAYS AHEAD OF TIME.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Admiral George Dewey arrived off New York at dawn yesterday, and the Olympia is now anchored in American waters in the light of Sandy Hook.

The first shout of welcome was from the pilots and crew of pilot boat No. 7, 15 miles south of the Hook lightship. It happened to be Pilot John Peterson's turn, and at 5:30 a. m. he was put aboard the Olympia and brought her around the Hook and into the lower bay. The marine observers along the coast had sighted the Olympia in the first light of the morning. The shore batteries of Fort Hancock, manned by gunners called from breakfast, let loose 17 guns. The flagship replied with 21 and let go her anchors not far from where the cup challenger Shamrock is moored. The admiral was in his own country again after 23 months' absence. He had returned "great with the arduous greatness of things done," and he seemed to want to realize it. The pilot had brought aboard the Sunday papers, and a reporter was received by the admiral in a cabin littered

STRAY PARAGRAPHS.

Loveless marriages are not as desirable as chainless wheels or horseless carriages.

—Yes, Maude dear, that class of girls known as "belles" add the greatest tone to society.

—The recent continued rain storm has demonstrated the fact that many of our street crossings need the attention of our Town Fathers.

—In classic Boston, we observe, that the girls are selling their kisses at $1 apiece. In this respect the damsels of our town are more liberal as kisses are gratis, with an occasional bug thrown in.

—It is not necessary for a woman during courtship," said a judge in a recent case, "to inform her intended husband of any device or attachment to improve the work of nature in the construction of her face, form or figure." This was apropos of a charge of deception by wearing glasses to conceal a glass eye.

—Nocturnal altercations seem to be the order with some of our young men at present. As a result of a twelve o'clock argument Monday night, between a Bloomsburger and a Danvillian, the latter went home with an eye resembling a grape peel turned inside out. He may continue his visits to our town but it is safe to say that they won't speak as they pass by. There was a woman in the case.

ADMIRAL GEORGE DEWEY.

ed by the illustrated Dewey editions, which together made hundreds of pages in black and white and in colors all about the great admiral and the preparations made to receive him.

"It almost saddens me," he said, "to see what my people are doing for me. The pride and gratification are immense, and I cannot express the appreciation I feel. I didn't know—I didn't really perceive—until this morning—the splendid welcome that my countrymen are giving me. The governors of many states are coming to see me, and troops from Florida, Georgia and other faraway states are on their way to take part in receiving me."

The admiral stroked the head of a tawny haired dog, the chow dog of a Chinese breed that appears in the illustrated interviews with the admiral. "Bob here," he said, "is not well; he yearns to be ashore; he is sick to get a little grass and to scamper around. I feel a good deal that way myself. I am mighty glad to get home. It isn't good for a man any more than a dog to live on shipboard for 23 months."

The admiral said that he felt tired, but he did not look so. His complexion is a clear bronze, his hazel eyes bright, his bearing brisk and rather jaunty. Some deep lines are under his eyes and around his mouth, but his voice is singularly clear and pleasant. The admiral's whole presence is that of a man in his fullest. His manner is gentle and kind, but he is exceedingly wary and did not permit himself to wander off into politics or to express those positive views he no doubt holds about the Philippines and American affairs there. His attention was brought to interviews in which he is described as going rather fully into the character of the Filipinos and their fitness for self government.

"I cannot stand for any interview giving my opinions on political subjects and the Philippines. I disown any views ascribed to me on those subjects."

Alluding to his arrival two days ahead of the time he was expected, Admiral Dewey said:

"I am sorry that I am ahead of the schedule. The Olympia has been steaming at the uniform rate of ten knots an hour since we left Gibraltar. Several days ago we knew that we would arrive before Thursday unless we moderated our speed or went somewhere out of our course."

"Captain Lambertson, Lieutenant Brambley and I held a consultation. The propriety of running into Hampton Roads or some other port in the south was spoken of, but we concluded that we ought not to touch land first anywhere except New York. It was suggested that we cruise some distance outside New York harbor until Thursday, but we knew that if we did that we would be discovered and reported. The weather looked a little squally, and it seemed to me better to be inside the Hook than outside. But the consideration that really decided us to come into port was to give Captain Lambertson a chance to clean up the ship before our voyage up the harbor. Captain Lambertson and I are very proud of the Olympia, and we wanted enough time at our anchorage to rub her down and make her look spic and span."

The Olympia looks as smart now as a yacht. The anchors were hardly down before details of the crew were washing the ship's white sides and touching up the staves with paint.

"Admiral Dewey is delighted, as is every one aboard, to reach his native shores again. He is much moved by the great kindness and enthusiasm of the people, and though shrinking from too much ceremony and public display, feels deeply the regard of which these are the outcome. In fact he feels and expresses himself precisely as a man of his fine and modest temperament may be expected to do. The country honors in him these fine qualities as well as those sterner ones which have given him his fame."

All day tugs, sailboats and excursion steamers came up near the Olympia and took a look at her. Everybody who asked was permitted to come on board. Some of the parties of sightseers on launches and steamers were invited by the officer of the deck to come up the gangway.
