

RISE AND FALL OF PENNYQUACKERANIA

How the Machine Candidate Has Told on Himself.

HIS RECORD ON THE STUMP

Why Honest Republicans Are In Revolt—A Confidence Game That Failed to Work.

A SHIELD FOR BAD MEN

Speeches Which Have Driven Away Voters and Strengthened the Cause of Reform.

FROM THE BENCH TO THE RING

(Special Correspondence.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—The most singular and suggestive development of the present campaign is the fact that almost every intelligent and self-respecting Republican one meets, either openly and indignantly repudiates the candidate of his party machine for governor, or sharply refuses to "talk politics," and turns away in transparent disgust when his name is mentioned. In the whole history of Pennsylvania politics there has never been such a monumental failure, as his own advocate, as Pennyquacker. Had he remained upon the bench, kept his mouth shut, looked wise and destroyed or securely hidden, every copy of the stupid and abusive Quay book he is responsible for, he would have polled thousands of votes, even as the plant creature of the boss, that will now be turned indignantly against him. This is the sentiment everywhere expressed, even amongst those who have looked on from a distance.

What the People Think.

Face to face with the people the ex-judge has chilled his would-be supporters, driven away the doubtful, fearfully discredited himself with intelligent men, and unconsciously revealed his absolute lack of the qualities demanded in a high executive office and shown his pitiable subservency to everything representing Quayism and all that it stands for. All sorts of explanations have been given, but the true one simply is, this man had been placed upon a pedestal where he did not belong. Self-stripped of the mask he has worn he now stands before the people, where he should be, feeble in intellect, destitute of high principles, is such a man fit to be the chief magistrate of Pennsylvania? This is the question now before the freemen of the commonwealth. A brief retrospect will make this clear to the dullest mind.

His Devotion to the Machine.

Having, if he so desired, a life position of honor, at large remuneration for a man of his social surroundings, there was no excuse Judge Pennyquacker could offer for demeaning himself as the defender and eulogist of Quayism. There is not another member of the Philadelphia judiciary who would have done this thing. Mind you, the first offense was the editing and fulsome endorsement of Quay's venom on the stump in 1909, when he was so desperately seeking re-election. The striking similarity upon many subjects, between those discreditable deliveries and Pennyquacker's own speeches, is extremely suggestive. It shows a sympathy of ideas and purposes that makes the twin authorship apparent. It shows how thoroughly the creature of Quay is saturated with the virus of Quayism. Next, the magazine article, ostensibly in defense of Pennsylvania, was written expressly to defend the writhing boss, who was skinned alive in the publication so weakly and insincerely replied to. The judge thought to hide his real purpose through devoting the postscript only to Quay glorification.

Why He Was Chosen.

Such slavish service, with intimate, confidential, personal relationship for many years and constant support of the machine, made Pennyquacker an ideal candidate for the wily boss. He lifted his old cock-eye and gleefully murmured: "He's just the decoy I want. We can fool the people with him. We can rely upon him every time. Yes, if I should want to repeat old Winnebago's trick, he will put Dick in my place. Ah, Sam is the man for '02." Then the word was passed along and the deed was done, with picturesque grand larceny of Elkin delegates, as the needful finale. Pennyquacker would not have had a single delegate, even in Philadelphia, without "orders." He knows this, yet he stands up and shakes hands with himself as the "choice of the Republican party." Therein he shows what manner of man he is.

A Significant Omission.

There was no formal notification of the Harrisburg nominee, and why? This would have required the candidate to go on record, in some explicit manner, concerning public questions. He dodged, all off the bench. Interviewed himself again on the glories of Quayism, and prepared to exhibit himself as the pithy aspirant—the only one of the kind who, when the celebrated "No. 2" was greater than man—was once again talk was brought in by a grinning Ledger reporter the city editor nearly fell off his chair. He braced up and determined to let the man who seemed to have shoved out his brains when he hung up his judicial robes, commit political suicide. What do you suppose the amazed boss would have given for that "copy?" His attack of "indisposition" the next day was one of the closest calls he ever had.

