A NATION'S DEAD.

Buffalo Pays Tribute to the Martyr President.

SIMPLE SERVICES HELD.

Thousands View Remains Lying In State at the City Hall.

MRS. M'KINLEY BEARS UPBRAVELY

A Cheerless Day-The City in Mourning-Touching Parting Scenes at the Milburn Residence-Hanna Takes Last Look-Immense Throngs About City Hall. Doors Closed at Midnight.

BUFFALO, Sept. 16.—Buffalo has become a city of mourners. The gay and flaming decorations of the Pan-American exposition have given way to the symbol of sorrow. Black drapery lines the bel of sorrow. city's streets. Bits of crape appear on svery sleeve. The sorrow is indescriba-ble. Sunday morning a single service took place at the residence on Delaware avenue where the martyred president died. A hymn was sung and prayer was offered over the dead body. That was all. Only the immediate family and the triends and political associates of the late president were present.

The scene there was pathetic in the ex-reme. Then the body was borne out to the waiting cortege on the brawny shoulders of eight sailors and soldiers of the republic. The cortege passed through solid walls of living humanity, bare-acaded and grief stricken, to the city hall, where the body lay in state in the

There a remarkable demonstration occurred which proved how close the president was to the hearts of the people. Arrangements had been made to allow the public to view the body from the time it arrived, at about 1:30 o'clock, antil about 5 o'clock, but when the body arrived the people were wedged into the streets for blocks far as the eye could reach. Two lines were formed. They extended literally for miles.

When 5 o'clock came, 40,000 people of aiready passed, and the crowds waiting in the streets seemed undiminished. It was decided to extend the time until midnight. Then for hours longer the streets were dense with people, and a constant stream flowed up the steps of the broad entrance into the hall and passed the bier. When the doors were closed at midnight, it was estimated that 80,000 people had viewed the remains, out thousands of disappointed ones were still in the streets. The body lay in the sity hall until morning, when it was taken to the station by a military escort, and at 8:30 the funeral train started for Washington over the Pennsylvania rail-

The day was gray and cheerless. Heavy clouds hung over the city, at times breaking to let through a rift of sunshine and then threatening to let loose a downpour upon the gathering multitude. The air was humid and acavy, and only a light wind from the south stirred the drooping flags and the emblems of mourning. The very elements seemed to lend fitting accompaniment to the scene of sorrow about to be enacted. Long before the time set for the funeral services the vicinity of the Milburn house was astir with prepara-

Within the house of death was wee unspeakable. In the drawing room to the right of the hall as President Roosevelt entered the dead chieftain was stretched upon his bier. His head was to the rising On the noble face upturned to the Creator was written the story of the Christian forbearance with which he had met his martyrdom. "Thy will, not ours, be done," he had murmured when the Iread messenger of death touched and summoned him. A calm and penceful resignation not of earth was on the marble features. Death had emphasized the nobleness of his countenance. Only the hinness of his face bore mute testimony to the patient suffering he had endured He was dressed as he always did in life. The black frock cont was buttoned across the breast, where the first bullet of the nfamous assassin had struck. The black string tie below the standing collar showed the little triangle of white shirt front, The right hand lay at his side. The left was across his body.

The body lay in a black casket on a black bearskin run. Over the lower limbs was flung the starry banner he had loved to well. The flowers were few, as befitted se simple nature of the man.

Two sentries, one from the sea and one from the land, guarded the remains. They stood in the window embrasures behind the head of the casket. The family had taken leave of their toyed one before the others arrived. Mrs. McKinley, the poor grief crushed widow, had been led into the chamber by her physician, Dr. Rixey, and had sat awhile sione with him who had supported and comforted her through all those sweet years of wedded life. But though her support was gone sne man not proken down. Dry eyed she had gazed upon him and fondled his face. She did not seem to realize that he was dead. Then she had been led away by Dr. Rivey and had taken up her position at the head of the stairs where she could hear the service, at the sight of the thin, placid countenance that their frames shook in convulsive sobs. Several clung to the side of the bier and with difficulty could be persuaded to leave. Almost every face was tear stained. The great love for this man choked all the house

Rev. Charles Edward Locke of the Delaware Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the service.

