Extensive improvements are to be made to Institute Hall of the Normal during the vacation period. A new clock tower will be built in front, and the entrance reconstructed and enlarged.

Census Supervisor Durant, of Wilkes-Barre, has issued a special order, calling attention to provision of the census act forbidding enumerators to make public any information regarding their work.

R. M. McBride and James Goss have been awarded the contract, and are at present at work repainting the mail boxes of town. The finish is of aluminum, with the letters in red, which produces a very pleasing effect.

The M. E. Sunday School will render a patriotic service on Sunday morning July 1st, at 7:30. The committee have arranged a beautiful program, and the friends of the school who attend will not be disappointed.

Mrs. Lydia Mendenhall, who a few months ago moved here from Lewisburg to spend the residue of her life with her sister, Mrs. Martha Drinker, on First street, died Monday evening. She was born in Greenwood township, this county in 1817. The funeral took place yesterday.

Mrs. Hetty Greene's admonition to girls not to marry until they are old enough to know what they are doing, says the Bellefonte Watchman will have little effect on Dame Cupid's business. The trouble is there are so many girls who only get old enough to know what they have done, after they are married.

The ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling of a beautiful image of the Saviour, which has been presented to St. Columba's Catholic Church, were largely attended by followers of that faith Friday evening and were very impressive. Rev. Father Barr was assisted by Bishop Shanahan, of Harrisburg, and Father Reily, of Danville.

BY ACCLAMATION.

All For McKinley For a Second Term.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION.

Roosevelt Named For Vice President Without Opposition.

OVATION FOR THE FAVORITE.

Senator Foraker Nominates McKinley and Governor Roosevelt Second—Young of Iowa Withdraws—Dolliver and Names the Rough Riders—Dewey and Others Second. The Convention Adjourns.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—President McKinley was unanimously renominated for president of the United States by the Republican national convention at 1:48 o'clock yesterday, and an hour and ten minutes later Governor Theodore Roosevelt of New York was unanimously selected to stand beside him in the coming battle.

The scenes attending the selections were tumultuous. Such unanimous demonstrations in honor of the nominees of a national convention have never been equaled perhaps in the history of politics in this country. It was a love feast, a jubilee, a ratification meeting.

A flutter of handkerchiefs filled the air, and a cheer went up from the delegates in the pit as Senator Foraker of Ohio, the ideal of militant Republicanism, strode toward the platform. Foraker is a grand looking man, with something of the imperiousness of Blaine and the dash of a Rupert about him. The air was surcharged with electricity as he mounted the steps, and when he turned about, standing there with gray eyes calmly sweeping the cheering thousands, the magnetic orator must have been conscious of his power to call up a storm that would sweep through the amphitheater. Below him, about him on either side, were banked men and women almost frantically waving hats, handkerchiefs and pampas plumes.

In full view of the convention he stood erect, his face as inflexible as though chiseled in marble, waiting for the applause to cease. When quiet was restored, he spoke in part as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention—Alabama yields to Ohio, and I thank her, but Alabama has yielded by reason of a fact that would seem unimportant and superfluous, for she has yielded because our candidate has in fact already been nominated. He was named by Senator Wolcott in his able speech of Tuesday. He was nominated by Senator Lodge in his address of yesterday and by the senator from Indiana when he read the platform, and not only has he been nominated by them, but by the whole American people.

"From one end of our land to the other but one man is thought of for the honor that we are here to confer. He is the first choice of every man who wishes for Republican success next fall. So it is not necessary for me or any one else to speak for him. He has already spoken for himself and to all the world. He has a record replete with brilliant achievements, one that speaks at once his promises for the future and one that is his highest eulogy. It constitutes an example of triumphant success in the discharge of public duty. Four years ago we confided to him a most sacred trust. Behold what results! Our industries were prostrated. He quickened them with a new life and brought to our country unprecedented prosperity.

"In all the nation there is no man so fitted as the great leader who has conducted national affairs in the last four trying years.

"He has courage and experience. He has a stainless reputation and a blameless life that have endeared him to his country and won him the love and respect of the whole people. He is an ideal man. He is an ideal candidate. For all these considerations, not alone in behalf of Ohio, but in behalf of every state in the Union and of Republicans everywhere, I nominate William McKinley."

At the utterance of McKinley's name the audience began to cheer. The sight was a grand and inspiring one. In the pit delegates and aspirants were cheering enthusiastically. Over the acres of spectators bedlam reigned. The hall was an angry sea of tossing color. Flags, red white and blue plumes shot up as if by magic to crest the waves. Hats were lifted aloft on canes. Umbrellas were hoisted and twisted until they resembled derisives.

