HIS LIFE-WORK DONE

Herbert Spencer, Greatest Philosopher of Our Generation.

Has Been Poorly Paid for His Unrivaled Contributions to the World's Best Thought - His Deep Love of Truth,

Herbert Spencer, whose name will live in the world of thought as that of one of the nineteenth century's greatest thinkers, has recently passed his eighty-first birthday. After a lifetime of self-sacrifice and privations, the great philosopher finds himself at the threshold of the grave almost as poor in worldly possessions as when he started the career that has brought him so much fame, but so little pecuniary recognition. There is something almost pathetic in the lifework of a man like Herbert Spencer. The son of a schoolmaster, Mr. Spencer was educated very largely at home by his father, though he also went to a school at Bath, England, the headmaster of which was his uncle. From 1837 to 1846 he plied the profession of a civil engineer, and for five years later acted as subeditor of the London Economist before he turned to the work with which his name will always be identified.

It is as a popular philosopher that Herbert Spencer seems to hold his reputation, and yet one must read the account of his self-sacrifice and privation before one can realize the tremendous battle which the best known philosopher of this century found any readers at all. "Social Statics," certainly a rather unhandy book, took 14 years to sell, although the edition ran only to 750 copies. The "Principles of Psychology," with a first edition of 750 copies, did not sell out for 12 years, and at the end of 15 years the author lost no less than $6,000 through his publications. The strongest man, however, is the man who can wait, and Herbert Spencer waited. The scientific method of studying human life began to find willing pupils, not only among scientists, but also among young students of philosophy at the universities and workingmen, who gave up their evenings to the study of technical or social sciences. Few books of philosophy have enjoyed so wide a popularity or sale as the "Data of Ethics," where flowing and persuasive argument delight and enchant the reader.

Spencer's life, says the Detroit Free Press, has been in some measure a contradiction of the theory of heredity. Born and bred in an atmosphere away—all except the paper, which is of Methodism and democratic politics, he has been the arch-apostle of individualism, and is going down to the grave an agnostic. But the spirit of the pure home life of his early days has remained with him. His sense of justice, his love of truth, are as keen as his desire to know.

His great life work, "A System of Synthetic Philosophy," is perhaps the greatest scientific literary undertaking ever accomplished by a single man. Its ten volumes have occupied Mr. Spencer's life for practically 40 years.

Ill health joined hands with poverty in fighting against the progress of the tremendous work Mr. Spencer had taken upon himself, and breakdown followed breakdown. But at last he was able to write "Finis" to volume ten, and to record his "satisfaction in the consciousness' that losses, discouragements and shattered health have not prevented me from fulfilling the purpose of my life."

Black Cat Brings III Luck.

The evil influence of a black cat has brought to ashes the fine country residence of George Walradt, near Columbus. Neb. The animal was a stray cat which the family had adopted for luck and nad been fed and groomed until its coat shone like velvet. After the family had left the supper table the impatient animal sprang upon the table, and in reaching for a juicy morsel upset the kerosene lamp. Hard work on the part of the family and the neighbors resulted in saving part of the household goods. The building was burned to the ground with a loss of $5,000. The black mischief maker has not been seen since.

DR. IRA C. REMSEN.

New President of Johns Hopkins University Is a Scholar of International Reputation.

Dr. Ira C. Remsen, the new president of Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore, has been a member of the faculty in that institution, chiefly in the chair of chemistry, since its foundation in 1876. When Dr. Gilman started out to build up a faculty Dr. Remsen was the first man to whom he tendered a chair. For 25 years he has been the confidant and adviser of Dr. Gilman, and he is regarded by both students and faculty as a thorough scholar and an able educator. All the time during which his famous predecessor was abroad Dr. Remsen was the acting president of Johns Hopkins. At 56 he is in the prime of his intellectual power. He is a graduate of the medical school of Columbia college, a post graduate of Munich and Goettingen (Ph. D.) and an authority in chemistry whose fame is international. Dr. Remsen has been several times tendered most tempting offers by the University of Chicago, but his love for Johns Hopkins has always prevented his acceptance. His election to the presidency is regarded as a fitting reward for his loyalty.

PROFITS FROM WASTE.

Financial Gain of a Big City from the Gathering of Trifles in Public Buildings.

Very few people know what becomes of the waste which they scatter over the floors of the city hall or throw heedlessly into the baskets of that mighty pile, says the Philadelphia Record. Yet the city makes from $300 to $600 and $700 on this waste every year. The cleaning of the building has been intrusted to the public buildings commission and to the chief of the bureau of city property, the former having charge of the corridors, the latter dominating over the 630 odd rooms in the edifice. Each, in turn, employs a large force of sweepers.

On each floor are four receptacles, with great bronze doorways, situated in the supporting walls and opening into a shaft that runs from the roof to the basement, where it enters a large room called the "waste basket." These rooms are cleaned out twice a week, and their contents carted always separated from the other waste matter and sold.

In amount of rubbish the city commissioners hold first place, the survey bureau second, the council chambers third and the buildings commission fourth. From them come specifications, ballots, old correspondence, drawings and iron, copper and tin waste, which all sell at good prices. All the profits from this source are turned over by the various heads to he city treasurer.

Requires a foundation. That is just as true of the building up of the body as of the building of a house. The foundation of a strong body is a strong stomach. No man can be stronger than his stomach. A weak stomach means a weak man.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food which is eaten. it builds up the body and restores strength in the only way known to Nature or to science—by digested and assimilated food,

"While living in Charlotte, N. C., your medicine cured me of asthma and nasal catarrh of ten years" standing," writes J. L. Lumslen, Esq., of 221 Whitehall Street, Aflanta, Ga. "At that time life was a burden to me, and after spending hundreds of dollars under numerous doctors I was dying by inches. I weighed only 131 pounds. In twenty days after I commenced your treatment I was well of both troubles, and in six mouths I weighed 170 pounds, and was in perfect health. I have never felt the slightest symptom of either since. Am sixty-five years old and in perfect health, and weigh 150 pounds. No money could repay you for what you did for me. I would not return to the condition I was in, in October, 1872, for Rockefeller's wealth."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery," when a laxative is required.
