State Rites Over Remains of the Late President.

Simple Services In the Rotunda of the Capitol.

MRS. M'KINLEY'S CHAIR VACANT.

At the Close of the Funeral Service the Body of the Dend Chief Lay In State and Was Viewed by Thousands Until Removed to the Train Which Was to Bear Remains to Canton.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 .- All that is mortal of William McKinley has left the nation's capital for its last earthly resting place at his beloved home in Canton. Officially and with state ceremony the nation paid its tribute of respect and love to the memory of its stricken chief magistrate. This was almost the closing act in the awful tragedy which has drenched the civilized world in tears. Beneath the great white dome of the capitol funeral services of state were held yesterday over the remains of the dead president.

It was eminently fitting that the serv ices should be conducted in that beautiful rotunda hallowed by the history of the last sad rites of two other martyrs to the cause of the republic. As befitted the occasion and the character of the man whose remains were lying cold and rigid in the narrow embrace of the metallic casket the services were simple. They were conducted in accordance with the rites of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which President McKinley was a lifelong member. Consisting only of two hymns, a song, a prayer, an address and a benediction, they were beautiful and solemnly impressive. Gathered around the bier were representatives of every phase of American national life, including the president and the only surviving ex-president of the United States, together with representatives at this capital of almost every nation of the earth. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Spain and all the republics to the southward of the United States mingled their tears with those of the American people.

Despite the fact that no attempt had been made to decorate the interior of the rotunda beyond the arrangements made about the catafaique the assemblige presented a memorable sight. The somber black of the attire of the hundreds of civilians present was splashed brilliantly with the blue and gold of the representatives of the army and the navy and the court costumes of the diplomatic corps. As the sweet notes of Mr. McKinley's fa-vorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," float-ed through the great rotunda the assemblage rose to its feet. Bared heads were bowed and eyes streamed with tears.

At the conclusion of the hymn, as Rev. Dr. Naylor, presiding elder of the Washington district, rose to offer prayer, the hush that fell upon the people was pro-found. When in conclusion he repeated the immortal words of the Lord's prayer, the great audience joined solemnly with

The murmur of their voices resembled nothing less than the roll of far distant

Scarcely had the word "Amen" been breathed when the liquid tone of that sweetly pleading song, "Some Time We'll Understand," went straight to the heart of every auditor. The solo was sung by Mrs. Thomas C. Noyes of this city, and the beautiful refrain was echoed and re-echoed by the double quartet choir.

The venerable Bishop Edward G. Andrews of Ohio, the oldest bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, then took his position at the head of the bier.

A gentle breeze through the rotunda stirred the delicate blooms which lay upon the coffin, and the "peace that passeth all understanding" seemed to rest upon the venerable man's countenance as he began his eulogy of the life and works of William McKinley. His words were simple, but his whole heart was in every one of them. His tribute to the Christian fortitude of the dead president was im-pressive. Upon the conclusion of the sermon the audience, as if by prearrangement, joined the choir in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

All present seemed to be imbued with a sentiment of hallowed resignation as the divine blessing was asked by the Rev. W. H, Chapman, acting pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, upon both the living and the dead.

Mrs. McKinley, bereft of husband and prostrated by her overwhelming sorrow, did not attend the services at the capitol. It was deemed wise by those now nearest and dearest to her that she should not undergo the ordeal her attendance would entail upon her. She remained at the White House, comforted by every attention that loving thoughtfulness could sugof the dead president might be ansoraed the comfort of a last glance at his features and that the people whom he loved and who loved him might pass the hier for the same purpose. At half past 12 the crowds began to file through the rotunda, and during the six hours in which the body was lying in state it is estimated that 55,600 people viewed the remains. Just at 1 o'clock a frightful calamity was narrowly averted at the east front of the capitol. For hours the vast throng of people had been massed in front of the capitol awaiting an opportunity to enter SAD DAY IN WASHINGTON the rotunds. When the doors were openmost frantically to the main staircase. The police and military guards were swept aside, and almost in a twinkling there was a tremendous crush at the foot of the great staircase. The immense throng swept backward and forward like the surging of a mighty sea. Women and children, a few of the latter babes in arms, were caught in the crowd, and many were badly hurt. Strong men held children and even women high above the heads of the surging crowd to protect them from bodily injury.

Despite the force of the military and the cooler heads in the throng approximately a hundred people were injured.

FUNERAL TRAIN DEPARTS.