The Deathbed Scenes.

BUFFALO, Sept. 14.-President Mc-Kinley died at 2:15 o'clock this morning. He had been unconscious since 7:50 o'clock last night. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with the wife to whom he devoted a lifetime of care. He died unattended by a minister of the respel, but his last words were a humble submission to the will of the God in thom he believed. He was reconciled to he cruel fate to which an assassin's bulet had condemned him and faced death in the same spirit of columness and poise which had marked his long and honorable career.

The president in his last period of consciousness, which ended about 7:40, chanted the words of the benutiful hymn. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and his last and the conscious words as taken down by Dr. Mann at the bedside were:
"Goodby, all; goodby, It is God's way. His will be done."

BUFFALO TO WASHINGTON. Weeping Thousands Salute the Funeral Train.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Through a living lane of bareheaded people stretching from Buffalo up over the Alleghenys, down into the broad valley of the Sus-quehanna and on to the marble city on the banks of the shining Potomac the nation's martyred president made his last journey to the sent of the government over which he presided for four and a half years. The whole country seemed to have drained its population at the sides of the track over which the funeral train passed. The thin lines through the mounpassed. The time mest through the mountains and the sparsely settled districts thickened at the little hamlets, covered acres in towns suddenly grown to the proportions of respectable cities and were congested into vast multitudes in the larger cities. Work was suspended in field and mine and city. The schools were dismissed. And everywhere appeared the trappings and tokens of woe. A million flags at half mast dotted hillside and valley and formed a thicket of color over the cities. And from almost every banner streamed a bit of crape. The stations were heavy with the black symbols of mourning. At all the larger towns and cities after the train got into Pennsylvania militiamen drawn up at "present arms" kept back the enormous crowds.

The silence with which the countless thousands viewed the remains of their here and martyr was oppressive and profound. Only the rumbling of the train wheels, the sobs from men and women with tear stained faces and the doleful tolling of the church and other bells broke on the ear. At several places, Williamsport, Harrisburg and Baltimore, the chimes played Cardinal Newman's grand hymn. Taken altogether the journey home was the most remarkable demonstration of universal personal sorrow since Lincoln was borne to his grave. Evone of those who came to pay their last tribute to the dead had an opportuni-ty to catch a glimpse of the flag covered bier elevated to view in the observation car at the rear of the train.

The narrow, overhanging vinducts under which the train passed as it drew slowly out of Buffalo bent beneath the weight of crowded humanity, packed there by the pressure of the tide of peo-ple who filled all the adjoining streets. The windows and roofs of the houses and the roofs of the cars in the yards were black with people, all uncovered. When the train had cleared the city, the people were still there, standing at the crossroads and in the fields. It ran literally between two lines of people. Farmers from the surrounding country had driven through the long, dark hours of the night to be at the side of the track, where they could pay their last tribute of

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

A Night's Rest In the Great East Room.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.-The remains of President McKinley last night lay in the east room of the White House, where for more than four years he had made his home as chief executive of the great American republic. Up stairs his widow mourned for her dead in the famsaddest of memories. It was with simple ceremony and a silence that fitted perfectly the sadness of the occasion that the body of the late president was borne along Penpsylvania are silence that the body of the late president was ily apartments that brought back but the borne along Pennsylvania avenue to the White House and laid upon the bier in the great east room where he had stood so often in the pride of his manhood to receive the greetings of the common people he loved better than himself. It was fitting that such ceremony as there was should be severely military in character in recognition of the fact that the president was the commander in chief of the United States army and navy. Nowhere was there a show of civilian participation. The streets about the station were filled with mounted troops, and the station itself was occupled by stalwart soldiers and sailors in uniform. The blue coated policemen and the railroad employees were nearly all that stood for civil life. The train bearing the president's re-mains arrived in the Pennsylvania railroad station at 8:38 last evening. The streets around the station and Pennsylvania avenue from there to beyond the White House were dense with people waiting to view the sad march to the White House,

Mrs. McKinley and the first of the mourning party from Buffalo arrived at the White House at 8:52. The shades of Mrs. McKinley's carriage were closely drawn, and under the most stringent enders from Secretary Cortelyon absolutely no newspaper men or others than officials were admitted even to the White House grounds.

