An Old Bible Found in Rubbish Heap Proves Claim to Millions-

Unearthed among rubbish in the loft of an old barn in Huron county, Ohio, where it had been hidden from view for many years, an ancient Bible bids fair to establish the claims of many heirs to an estate of many St. Vincent board of health, and that is a descendant of Absolam Case and a half brother of Leonard Case, Sr., quietly began the work of tracing and locating the heirs. The estate consists chiefly of real estate in the business centre of Cleveland, taking the First National Bank, the gas light plant, the offices and yards of the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad Company, the Case School of Applied Science and narrowly skips the residence of John D. Rockefeller. It includes some fifteen or twenty of ments in the city.

According to M. J. Dunham, of Middletown, N. Y., who has just returned from a two months' trip him that he must take him back to through the West and Northwest, in his ship if he refused to lose his back an effort to locate the descendants of locks. And the negro looked as if Absolam Case, the vast estate of the he could do it. At this juncture the late Leonard Case, of Cleveland, Ohio, will eventually enrich hundreds of his descendants, owing to discovery of the old Bible.

Leonard Case, Sr., died in Cleveland in 1864, leaving one heir to his millions, a son, Leonard Case, Jr. The latter, a bachelor, died in 1880, eaving no will, but property in the heart of Cleveland valued at $8,000,-000 to be divided among the 190 descendants of his father's brothers and sisters, covering five generations.

Ever since the death of Leonard plied: Case, Jr., the estate has been the theme of legal investigations, but no satisfactory results could be obtained because of the fact that the old family Bible, containing certain records, could not be found. As it contained the names of all the Cases its discovery was decidedly essential to the location of the heirs. In the old barn loft of Sarah Searskading, in Huron county, Ohio, it was luckily discovered, and, according to Mr. Dunham, it is the key to the establishment of the heirs' claims.

The Newspaper-

No more eloquent or truthful tribute to the press has ever been rendered than that voiced by Archbishop Ireland before the National Education Association at Mineapolis last week. "It I were to choose where, outside the class room," he said, "for the general welfare of humanity, I should have devotion and truth prevail," I should name the newspaper. The newspaper is today pre-eminently the mentor of the people. It is read by all; it is believed by nearly all. Its influence is paramount, its responsibility is tremendous. Its province is to narrate facts-to give the truth, all the truth; to allow both parties to a controversy to be heard; never to palliate or distort; never to omit when that which is omitted may be of relevency in the formation of public opinion; never to publish the doubtful as certain, the mere gossip as well as ascertained news; never above all else, to put before readers errors and falsehood. Journalism that is honest and honorable is one of the Nation's most precious inheritances; that which places notoriety and pelf above truth and virtue, and adopts; as its tactics the stunning sensation rather than the calm statement of facts, is one of the Nation's direst calamities. Numerous in America is the journalism that is honest and honorable; here and there is found that which worships above all else notoriety and pelf There is here a duty of conscience and patriotism for Americans. May they ever be mindful of that duty.

ORDERED THEIR HAIR CUT.

What Happened to Two American Newspaper Correspondents in St. Vincent,

The large corps of newspaper correspondents which went down to the West Indies after the volcano disasters brought back any number of interesting stories of their adventures at St. Vincent and Martinique. The best of these, perhaps, is one concerning two well-known correspondents who started to explore the streets of St. Vincent town, says the Washington Star. One of them went into a hat shop and the other waited outside for his companion to emerge. While basking in the hot sunlight a great six-foot West Indian negro came up to him and inquired if he was from the United States steamship Dixie. The correspondent replied in the affirmative, whereupon the negro informed him that he represented the the correspondent must have his hair cut immediately or return to his ship. The newspaper man smiled scornfully. The negro did not, but firmly told

As they turned into an intersecting thoroughfare the trio met with a po Heeman, and in a twinkling the stalwart negro had become but a flying black streak away down the avenue. The two men told the story to the guardian of the peace, who smiled sardonically. HAS ANANIAS BEATEN.

A Philadelphia Boy Who Takes the Laurels from the Ancient Prevarientor.

One of the two boys who figure in this tale should get along in the world. His ability to get results with small provocation would seem to be great. Evidently he has little affection for the smaller denominations of figures, says the Philadelphia Times. When told by a gentle playthe largest manufacturing establish- fellow that the latter had been made a paternal present of a goat, he re-

"Huh! My pop has a whole flock of goats down in his office."

The other boy seemed amazezd, but went on with his joyful narrative. "My papa bought me a wagon, too,"

"Well, what of it?" he was asked. "My pop had so many wagons he had to burn a lot of 'em, because he had no room for 'em." The gentle boy did not believe this.

Moreover, to hear it pained him; for he had faith in what he learned in Sunday school. "Don't you know what happened to Ananias and Sapphira?" he asked. They were struck dead for lying." Patently, this was not information to his companion, who respondedimpatiently, perhaps, but without

"I know it. I saw them struck."