Journey From Washington to Canton Begun.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.-The last chapter of the sad ceremonial, the removal of the remains of the late president to the grave at his old home in Canton, O., began at 8:20 o'clock last night, when the funeral train left here over the Pennsylvania railroad. Thirty minutes' time was required for the removal of the body from the capitol to the train. The escort on this journey consisted of committees from the arms and navy and two squadrons of the Eleventh cavalry. The route was down Pennsylvania avenue, which was lined on either side by troops of the District of Columbia. It was a quiet, noiseless journey without music. Not a dram was heard nor a funeral note, nor was there a sound from the crowd which lined the broad street. Notwithstanding the hour was late, the air chill and a light mist was falling, hats were uniformly removed as the cortege passed.

At the Pennsylvania railroad station there was a dense throng, and the re mains were received by large delegations of army and naval officers. There the soldiers and seamen carried the casket from the hearse to the observation car placed in the second section of the funeral train.

The casket was placed on standards draped with the national colors. It was covered with floral emblems. No less than twenty cars were required for the transportation of the funeral party to Canton. Today still another train will carry to Canton a large party of senators and representatives prominent in national life. The three sections into which the train was divided left at ten minute intervals.

It was just before 8 o'clock when Mrs. McKinley was driven to the station Fearing the tiring effort of the long walk from the carriage entrance to the car set apart for her next to the head of the train, a rolling chair had been provided for her. She declined this, however, and walked with surprising firmness to her place, assisted by Abner McKinley and Dr. Rixey. It was 8:10 o'clock when this section steamed away in the darkness, the first section having preceded it ten minutes. The observation car bearing the remains was flooded with light. Through its crystal sides could be seen the beautifully draped casket, with its mass of rare blossoms so arranged that even as the train swept through the night the people in the country it passed through might gaze upon the sight of the casket, with a soldier standing grimly at the head and a sailor carrying his cutlass upon his shoulsailors occupied the platforms, and be tween them at the rear was a mammoth wreath six feet in diameter of rare or chids and laurels.

FINAL HOMECOMING.

Canton Receives Remains of Her Favorite Son.

CANTON, O., Sept. 18,-Canton has witnessed the last homecoming of William McKinley. In other days she has welcomed him with cheers, with waving banners and triumphal marches. Today she received him in silence, with streets hung with solemn black and with the wailing notes of dirges. For two days hundreds of men and women had labored in their task to arrange the decorations on the public buildings, on the fronts of commercial houses and over the windows and porticos of private residences. At sunset last night Canton was shrouded in black, and so she will remain until the remains of her best loved have been committed to the vault in West Lawn ceme-

The funeral train arrived this morning at 11 o'clock and was met by members of the local reception and executive committees, by hundreds of personal friends of President McKinley and by the fol-lowing gentlemen who had been selected from Washington to act as honorary pallbearers during the services in Canton John C. Dueber, George B. Frease, R. A Cassidy, William R. Day, Henry W. Harter, Joseph Biechele, William A. Lynch and Thomas T. McCarty, All were intimate friends of the president

All night long at every town through which the funeral train passed the entire population seemed to be in waiting to see it. The dolorous telling of bells could be distinctly heard by those on board. It rained stendily much of the way, but netther rain nor darkness kept the mourning people from being at the track to pay their final tribute of honor and respect to their departed president. Troop A of Cleveland acted as escort in the march from the Pennsylvania depot to the courthouse, where the body now lies in state. There was no at-tempt at forming a column. The cavalry led the way, the hearse drawn by four black horses followed, and then came the carriages bearing the members of the family and the distinguished visitors. The casket was placed in the rotunda of the courthouse, and at noon the doors were opened to allow the citizens of Canton the opportunity of paying their last tribute of respect to the dead president. Until 9 o'clock tonight the body will remain in the courthouse, and immediately after that hour it will be taken to the family residence on Market street. Canton post, G. A. R., composed almost entirely of members of President McKinley's old regiment, the Twenty-third Ohio, will escort the body to the house.

The funeral will take place at the First Methodist church at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow atternoon. The time answed for the en-tire exercises in the church is forty-five LONDON, Sept. 18 .- Arrangements have been made to hold memorial services in most of the British cathedrals and churches tomorrow as well as in a majority of the continental and colonial capitals. Expressions of sympathy on the part of foreign legislative assemblies and all kinds of public bodies continue to be recorded. Some interesting experiments have taken place at the London docks to show the effect of a new system for the extermination of rats on board ships. The vessel is charged with sulphur diaxide gas, which apparently has the effect of attracting the rats from their hiding places, and as-soon as they breathe the fumes they become suffocated. In the experiments on the steamer Gourkha several hundred rats were destroyed in a few minutes by means of the gas, which has no injurious effect upon the decorations of the saloon.