There was silence that could be felt for a month; but the risk had to be taken, the judge had to be let loose. And what a mess he has made of it! A review of these extraordinary "speeches" is enough to give one the nightmare. In no instance has there been a plain, earnest, sincere, truthful discussion of the questions at issue. Instead, a series of rambling talks that would discredit a candidate for justice of the peace in Schuylkill, where the judge raises chickens and bonyolabber. Let us run rapidly over some of the points raised in the great case of the people against the machine.

Dodging Vital Issues.

It was charged that Quay set up Pennyquacker because of the latter's personal devotion, past, present and future guaranteed. Not a word is said, however, in reply. No denial, no protest, no manly declaration of personal independence, no denunciation of the manifold crimes of Quayism, no promise of clean hands and honest government.

It was charged that the last session of the legislature was corrupt beyond all others. In reply, Judge Pennyquacker quotes perfunctory approval of the routine work of a legal commission which codified laws and simplified practice, and then drops the curtain, saying: "We have nothing to do with the past."

It was charged that legislative candidates were largely set up by a corrupt machine for selfish purposes. In reply, it was declared that these men represented the virtue and intelligence of the people, a statement that shows mental and moral obtuseness of an extraordinary degree.

It was charged that the legislature was organized through open bribery. No reply.

It was charged that the last senatorial election was shamelessly corrupt. No reply.

It was charged that the machine kept itself in power largely through control and misuse of the public funds. It was claimed, in reply, in the words of Quay, in a public speech, that no public money had been "lost." Of course not; defalcations having been made good by unhappy bondsmen.

No Censure of Wrong-Doing.

It was charged that crooked appointments were made to keep the Quay ring in power. No reply.

It was charged that public institutions had been robbed of part of their appropriations. First, in reply, proof was demanded. When that was promptly furnished, silence.

It was charged that the machine fought against true ballot reform. Reply, when "the organization," that is the machine, made a new ballot law, to suit itself, it would be approved.

It was charged that public franchises had been unfairly bestowed upon ring favorites. No reply.

It was charged that the state and municipalities had been greatly wronged by these combines. Reply: "The state is no peddler," an absurd piece of pettifoggery, in violation of the ruling of the supreme court, and prevailing practice in all other states.

It was charged and clearly proven that Judge Pennyquacker, upon four different occasions, grossly misquoted Governor Pattison's speech of acceptance and falsely accused him of slandering honest legislators. No reply.

It was charged and clearly shown that the machine promotes monstrous frauds at the polls. Reply, again following Quay: "You exaggerate. I never saw any."

It has been charged from the beginning that the Quay candidate, if elected, will be a subservient tool of Quayism. No reply.

Rejoicing Over Injustice.

When a mob of armed ruffians, shouting for Pennyquacker, broke up an assemblage of peaceable citizens, the machine candidate was urged by shame-faced friends to denounce the outrage. No reply; instead, when told that the mob's purpose was accomplished through legal quibbles, Judge Pennyquacker forever discredited himself in the eyes of fair-minded men, brought additional shame upon his state and gave final proof of his unworthiness of public trust and confidence, by gleefully exclaiming "That's good news."

So it has been all the way through. This great state has never witnessed such a humiliating spectacle as that presented by the candidacy of Samuel W. Pennyquacker. His course has been such that patriotic citizens, in greater number than ever before, and with increasing indignation, while declaring their continued loyalty to the Republican party under honest leadership, have openly announced their intention to repudiate him at the polls and to cast their ballots for the honorable opponent whom he has vainly sought to belittle and misrepresent. He has emphasized the supreme issue of the hour in Pennsylvania. He has made it clear to all that Pennyquackerism and Quayism are one and the same thing; that a vote for him means the indefinite perpetuation of the malign power which has so long and so grievously afflicted the people of the greatest industrial state in the Union.

Earnest effort all along the line will ensure an honest legislature. Look to the fight in every district.

QUAYISM DOOMED.

The baffled Quay combine has run out the mud machine and raised the black flag. This is a sure sign of coming defeat. The boss never loses his head when things go right and the way to renewed triumph is clear. But a campaign of costly blunders is culminating in a disastrous break-up; hence the tactics of desperation. The people have understood the confidence game that was to be played. The decoy has been uncovered.