At 9:27 the hearse passed through the White House gate.

The Royal Visit.

QUEBEC, Sept. 18.—The ceremonies of the last day's stay of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall in the ancient capital of Canada included a review of the troops mobilized for their reception, a dinner on the royal yacht Ophir and an illumination of the harbor and city. Rain feil almost incessantly during the day, and the crowds that gathered early in stairs where she could hear the service, the morning were speedily dispersed and About a hundred in all saw the reddiven indoors. The luncheon and genmains. Some were so overcome with grief eral reception at Spencer Wood, official residence of the lieutenant governor, was canceled as a mark of respect to the dead American president, and further plans for an expression of regret were made, but unavoidably abandoned,

The Marietta Sate Home.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18,-The United States gunboat Marietta, Commander J. B. Bleecker, arrived in port last night, 105 days out from Manila, to which place she went shortly after making the famous cruise around Cape Horn from San Francisco with the Oregon. The Marietta has been in commission four years and was ordered home for repairs and a general overhanting. On her way from Manila the Marietta called at the ports of Singapore, Colombo, Bombay, Naples, Madeira and St. George's, Ber-

NO CHANGE IN NATIONAL POLICY,

The New President Also Announces Retention of the Mckinley Cabinet and of Secretary Cortelyou-Proclamation Issued.

BUFFALO, Sept. 16,-"In this hour our terrible national bereavement I wish to say that I shall carry out, absoantely unbroken, the policy of President McKinley for the peace, the prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

With these words warm upon his tips Theodore, Roosevelt, at 35 minutes after 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, took the oath of the president of the United States. He had actually been president since the moment that Mr. Mc-Kinley had expired, the cloak of responsibility shifting without ceremony from the shoulders of the dead president to those of the living.

The oath was administered at the house of Mr. Ansley Wilcox, 641 Delaware avenue, and President Roosevelt's declaration of policy was made in the presence of all the members of the cabinet and a distinguished gathering of friends of the dead chief magistrate as well as of the young, self reliant man who had stepped into his place.

Quits as important as the declaration that he would carry out the McKinley policy was President Roosevelt's request to all the members of the cabinet that they remain in office. This can be taken as indicating that the new president is entering upon his difficult task with a wise sagacity that impels him to a policy of conciliation.

He is not likely to call an extra session of congress. He is likely to perform the duties of his office in such a manner as will give the slightest shock or disturbance to commercial, industrial, finan-tial or diplomatic conditions. He will go to Washington quietly and assume the reins of government as soon as Mr. McKinley is buried.

President Theodore Roosevelt reached Buffalo at half past 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon after a posthaste journey from the Adirondacks, whither he had gone to take his family home. He was driven to the Milburn house, which he entered with bared head.

Soon after taking the oath of office President Roosevelt issued his first proc-lamation, setting apart Thursday, Sept.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—President Roosevelt at 3 o'clock yesterday convened his first cabinet meeting held in Washington. At this meeting the president asked the members of Mr. McKinley's enbinet to retain their respective portfollos throughout his term and announced that his administration would follow the policy outlined by President McKinley in his Buffalo speech.

Peking Evacuated.

PEKING, Sept. 18.—Chinese troops reentered Peking yesterday. Americans and Japanese simultaneously handed over the Forbidden City to the Chinese authorities. The evacuation was picturesque. The Japanese and American troops were drawn up at the inner gate. Several hundred Chinese civil and military officials in brilliant costumes, diplomats, officers and ladies were massed on the plaza outside Prince Ching and General Chinag, the governor of Peking, met the Japanese and Americans and thanked them for the protection they had afforded the palace General Yamani and Major Robertson replied, the Japanese and Chinese bands played, and the foreigners marched out through the gates they had battered in last summer. Then the Chinese unfurled their flags and distributed their forces at the various gates.

