The Pope as Cockran Saw Him.

LONDON, April 23.—W. Bourke Cockran of New York, who sailed for the United States today, referring to his recent audience with the pope, said: "It is five years since I had seen his holiness, and I rather dreaded this visit lest I might see some of the cruel inroads of age. To my astonishment I found the pope to be stronger, mentally and physically, than when I first saw him. The accuracy of his memory, the sweetness of his voice and the brightness of those wonderful eyes seem to have been accentuated rather than diminished by the intervening five years. His holiness expressed, as he always does, his great friendliness for America and exhibited a keen knowledge of American affairs."

Dr. Talmage's Will.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The will of the late Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage has been filed here. Judge Chester pronounced sentence of death soon after the verdict was brought in, directing that the defendants be executed in the electric chair in Clinton prison in the course of the week beginning May 30.

Almost a Miracle.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Edward Moore, who on March 25 was admitted to the Samaritan hospital suffering with a well developed case of tetanus, will be discharged as cured this week. The attack was ten days advanced when the victim was taken to the hospital, and his recovery is regarded as one of the most notable on record.

GAIL & AX NAVY Smoking and Chewing Tobacco. The ORIGINAL and MOST SMOKED long cut tobacco in all the United States, manufactured with the express purpose of blending the two qualities, that of a good smoke and a good chew. It is made of ripe, sweetened "Burley," the only tobacco from which a perfect combination of smoking and chewing tobacco can be made. Gail & Ax Navy is known by the distinctive character of its blue wrapper (which has many imitators), it being to-day identically the same as forty years ago, and it now stands for the quality that it did then. You get the very best, and take no chances, when you buy Gail & Ax Navy. Baltimore, 1859. G. W. GAIL & AX

SAYS CABLES ARE SAFE.

Hiram Maxim Declares These Inventions Need Not Fear the Invention of Marconi.

Hiram Maxim thinks the Marconi system will not be a dangerous competitor of the cable companies for transatlantic business. He argues chiefly on the difficulty of securing secrecy, or even certainty, saying: "An enemy in time of war might set up a wave-making apparatus of every great power giving off waves of all amplitude and making it absolutely impossible to work any system of wireless telegraphy."

"The tuning of a transmitter or receiver to a certain pitch is only feasible to a limited extent, say a dozen different kind of waves. Supposing that in war two hostile fleets were concerned, no one depending on the ordinary system of signaling, no two depending on wireless telegraphy, it would be possible to provide fleet No. 1 with apparatus for making such a confusion of waves as to render the apparatus of fleet No. 2 absolutely useless."

"Marconi now has the atmosphere to himself, but when others enter the field and all are making their little waves, though they may not interfere with each other, nevertheless the operator who receives them and reduces them to the English language will have rather a difficult task."

"The Marconi system undoubtedly has enormous value, chiefly for ships signaling each other or with the shore during fog. Cable companies and Marconi can both live in the same world in perfect accord. One system will not interfere with the other. The Marconi system can perform new services without encroaching on the cable companies' sphere."
