

Made Himself a Human Toboggan

Strapped to a Plank, with Body of Girl Lashed to Him, Prof. McElfresh Dashed to Safety

Unconscious, borne over crevasses and glaciers in the arms of companions, and finally, when hope was almost gone, saved by the daring invention and heroic feat of one man who turned himself into a human toboggan...

Miss Rawson was one of a party of 25 who started to make the ascent of Mount Hood. The climb to the crater is a desperate one. The Tacoma correspondent of the Chicago Tribune describes the adventure as follows:

At noon, when the party had reached a point 300 yards below the crater rock, a blizzard swept over the peak. Exhausted by the climb and overcome by the intense cold Miss Rawson became unconscious.

Calls were sent for assistance from those who had already reached the summit, and the men rushed down and carried Miss Rawson and her companion, Miss Julia Hall, who was still able to walk, to a more sheltered spot, where an effort was made to revive the unconscious girl.

Finally the great snow field below the crater was reached. By this time the men had begun to fear that Miss Rawson would never survive the journey, and the need of getting her to shelter and warmth became every minute more imperative.

The party halted in despair. Then Prof. McElfresh, of Corvallis, Ore., suggested that a sled be built out of a rough board on which Miss Rawson had been carried for a time and the heavy sacks in which she had been wrapped to save her from freezing.

Prof. McElfresh then came forward with another suggestion. He proposed to make himself a human toboggan, to hold the girl in his arms, while he, stretched on and strapped to the plank, would make the attempt to coast down the mountain side.

As there was no other chance, the party accepted the suggestion, dangerous as it was. Prof. McElfresh, stretched at full length, was tightly bound to the board, ropes were rigged that he might have a chance to guide his toboggan, then Miss Rawson's unconscious body was strapped tightly down upon his prostrate form, feet to feet and body to body.

The other men poised the toboggan on the edge of the steep, gave it a shove, and the man and girl shot out over the glacier and down through the snow.

When the timber line was reached the professor, cutting himself loose, worked over the girl until the rest of the party made the descent.

Then the party carried Miss Rawson to the Mazza camp, where the women took the girl in charge, wrapped her in hot blankets, placed hot water bottles to her feet, and poured stimulants and hot broth between her lips until consciousness returned. Later Dr. Young, of Seattle, was summoned and to-day Miss Rawson is rapidly recovering from her terrible experience.

THE DESCENT WAS MADE LIKE A FLASH.

Know that in spite of hard work in the clear forest air the blood often becomes impure. The heavy food served in the lumber camps is to a great extent responsible for this condition of the blood, which renders the body an easy prey to many forms of disease.

There is no better blood purifier than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures eruptions, pimples, eczema, scrofula, rheumatism, and other diseases caused by an impure condition of the blood. It cures absolutely and altogether by cleansing the blood from the poisons which breed and feed disease.

Accept no substitute for the "Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for the blood.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. James Murphy, of Fond du Lac, Wis. "It has cured me of chronic colitis of twelve years' standing. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, and over 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper cover, or 31 cents for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TOO FUNNY FOR HER.

Fondness for Practical Jokes Lands an Otherwise Exemplary Husband in Divorce Court.

Mrs. Myra Trumbull, of Gainestown, Fla., asked the courts for a divorce from her husband, John T. Trumbull, on the grounds that John was a practical joker. Mrs. Trumbull said that John never dined with chorus girls, or staid out late at night, or drank until friends carried him home, or chased her with a stove poker, John was always a good and faithful helpmeet, except that he thought it was funny to put cold clammy frogs in his wife's bed and put castor oil in the chocolate cake that she took to a church picnic.

John was so playful that he thought it real good fun when he put a bucket half full of water over the door when his wife expected company, and he thought it was the greatest joke he ever heard of to lure the family cow up the front hall stairs and tie the faithful animal in the spare bedroom. Then he told his wife that her mother had arrived and gone up to her room.

Mrs. Trumbull burst into the spare bedroom with a glad cry of "mother" and kissed the cow three times before she discovered that she had been deceived and hooked in the eye. At one time when mother-in-law really did come for a nice long visit, John had a carpenter fix the stairs so that they folded up like a shutter and the first trip that mother-in-law made down them resulted in her breaking two ribs. Mrs. Trumbull thinks that John is too funny for any use.

Richard Boscha, 14 Years Old, Frequently Acts as Deputy Sheriff Away Out in Arizona.

YOUNG PEACE OFFICER.

The youngest peace officer in the United States lives at Congress, says the Arizona Republican. He is Richard Boscha, 14 years old, the son of Deputy Sheriff Pete Boscha, who has been a deputy sheriff under all administrations in Yavapai county for 20 years—a fearless and efficient officer. Richard Boscha is small for a boy of 14. He has black hair and eyes and a look of great intelligence. He came to Phoenix recently, bringing the 16-year-old son of a county official who had become infatuated with the Coontown 400 and ran away with it. Young Boscha was asked if the young man was glad to go back. "No," he said, "he didn't want to come, but there was no way out of it for him." Another boy, the stepson of a well-known resident of Phoenix, also ran away with the show. He was with it at Congress, but has not been apprehended. The boys were to get one dollar a day and board. Their part in the performance was assistants in the erection of the tent. The next stopping place after Congress the boys understood to be Denver.

Young Mr. Boscha first came into prominence about a year ago by the arrest of a Mexican for whom the officers had been looking for some time. He and another Mexican had fought a duel intended to be deadly, for the favor of a senorita. One of them was wounded and the other left the country. Some months afterward this little boy, then only 13 years old, found the duelist, and at the point of a gun took him into camp.