The Czar In France. DUNKIRK, Sept. 18.—The preliminary festivities in connection with the ezar's visit have passed off without any untoward incident. Every item in the programme has been carried through with perfect success. The weather, however, has been atrocious. From the time M. Loubet left Paris until he reached Dunkirk the rain fell pittlessly. Fertunately the downpoor ceased shortly after his arrival here, and the rest of the evening was fine. Dunkirk made an exceptional effort in the way of decoration whole route traversed by President Loubet was professely bung with French and Russian flags. Triumphal arches were erected, and myrinds of Chinese lanterns

Another Airship. RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 18.-Sephor Augusto Severo, who is a member of the Brazilian chamber of deputies, has started for Paris, where he will fellow up the tests of the dirigibility of airships with a globe shaped balloon of his invention called "La Paz." He believes that he has found a solution of the problem.

German Vintage Injured. BERLIN, Sept. 18 .- The continuance of heavy rains along the Rhine and the Moselle has greatly injured the grapes, which are bursting without ripening. The vintage is expected to be unusually poor in both districts.

CZCLGOSZ INDICTED.

Assassin of President McKinley In

BUFFALO, Sept. 17.—Leon F. Czol-gosz, alias Fred Niervan, was indicted yesterday afternoon by the county court grand jury for the crime of murder in the first degree in fatally shooting Presi-dent William McKinley at the Temple of Music in the Pan-American exposition grounds at 4:15 o'clock on the afternoon of Sept. 6.

When arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery in the county court at 5:36 o'clock, the prisoner stubbornly refused to answer questions repeatedly asked of him by District Attorney Penney as to whether he had counsel or wanted counsel. The district attorney then suggested that, inasmuch as the defendant refused to answer, counsel should be assigned.

Judge Emery assigned Hon. Loran L. Lewis and Hon. Robert C. Titus, former supreme court justices of this city, whose names had been suggested by the Erle County Bar association.
District Attorney Penney presented the evidence in the murder case to the grand jury from 10 o'clock in the morning until o'clock in the afternoon. Aside from the surgeons and physicians in the case no witnesses were sworn other than those who were in the Temple of Music and witnessed the shooting.

At 4:15 o'clock, just exactly ten days after the shooting, the grand jury voted manimously to indict Czelgosz for murder in the first degree. At 4:41 o'clock the secret indictment was presented to Judge Emery in the county court.

Assassin to Be Tried Next Week. BUFFALO, Sept. 18.-Leon F. Czolosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery in the county court at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the indictment for murder in the first degree in fatally shooting President McKinley in the Temple of Music at the Pan-American exposition on Sept. 6. Again the stubborn prisoner refused to plead or even to utter n word or sound, and Loren L. Lewis, exsupreme court justice, entered a plea of not guilty. The accused will be tried in the supreme court next Monday morning.

INSURGENTS ROUTED.

Colombian Government Troops Had an Easy Victory.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 18.-The Cocambian cruiser General Pinzon (formerly the Namouna) has returned to Colon, bringing news of an easy victory for the government troops at Bocas del Toro last Saturday, the Liberals, or insurgents, being utterly routed and their guns and ammunition captured.

Colonel Gruzo, commanding the Colom-bian troops at Bocas del Toro, a force of about 300 men, approached Provision island, the insurgent position opposite the town, from different points by means of bonts and launches. He effected a landing unseen and attacked the Liberals in the front and renr. A sharp and decisive skirmish ensued, in which the rebels lost thirty killed and wounded and had forty taken prisoners. The others made their The government force lost five killed and four wounded.

General Alban arrived at Bocas del Tore a day too late to take part in the engagement. One of the rebel leaders is said to be an ignorant peliceman who is not able to sign his name. Among the rebels are several Nicaraguans and Jamaicans.

Choked on Raw Ment.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Edgar Up-dike of Trumansburg took a bite of raw steak which he had just purchased and in trying to swallow it choked to death. Medical assistance was summoned, but came too late. It was his habit to eat meat occasionally in its raw state.

Pain in Head, Side and Back.

For years I suffered with pain in the head, pain in the side, and in the small of the back. I was nervous and constipated and could not sleep. The pills and other medicines I tried only made a bad matter worse. Then I tried Celery King. One package cured me and made a new woman of me.—Mrs. Th. Riec-hammer, Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.
