THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1901.
Entered at the Post Office at Bloomsburg, Pa.,
a second class matter, March 1, 1898.

APPRENTICE WANTED.

Boy wanted at this office to learn printer's trade. Must be at least sixteen years of age, and a fair reader and speller. Resident of town preferred.

Legal advertisements on page 7.

The side walks all over town are littered with falling leaves.

For a good bicycle, either ladies' or gent's, go to Mercer's Drug & Book Store.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will have a rummage sale in the near future.

Askam will be Normal's opponents on the gridiron Saturday afternoon. Go and see them.

Get your panacea for your little chicks and lice powder to kill the lice, at Mercer's Drug & Book Store.

A Wilkes-Barre and Western passenger train ran off the track near Jerseytown Monday. No one was hurt.

Sunday was a day of sunshine and shadow in the truest sense. Intermittent showers marked the daylight period.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Alexander will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday, October 22nd.

The advent of the trolley cars prevented the influx of hacks from all over this section of the state, to carry passengers during the fair.

Silas Masteller is driving the meat wagon for C. H. Reice's market. He is said to be one of the best men on the road in his line.

A grand cake walk is one of the many features of the Operatic Extravaganza to be presented by local talent in the Opera House Oct. 25 and 26.

The A. & T. Biograph Co. will present a choice and varied collection of moving pictures in the Lime Ridge M. E. church tomorrow evening.

The crossings on Market Street torn up to lay the trolley road, are now being repaired. No cars have been run on that street since Friday evening.

William K. Armstrong has sold his drug store in Milton, and is now looking for a suitable location elsewhere. His family spent a few days in town last week.

Ent Building. Pharmacist.

Buckwheat is selling for fifty cents a bushel.

Millard Rush has moved his family from Cambria to Bloomsburg for the winter.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor of Iron street, Thursday last.

Take your bike to the Bloomsburg Cycle Works, rear of Moore's store, for all repairs.

Thanksgiving is the next holiday. Engage your turkey early, they're scarce this year.

There will be a cornet solo, at the morning service in St. Paul's Church on Sunday. Lambert McHenry will render J. Faure's "The Palms."

There was a nice lot of vegetables on sale at the curb market this morning. One more week and the practice will be discontinued for the season.

Normalites are rejoicing over the prospects for a base ball team next season. With the exception of pitcher Williams the team will be the same as this season.

You can appease your appetites in the basement of the M. E. Church tonight. The ladies of the congregation will serve a chicken and waffle supper. Tickets 25c.

The Sheriff sale of the Catawissa Fibre Company's property which was to have taken place at the Court House Saturday afternoon last was postponed till next Saturday.

The contract for the foundation walls and ash pits of the new Bloomsburg & Sullivan Railroad Company's machine shop and engine house has been awarded to Reimard Bros.

J. J. Robbins, of Wilkes-Barre, on Saturday last purchased the farm owned by the Gould estate. The property is located in Salem township, above Berwick. $4,000 was the price paid.

Geo. Kleckner and Pud Hess are now employed at the Leader Meat Market. They have had long experience in the business, and will give satisfaction to the many customers of this old stand.

W. M. Geiser, aged sixty-two years, died in Madison township on Tuesday after a brief illness. He is survived by a wife and four children. The deceased was well-to-do and was engaged in farming.

The entertainment committee of the Bloomsburg Wheelmen is arranging euchre and pedro parties for the winter, the first of which will be held this evening. The initiatory event is to be a ladies' euchre.

About 950 people were fed at the dining hall at the fair on Thursday. Friday was a big day too, but the stand was not so well patronized as on Thursday. A snug sum was cleared for the benefit of St. Columba's R. C. Church.

A thief made an attempt to enter the home of Mrs. J. S. Wilson on Market street Thursday, but was frightened away before accomplishing his purpose. He boldly walked by the porch on which Mrs. Wilson was sitting and raised the side window, all in broad day light.