Pennyquackerism has been thoroughly exposed. The candidate of the machine has told on himself. He has not dared even to make feeble protest that is his own master. He has fearfully dissipated his party strength at every step. It is seen that a grand smash is just ahead. So orders have gone out to use forbidden weapons; to strike in the dark; to use slanderous falsehood; to mislead the ignorant; to arouse prejudice and passion; to slay in vengeance.

This is the meaning of baseless attacks on the Democratic candidates. This is the secret of the mercenary activity of certain cheap elements, always in the political shambles. The printing press has been prostituted to serve dishonorable purposes. The tempter is abroad, seeking to use conscienceless election officers and political workers. Vandal voters will be corralled. A last desperate stand will be made, but in vain.

Let every intelligent citizen calmly consider the purpose which inspires all this wicked work. Let him regard the "last cards" now being thrust into his face as the product of social outlaws. They will stop at nothing. They have ample resources. They despise the law. They will rule or ruin—if they can. The pirates are on deck; but the battle has been fairly fought, with clean hands, and with a full vote on the part of honest citizenship, Pennsylvania, on Tuesday next, will be freed forever from the blighting control of Quayism.

The Quay hirelings stop at nothing. Their base attempt to "work" the miners' convention showed how desperate they are. Only the most degraded politicians would thus impudently meddle with the affairs of honest workers. The miners know how they have been betrayed aforesaid. They will do their own thinking and their own voting. They know that Governor Pattison signed more labor bills than Beaver, Hastings and Stone combined.

Let no young man begin the duties of citizenship by casting his first vote to sustain the power that has cursed Pennsylvania for a generation. Stand up for pure politics and honest government. Vote for Pattison and the whole Democratic ticket and you will make no mistake.

Pattison and Guthrie have made a magnificent canvass. They have visited nearly every county, made about two hundred speeches each and faced upwards of 200,000 people. Such earnest and faithful work will tell immensely on election day.

See that every polling place is well manned on election day and every vote brought out. This will mean a great victory for the people.

GRANGES FOR PATTISON

Prominent Leaders Send Formal Assurance of Their Hearty Support.

Farmers from all over the state, men prominent in the granges, who have heretofore taken little part in politics, are sending to State Chairman Cressy assurances of their support of Robert E. Pattison for governor. Chairman Cressy has received the following appeal, which is being sent out to granges by those prominent in their ranks:

The undersigned, members of the Grange Patrons of Husbandry, endorse the candidacy of Robert E. Pattison for governor, not from any party consideration, but because during his former administrations he showed himself to be a true friend of the farmer and earnestly supported the legislation which we advocate. His opponents have had the power for 40 years and have constantly refused to give relief from unjust taxation, though urged to do so at every session of the legislature for 20 years past.

James F. Weaver, (signed) Colonel in the Civil War, and one of the leading farmers of Centre Co., Walter R. Tucker, Past Secretary of Crawford County Pomona Grange.

G. D. Heath, Erie County, Secretary of the North-western Fire Insurance Company.

I. S. Frain, President Patrons' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, of Centre County.

D. B. Ebb, President Deputy Junata County Grange.

D. M. McWilliams, Member of Finance Committee, Pennsylvania State Grange.

D. M. Simmers, Secretary, Huntington County Pomona Grange.

G. C. Shambaugh, Past Deputy, Erie County Grange. H. W. Shambaugh, Lecturer of Lincoln Grange, Huntington County.

M. W. Clark, Deputy, Westmoreland County Grange.

DUTY OF INDEPENDENTS

The Veteran Philadelphia Reformer, H. C. Lea, Urges a Full Vote For Pattison.

Henry C. Lea, distinguished political writer and representative business man, in a letter to Secretary George E. Mapes, of the Union party of this state, makes a strong, clear argument on what he considers the plain duty of independent voters in the present state fight. Prompted by the Dauphin county court's declaration that all certificates of nomination from the Union party's state convention are invalid, Mr. Lea writes:

Since the decision of Judge Simonton has deprived the Union party of a column on the ballot, it would seem that means should be taken to remind independent voters that their object can be attained by voting either in the column of the "Ballot Reform" or of the Democratic party.

