FATHER OF THE SKYSCRAPER.

Designer of the Modern Steel Structure-The Latter's End Still Unknown.

Where land is so valuable that every square inch represents a dollar or more, business blocks must go into the air instead of spreading over the ground. By the old methods of building it would be hard to carry a structure higher than five or six stories, unless the walls were made as thick as a fortress. So a man with an imagination struck out a new method, cmbodying in steel an idea that is working a revolution in the business centers of cities.

Like other wonderful developments of recent years, the sky-scraper has become so common that to some it may seem commonplace, says the Youth's Companion. Yet George A. Fuller, the designer of it, was only 49 years old when he died in Chicago the other day. Indeed, it is only a few years since the improvement in elevators made it possible to rent offices ten or more stories above the street; and almost simultaneous was the decline in the price of structural steel to a point which enabled builders everywhere to gain the advantages offered by the steel-frame construction. Chief of these is the fact that a skyscraper may be carried to almost any altitude, like the St. Paul building in New York, which is 26 stories high, and rises more than 300 feet above the street level. Such a building yields an enormous rental. There are no massive walls to reduce the rental space. Tenants willingly pay high rates for the light and airy offices. The structure shelters as many persons as a whole township, and it provides facil-Ities and conveniences few towns could afford. Whether the steel skeletons will ultimately corrode and crumble, time will tell. At present we know the skyscrapers are practically fire-proof, and seem beyond the power of any recognized agency of destruction. If it shall prove that the designer of them did tions. not build for the twenty-first century. it must at least be admitted that he served his own generation well.

HUMOR IN THE AMBULANCE.

Doctor's Story of the Ride of a Man and Woman with Broken

"When I was an ambulance surgeon," said the young family physician to a New York Sun reporter, "I used to start like a fire horse at the sound of the call. I was just as much interested in the work at the end of two years as I was the day 1 began. It was the excitement of the life that made me so fond of it. I had all sorts of experiences at all sorts of hours. V. There was an element of danger in it too, but that only added to the

"One night I had a call from the West side in the neighborhood of Chelsea square. It was for a drunken man who fell down and broke his leg. On the way back to the hospital with him I picked up a drunken woman to whom a similar accident had happened. There was nothing to do but put her in the ambulance along with the man.

"After that the ride across town was exciting enough for a cowboy. At first the patients sympathized Young Ladies. with each other. Then they began to ery in chorus. At Broadway they fell to kissing each other. At Third CITIS, avenue they were fighting like a pair of Kilkenny cats, and I had my hands full in keeping them apart. The Voung Men, woman had scratched the man's face dreadfully and he had nearly closed her eye with a punch. When we struck the asphalt in Twenty-sixth street they were singing: 'We have all been there before, many a time,' everywhere can earn $6.00 per week in spare tracted a crowd who evidently the office they parted in tears."

WANTED THEM CHAINED.

Shrewd Trick Upon English Scouts Who Gave De Wet Too Much Trouble.

Grim as he is reported to be, the Boer commandant, Christian De Wet, who is just now giving the British in South Africa no end of trouble, is capable of humor, though of a sort that does not always please his antagonists. Some time ago three yeomanry scouts were taken prisoners by him. The Boer, who does not care to be burdened with prisoners, told these three yeomen, on being brought before him, that he had an important dispatch for Gen. Rundle and if they would undertake to personally deliver it to the general he would give them back their liberty. Naturally they were elated at the proposal, and all three gave De Wet their word of honor to deliver the missive into Gen. Rundle's own hands. They received it, a large envelope, well sealed, and with all the outward appearance of containing some important document. Possibly they may have thought it contained a proposal from De Wet to Rundle to surrender. In any case they lost no time in saddling up and covered the ground in haste. On reaching Rundle's headquarters they insisted on handing the letter to the general personally, and on his opening it-the three braves still standing as his audiencehe read aloud the contents as follows: To Gen. Rundle-Dear Sir: Please chain up these three devils, as I can't cate them every day. Yours, DE WET. entch

"Cleanliness is next to godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the outside. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poison-ing the blood with its foul emanations, beogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other single disorder. The consequences of con-stipation are legion. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coldness of the extremities, nervous, indec sion, lassitude, dizziness, sallowness, flatulence, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipution. Cure con-tipation and you cure its consequences. The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result They cure permanently They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beget the "pill habit."

The Victim Wore Two Sults and Foiled the Efforts of a Tar-and-Feather Gang.

It takes an agile-headed man to get ahead of a tar-and-feather party, and such a man is Edgar Plato, a planist by profession, and a resident of Topeka, Kan. About six weeks ago Plato, who was divorced, married Mrs. Hamilton, an alfalfa widow, living two miles north of Topeka. After closing the store one night he and his wife started home in a buggy. When they reached the outskirts of North Topeka a gang of masked men stopped the horse, pulled Plato out of