THE CLOCK STOPPED.

And When It Did It Senred the Burglar Almost Out of His Senses.

"Ever hear a clock stop in the middle of the night?" said the retired burglar, according to the New York Sun. "I did, once, and I never was much more seared by anything for a minute, in my life. "I'd just picked up a watch that was lyin' on the top of a bureau in a house that I was in when all of a sudden there seemed to drop right down, somehow, a stillness that was like death; and I found myself standing there holding that watch and looking around in the dark in all directions, expecting something terrible to happen; and scared?

"Why, for a minute I was scared almost out of my senses. And then all of a sudden it struck me that a clock that I'd been hearing ticking away good and strong up to that minute in the room back of the one I was in had stopped.

"That's all, but that was enough for me, and I just slid out. "I like a quiet house, but I don't like one with that kind of stillness in it; and then, sometimes folks are woke up by a clock stopping just about as quick as they would be by the firing of a gun."

The Panama Hat.

According to a New York dealer the market is flooded with Peruvian have addressed himself to Congress Panamas. They are woven in Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador from the fibers of the palm, which are kneaded like flax before they are woven. Then the hats are shipped to Paris, where they go through a process which gives them stiffness and gloss. After journeying to Paris the hats are shipped to New York and sold for $1.75. Some of them are rebleached and generally Americanized, in which case they are sold for five dollars. A really good Panama can be purchased in the shops this year for $15, whereas one's pocket was made $25 lighter by the same article last year. The modish persons in New York, it is said, are not purchasing Panamas this year, however. The Panama is growing too cheap to be exclusive any longer, and the swagger set has dropped it. Parts Population. Paris, according to the latest census returns, has a population of 2,650,000 persons, of whom 1,200,000 are either foreigners or provincials.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent,

Washington, Angust 4, 1902. The dissatisfaction in the War Department, generated by the action of Secretary Root in assigning Brig. Gen, William H. Carter, acting adjutant general in Gen Corbin's absence, over the heads of Col. John B. Babcock and Col. William P. Hall, does not abate as time goes on. It is considered as almost certain that both of these officers will protest against act ing under the direction of Ger. Carter. At first it was assumed that the object of Secretary Root in assisting Gen. Carter to his present duties was the humiliation and complete elmination from army direction of General Miles, but now it is realized that the assignment has an even deeper significance. By making this assignment Secretary Root has established a precedent which confirms the contentions of General Corbin that he holds the senior commission as major general of the line. Those who controvert this claim contend that Corbin's com mission was merely incidental to his staff position and did not imply the actual, but rather the ex-officio rank of major general. It is now realized war not only confirms Corbin's contention but that it is the first and most important step in a policy which has for its ultimate purpose the appointment of Corbin to succeed Miles as general, commanding the army. Incidentally Root's action places Gen. Carter in a position where it falls to him to pass upon the recommendations of his superior officer, Gen. Miles. All this is most exasperating to the older officers of the army who recognize in the act of Secretary Root an autocratic policy totally at variance with the discipline and traditions of the army. Since the gratuitous rep- lished. rimands which the President has seen fit to distribute, the officers of the army are very guarded in their utterances, but to their friends they say that, under Root's administration, seniority and merit count as nothing as compared with the untrammeled will of the Secretary of War and that Representative Hay of Virginia was seen at democratic headquarters last night. Mr. Hay deplores the lack of candor of which the republicans are guilty in the present campaign. He said that it was absoluteontrue that the democrats had ever attacked the army and that the re-publicans knew it. They had attacked blameworthy conduct on the part of certain army officers and the President had, in at least one instance, so far approved democratic criticism as to retire the offending officer. Another instance of the insincerity of the republicans Mr. Hay cited, and that is the statement that the army in the Philippines had been reduced to 18,-000 troops. This he stated, is one of those half truths which are almost worse than falsehoods. In addition to the 18,000 troops which are in the islands there are between 11,000 and 12,000 Filipino scouts, who are actually a part of the army and who have been trained to a considerable state of efficiency. This force should be added to the 18,000 American soldiers with and then it will be seen that the Bi 30,000 men and this is quite exclusive troops in the island number about of the native constabulary who number about 7,000, making a total fighting force of upwards of 37,000 men. Mr. Hay declared that the trusts and the tariff were the leading issues of the campaign.

"The Terrible Talker" is the soubriquet which Representative Burgess bestowed on the President one day this week as he passed through Washington on his way to Texas. He ridicaled the sincerity of Mr. Roosevelt in his statements in regard to the control of the trusts and said that the republicans were now engaged in "an P academic discussion" of the trusts "for political effect only." He said it was clear to every intelligent man that had Mr. Roosevelt desired to secure anti-trust legislation he would on the subject. He did not hesitate to send a special message to Congress in support of his Cuban reciprocity policy.

Much amusement is expressed here at the reports coming from Illinois to the effect that the republican machine is waking from its fancied security in
