

WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Telephone Lines to Europe Assured by a Late Invention.

Dr. Pupin Sells His Wonderful Long-Distance System for $200,000 in Cash and a Yearly Salary of $7,500.

The Electrical Review announces the purchase by the American Telephone & Telegraph company of the patents of Dr. M. I. Pupin, of Columbia college, which, it states, cover the art of ocean telephony and which enable telephone messages to be sent over any length of land lines. It further states that the sum of $200,000 has been paid to Dr. Pupin for the invention, with an annual salary to him during the life of the patents of $7,500.

The invention referred to and for which two patents were issued in June 1900, is described at length, and it is characterized as one of the most brilliant and exceptional inventions of Dr. Pupin.

It was thought necessary in order to talk a given distance, say 500 miles, in underground cables to employ large copper wires covered with insulating material. The expense of such wires and material has been sufficient to prevent the construction of long underground circuits. Dr. Pupin's invention is declared to furnish a method whereby conductors of relatively small diameter covered with insulating material of moderate thickness may be used in place of the large and expensive conductors frequently thought to be necessary.

The Electrical Review, in describing the invention, says:

"The essential feature of the invention, following the elaborate mathematical analysis of the subject by Dr. Pupin, consists of the application of inductance and capacity to such a circuit that is to all intents and purposes equivalent to a continuous distribution of these qualities, but which is at the same time practically possible and commercial."

"Inasmuch as practically all waves that are used in the transmission of signals or of sounds through the telephones are of a highly complex character, containing many elements of different wave length and frequency, and since the attenuation suffered by any wave is directly dependent upon its frequency and wave length, it happens that in ordinary circuits waves are not only attenuated and dampened in the amplitude of their vibration, but are also distorted by the more rapid suppression of their high frequency elements and thus so transformed in character that, particularly in the case of telephonic work, they remain no longer recognizable as the original waves impressed upon the sending end of the circuit.

"Dr. Pupin's investigation, begun by considering the remarkable physical analogy between the case of a vibrating string and that of an electrical conductor transmitting waves, led him to conclude that a formula might be arrived at expressing the dimensions of inductance coils and condensers necessary to add to a given circuit in order to produce an effect sufficiently close to the ideal distortionless circuit for practicable purposes."

"Experimenting with artificial conductors, he discovered that it was possible to telephone over vastly greater lengths of cable of high capacity than had ever been possible before, and that, so far as land line telephone or rapid telegraphy is concerned, he was able to improve existing conditions as to make any reasonable or desired length of telephonic circuit easily possible. Indeed, in the paper read before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at Philadelphia, May 18, 1900, he showed a design for inductance coils to be introduced at appropriate intervals in the length of a transatlantic cable, which, he demonstrated, would allow telephonic conversation to be held across the Atlantic ocean."

"It is believed by those who have investigated the subject fully that the improvement which his inventions contemplate will enable telephony over land lines of any length that are in use to-day, and will solve the difficult and attractive problem of oceanic telephony."

Horse Races with Train. Capt. Baron Holzinger, of the Baden dragons, recently rode a horse on the public highway 15 kilometers, or nine miles, in 25 minutes. He raced against a railroad train to Karlsruhe and beat it by eight minutes. The horse had been trained for weeks on a new form of horse cake.

Once Was Jefferson's Slave. Thomas Jefferson's last surviving slave died in Cincinnati a few days ago. He was born at Monticello in 1815, purchased his freedom in 1848, removed west and became a Baptist preacher.

INSANITY IN ARMY CAMPS.

A Medical Authority Says That Not Infrequently Military Commanders Are Mentally Unbalanced.

Mental disease in military life may be more common and more productive of evil than we think. If an insane commander is given such a position that all subordinates cannot possibly criticize or make their suspicions known for fear of the swift punishment that follows lack of discipline, insidious and awful errors and wrongs may result and may continue a long time before superior and far-away officers suspect the true condition. It is said that during a recent war a balloon was sent up which, instead of defining the enemy's position, revealed that of the general ordering the balloon, and of his troops, to 100 gunners who only awaited the indication to play havoc with their shells, says the Philadelphia Medical Journal.

The commander, it is further said, is now known to have been insane, his father, mother and sisters having died insane. Suppose that chronic meningitis should exist in a general intrusted with the conduct of a campaign far from the seat of the central government, and that he should have delusions of grandeur, with other symptoms of profound but not easily recognized morbid mental action. Incalculable mischief would ensue before he would be suspected and before he could be recalled. The application of psychiatry to military life is a suggestion of possible tremendous significance in view of the wars existing in all parts of the world many thousands of miles away from the capitals of civilization.

THE GRIP EPIDEMIC.

THE DISEASE MORE PREVALENT THAN EVER AND QUITE AS FATAL—THE BEST TREATMENT.

The grip has surprised the doctors and health authorities this season by its rapid spread and by some novel symptoms. While it spares nobody it is proving especially dangerous to middle-aged and elderly persons. In many cases either a fatal onset of pneumonia, or a complete breakdown of health and strength, is apt to follow an attack of grip.

The wise course for all is prevention. By wearing a Benson's Porous Plaster on the chest and back you protect the lungs from cold and chill (with ordinary care) you are safe from grip.

For those who are already suffering from grip, or from the usual winter coughs and colds, Benson's Plasters are a sure and speedy relief and cure. Highly medicinal and scientific.

Refuse imitations and substitutes. Only the genuine are effective. Examine when you buy. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, New York.

A REMEDY FOR THE GRIPPE.—A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the gripe is KEMP'S BALSAM, which is especially adapted for the throat and lungs. Don't wait for the first symptoms of the disease, get a bottle to-day and keep it for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the gripe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. KEMP'S BALSAM prevents this by keeping the cough loose and the lungs free from inflammation. All druggists sell KEMP'S BALSAM at 25c and 50c. 1-17441