On the press platform the newspaper men, with watches out, were counting the minutes. On the stage Senator Hanna, his handkerchief in one hand, a fan in the other, was spinning the vast assemblage to new endeavors. The raging storm did not seem to satisfy him. He seized a plume and whirled it about his head like a general leading his men to the charge. All at once a delegate bearing the standard of Kentucky rushed forward to the stage. The effect was magical.

platform to rally around their leader. With state guidons pointed to a common center they made a canopy over the head of the Warwick of the Republican party. Ohio interlocked her staff with New York, Maine figuratively kissed her hand to California, and Minnesota saluted Texas. Then higher still climbed Hanna. He mounted a table where he could look out upon the cheering multitude. Beside him suddenly appeared a young girl arrayed in the national colors. At this sight the cheers redoubled. The music of the orchestra was drowned in the awful din.

At 12:40 o'clock Chairman Lodge ordered a call of the roll of states for balloting for president.

The roll call was concluded at 12:50 o'clock, Hawaii casting the last two votes for McKinley.

A minute later Chairman Lodge announced: "There have been cast 929 votes, all for William McKinley, and I announce his unanimous nomination for president for the term beginning March 4, 1901."

The band struck up "The Battle Cry of Freedom," the delegates joined in the chorus, and there was an outburst of applause.

Then an immense imitation elephant walked majestically down the center aisle, causing much amusement.

Order was soon restored, because every one was eager for the nomination of Roosevelt to begin. Chairman Lodge appealed for quiet. He said it would be impossible to go on without order in the galleries. He called the attention of the delegates to the fact that there was much work for the convention to do after the nominations were completed.

As the name of Alabama was called on the roll of states for the nomination of candidates for vice president the announcement was made by the chairman of the delegation that Alabama would yield to Iowa to present a candidate.

Chairman Lodge then recognized Colonel Lafe Young, one of the Iowa delegates at large. Robust and vigorous in his physique and in his mentality, Colonel Young swung down the main aisle to the platform to do that which a single orator never before did in a Republican national convention—withdraw one strong and magnetic man as a candidate and present the name of another for the second office in the gift of the American people. He withdrew the name of Dolliver and offered that of Roosevelt.

Colonel Young was in Cuba at the time Roosevelt led his gallant rough riders up San Juan hill, and his reference to the governor's campaign was eloquent and touching.

The demonstration which followed the announcement by Colonel Young of Governor Roosevelt as the candidate of the young men of the country, who represented their desires and their ambitions and embodied their patriotism and Americanism, was not second to that accorded the president's name. When quiet was restored, the chair recognized Mr. Murray of Massachusetts to second the nomination.

The names of other candidates for vice president were withdrawn, and the roll of states was called. At the conclusion of the call Chairman Lodge announced that Governor Roosevelt had received 929 votes, one delegate in the convention not voting. This delegate was Governor Roosevelt himself, who refrained from voting with the New York delegation.

Resolutions of thanks to Mr. Lodge and to Mr. Wolcott for their able services as presiding officers were unanimously adopted; also thanks to Mayor Ashbridge of Philadelphia for the hospitality of the city and to all officials of the convention. This closed the work, and on motion of Severo E. Payne of New York the Republican national convention of 1900 adjourned sine die.

The national committee met after the convention and re-elected M. A. Hanna chairman of that committee.

TO SHUT DOWN. Danville's Bessemer Blast Furnace to Close For Good.

The Danville Sun says that a very persistent rumor has been current in that city during the last couple of days to the effect that the blast furnace of the Bessemer Steel Company will go out of blast on the 15th of next month. An inquiry at the office of the plant failed to elicit anything that would confirm or deny the rumor. Upon the shutting down of the steel plant the blast furnace, which had been making bessemer pig, entered upon the manufacture of mill iron. We are told that there is no sale for this iron at any price and that all that has been manufactured has been piled up on the grounds. The rumor seems to be a well founded one, and persons in a good position to know have no doubt that it is the intention of the company to close down the plant at the time designated, which will be about the time that the stock on hand is used up. If the furnace closes down, after the present experiment in its operation it is doubtful if it will ever again be put into blast. Certainly not until a more promising boom roll along than the one which started it up this time.—Sunbury Daily.

CELEBRATE THE FOURTH. A Beautiful Patriotic Picture Which Everybody Can Have Free Next Sunday.

"A Patriotic Pair" is the title of a beautiful picture which will be given free to every reader of the "Great Philadelphia Sunday Press" next Sunday, July 1. The picture is 20 by 28 inches in size and presents two pretty children equipped for the celebration of the day. It is the work of a famous artist and cannot fail to please every person. People in the country who are annoyed by flies should remember that clusters of the fragrant clover, which grows abundantly by nearly every roadside, if hung in the room and left to dry and shed its fragrant perfume through the air, will drive away more flies than sticky saucers of molasses and other fly traps and fly papers can ever collect.