The Murray & Mackey Bon Ton Ideals closed a week's engagement at the Opera House Saturday evening. The company made many friends during their stay in our midst. The entertainments were much superior to the popular priced performances which have come our way in past seasons.

The Buck Horn Band furnished music for the fair last week Wednesday. They appeared in new uniforms of blue cloth, and made a fine appearance. This organization is a very creditable one, and they play well. It is not often that a well-equipped brass band can be sustained in so small a place as Buck Horn.

For Croquet Sets, from 85c. to $2.25, go to Mercer's Drug & Book Store.

John Gross, while opening oysters in his restaurant, in the Exchange block Wednesday morning, cut an ugly gash in the palm of his left hand. The accident was caused by the knife glancing off the shell.

The variety, the quality, and the low prices of goods in Leader's Bargain Store, are surprising. Things useful and ornamental, in wood, iron, tin, glass, China, etc., fill the shelves and counters of the large store room. Take a look inside, and you will be likely to find what you want.

There was a quiet nuptial event at Sunbury Thursday last, when John R. Richie took unto himself a wife. His chosen partner was formerly Miss Myra Applegate of Iola, this county. The groom has been a resident of Bloomsburg for many years, and is held in high esteem by a host of friends who wish that the life upon which the couple have just entered may be attended with happiness and prosperity.

Wednesday evening of last week marked the close of the earthly career of Mrs. Sarah J. Creasy. The end came peacefully at her home in Berwick, where she has lived for the past forty-three years. Her husband, A. F. Creasy died in August of last year. The deceased is survived by four daughters and two sons. Mrs. Joseph Hampton, Hazleton; Mrs. John Eckhart, Danville; Elizabeth Etna, and Mallery, Berwick and W. C. Creasy Wilkes-Barre. She was 78 years of age.

It is quite likely that the trolley line will be extended to Catawissa some time in the near future, and also that a line to Light Street will be built, but the possibility of Danville being connected is very remote. The sparse population between Bloomsburg and Danville will not warrant the erection of a line, and there would not be enough through traffic to make it pay. This is also the case between here and Millville. A ten mile run would necessitate the building of sub-power stations, and the other incident expenses would be too great for the returns in sight. At least this is the contention of one of the men at present in the employ of the Columbia & Montour Company. He believes, however that the time will come when the chain of road will be perfected and the various outlying towns will be connected, but not until more favorable conditions present themselves.

Col. James Sweeney and wife of Hazleton, attended the fair last Thursday. Mr. Sweeney was formerly connected with the Luzerne county in the legislature for a term or two. In 1872 he was a student at the Normal School. He is now widely known in Democratic State politics, and is filling the position of secretary to Chairman Creasy.

WANTED—SEVERAL PERSONS of character and good reputation in each state (one in this county required) to represent and advertise old established wealthy business house of solid financial standing. Salary $18.00 weekly with expenses additional, all payable in cash each Wednesday direct from head offices. Horse and carriage furnished, when necessary. References. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Manager, 316 Caxton Building, Chicago. (46926)

The practice of selling tickets for grand stand at the Fair grounds for several hundred more people than can be seated, is one that ought to be stopped. If there were standing room behind the seats it would be different, but such is not the case. The only standing room is in front of the seats. The result is that those in the first row of seats have to stand up to see the track, and this compels the second row to get up, and so on until everybody on the stand must get on their feet to see anything. People who pay extra for the privilege have a right to be protected. No one would think of selling tickets in a theatre to people who could find no seats and no place to stand except in front of the seats. It is desirable that the Fair Association should make all the money they can, but they ought not to make it by imposing upon their patrons. There was much grumbling and ill-feeling on Thursday and Friday afternoons when the passage way in front of the seats was packed with people. No one thought it worth while to kick very hard however, as he would probably have been told that if he was not satisfied he could have his money back and go out. An enlargement of the grand stand is needed, but until that is done there is no excuse for crowding so many into the stand that no one gets what he pays for, namely, an unobstructed view of the track.
