A CONTEMPTIBLE TRICK-

There is very little of the gentleman in a fellow who willfully throws tobacco quids at windows of business places. The windows of Josiah Ralston's tobacco and confectionery store and those of G. A. McKelvy's drug store, were all bespattered some time during Sunday night. We do not know the perpetrators, but whoever it was, their whole being, from toes to the top of their cranium, must be in a state of moral depravity. It was a contemptible trick and certainly deserves punishment.

Peter Gilmore, a Sullivan county farmer, has found gold on his farm. Recently he discovered what he thought was gold quartz and sent some of it to an assayer, who yesterday returned the analysis, showing that the quartz contains gold to the value of $1.40 per ton.

As mines in the Western fields producing as low as 30 cents per ton are operated, Mr. Gilmore is elated, and all land in the vicinity has taken a sudden rise.

Close to the Eyes.

Whenever you see a person wearing his glasses on the end of his nose you may know that the glasses are not strong enough. Pushing them away from the eyes makes them magnify more. Lenses should always be worn just as close to the eyes as possible, without touching the tashes. If they are correctly fitted it is just as important to have the lenses in the right place as to have them of the right focus. If the eye does not look through the centers there is a prismatis effect. If the lashes touch there is irritation. If they are too far from the eyes they magnify too much. Every pair of glasses that I sell receives particular attention from this standpoint. I see that all these requirements are fulfilled. I see that the lenses suit the eyes, that the frames fit the face and that they are a convenience and comfort to the wearer.