Not a Vote Should Be Lost.

It is of the highest importance that in the approaching election not a vote should be lost of those who desire the overthrow of the machine. It is rare that in the politics of Pennsylvania such an opportunity offers of emancipating the city and state from the foul domination which has rendered them throughout the land the type of all that disgraces our institutions. This is a critical period in which partisan feelings should be forgotten. There are no national issues at stake; the contest is confined strictly within the boundaries of the state, and the result will be simply to determine whether we are to be emancipated or are to continue in bondage to the machine.

Should Stand By Pattison.

No thinking man can doubt that the election of Mr. Pattison—with the record behind him of two eminently honest and conservative gubernatorial terms—would prove greatly more serviceable to the community than that of his competitor, who represents the malarious influences that placed him in national prominence. Nor can anyone deny that this would be a substantial service rendered to the Republican party by relieving it of the odium which it has justly incurred by its leadership in this state. Nor, moreover, can any Republican approach the future of his party through its defeat in November on these purely local issues, seeing that the position of the state, in a presidential election, is one which does not admit the possibility of a question. This is so absolutely safe that, on purely local issues, the warmest Republican can permit himself the luxury of independent voting.

UNION PARTY VOTES

Chairman Hicks Advises Use of Ballot Reform Column For State Candidates.

Advice to Independent voters to turn in for Pattison, Guthrie and Nolan, the candidates on the Democratic and Ballot Reform state tickets, is given in a formal address issued by State Chairman Hicks, of the Union party. He says we recommend:

First—That the members of the Union party on the Democratic state ticket—Pattison, Guthrie and Nolan—in the Ballot Reform column.

Second—in counties where there are Union party legislative and county tickets, vote for the Union party candidates in the Union column, so that such votes may be counted as Union party votes, and preserve to the Union party the right to make nominations hereafter, by having polled the necessary percentage of the vote. Where there are no Union party legislative and county candidates vote for the Ballot Reform or Democratic legislative nominees, excepting such as have made objectionable records in past legislative sessions.

Third—Vote for such Ballot Reform or Democratic judicial and county nominees, where no Union party column is presented, whose public and private records commend them to the support of the anti-party Republicans.

Fourth—Vote for Republicans for congress. Where there is more than one Republican candidate for congress, vote for the one whose election will give the most creditable representation in the district and most emphatically repudiate Quayism and prove most advantageous to the cause of reform.

By following this course, Union party voters and independent citizens generally will demonstrate:

First—that this is not a fight upon the part of the independent Republicans to weaken the Republican national administration.

Second—that it is purely a state contest for good government. Clean politics and opposition to the thieving combination which has for its sole and selfish purpose the robbery of the people of the commonwealth and the cities therein.

Third—that in spite of any conspiracies the people can find a way, even though it be inconvenient, to resent and oppose the course pursued by the Republican machine of Pennsylvania.

THE BALLOT REFORM ISSUE

Pennyquacker Dodges, While Pattison Points to His Official Record.

Chairman Woodruff, of the joint committee for the Promotion of Election Reforms, recently wrote to the two gubernatorial candidates, Messrs. Pennyquacker and Pattison, concerning their attitude toward the ballot reform bill and personal registration bill advocated by the joint committee.

Mr. Pennyquacker replied very briefly that ballot reform is a question to which he has given little attention. He states further that the preparation of a ballot reform bill is now in the hands of a committee appointed for that purpose.

This letter is taken as meaning that the Republican candidate, before committing himself, wants to know what will be done by Senator Quay's "Ballot Reform Committee," or by Quay. In striking contrast with this saying of practically nothing on the main issue of the state campaign is the following reply from ex-Governor Pattison to Chairman Woodruff:

No Mistaking Pattison's Stand.

"I received your letter requesting as fully and clearly as possible my opinion in regard to the important questions, 'Ballot Reform' and 'Personal Registration.' I refer you to my inaugural address to the legislature in January, 1891, when I recommended the Australian system for adoption, and also 'personal registration.' During the four years, in every message to the legislature, I have insisted upon the improvement of the ballot system of our nation. I would quote also at length the following message to the legislature, if not, will be pleased to furnish you with copy: 'I hold the same opinion as to ballot reform and personal registration which I expressed to the legislature from time to time.'"

It is a great affliction for a woman to have her face disfigured by pimples or any form of eruptive disease. It makes her morbid and sensitive, and robs her of social enjoyment. Disfiguring eruptions are caused by impure blood, and are entirely cured by the great blood-purifying medicine—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes from the blood the poisonous impurities which cause disease. It perfectly and permanently cures scrofulous sores, eczema, pimple, boils, pimples and other eruptive diseases which are caused by the blood's impurity. It increases the action of the blood-making glands and thus increases the supply of pure rich blood.

For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main Street, Hattiesburg, Miss. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements in a paper, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured. I can well recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any one similarly afflicted."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Farmers and other country land owners have rights that hunters are bound to obey, and they will save themselves trouble and other people annoyance by recognizing these rights and not trespassing upon them. The laws of Pennsylvania prohibit hunting upon any cultivated land on which notices forbidding trespassing are posted, and make trespassers subject to payment for damages to fences, crops, plants, trees, etc. An amendment, approved June 18, 1891, reads: "Trespassers who trample or in any wise injure any grain, grass, vine, vegetable or any other growing crop, or willfully take or carry away any grain, corn, rye, wheat or other field crop, fruit or vegetable plants, nuts, berries or any tree, vine or shrub, shall be subject to a penalty not exceeding $50 for each and every offence." This latter law does not require the posting of any notice unless trespassing.

The November Lippincott's Magazine.

The November number of "Lippincott's Magazine" is filled with fiction, long and short, varied enough to suit readers of all sorts and sizes. The Monthly Novelle, "The Other Man," by Frederic Roddell, is a modern romance with the spice of mystery. From the diamond fields in South Africa the story quickly shifts to high life in England. A tragedy happily averted makes a good end to a tale which shows those desirable gifts, marked originality and spirited style.

Among the shorter stories there is one by Alice Brown, who, it is said, rivals Mary Wilkins in her portrayal of New England types. In this, "The State-House Platter," she is at her best.

A deliciously unique story is that called "Her Spirit Husband," by Dorothy Richardson. A young girl seeking a position answers an advertisement and learns that she is wanted to keep house in a New York apartment for a "spirit husband," while the flighty Spiritualist wife gayly disports herself at the Waldorf Hotel. There is a startling denouement.

Charles Morris contrives a timely and interesting sketch entitled "Jack Sheppard, of Newgate." There is a story by Caroline Lockhart, called "Straight as a String." It is a pathetic one of Western life; fairly betrayed is its motif, a man eating his heart out in longing for the woman he loves away back in Yankee-land. Miss Lockhart has a talent for making things seem real which is in this conspicuous. A charming tale of an American student and a supposed German princeps, called "The Way Out of the Woods," is by Elizabeth Dike Lewis, and a hopeful one on a subject much discussed now is "Number 321," by Lucy Bate Jerome. It deals with the attitude of the world towards the man who has served a term in prison. Abbie Farwell Brown, a Boston young woman, contributes a little story called "Neighbors." This is characteristic of the author's city—and some others.

A name prominent in the world of letters is concealed by the pseudonym "Senex" as the writer of a delightful paper entitled "A Slender Sheaf of Memories." This embosoms some unpublished letters of both Thackeray and Carlyle and bristles with anecdotes of famous English literati.

Some facts about "Edgar Poe's Last Night in Richmond" are told by a native of that place, Dr. John F. Carter, whose portrait heads the article. The soft-coal smoke has evidently not dimmed the "Walnuts and Wine" department, for in the November number it shines out brighter than ever.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time." Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines, has its own charm and beauty. Many women dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists Nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by "Favorite Prescription" in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent and conduce to mental happiness as well as physical strength.
