President's Hunt Ended Without a Trophy.

PAST RIDE OUT OF THE WOODS.

Deer and Bear Shot by Other Members of Party to Be Sent to Washington - Negroes Greet the President at Smedes.

SMEDES, Miss., Nov. 19 .- President Scosevelt's bear hunt in Mississippi is mded, and he has not had even a shot at a bear. The last day of the chase was simply a repetition of the three preceding days so far as his luck was concerned. Try as the hunters would, they could not get a bear within range the president's rifle.

The dogs got a fresh trail early in the morning, and the president and Holt Collier followed it half a dozen miles to the Big Sunflower river. The bear crossed a mile below the ford. they went to this point, and, believing it was making for the canebrake on the other side, they endeavored to bead it off. When they got into the benke, however, they were disgusted to and that the bear had doubled on its tracks and crossed the river still farther down. It was then 1 o'clock, and arrangements had been made to break camp at 2:30 o'clock the presibest was reluctantly compelled to chandon further pursuit of the elusive

While the president was out after mar Major Helm, Dr. Lung and Secmetary Cortelyou had a more successtal deer drive on this side of the Great sunflower river. They jumped up a week and a doe. Major Helm killed the latter from his horse at about forty

Although the president has failed to all a bear on this expedition, he has ajoyed his outing and speaks in high maise of the hospitality that has been secorded him. He philosophically atabuted his ill fortune to the traditional hunter's luck and says the next ime he goes after bear he will arsange to stay long enough for the luck to change.

The deer killed yesterday and the sear killed Monday will be taken to Washington on the special train. Old Zemus, the greatest dog in the pack, ter of attraction. whose last hunt was ahead of the presdent of the United States, was badly med up and, with several of the counded dogs, was put in one of the

Had Been Extinct For Centuries. Many Explosions Have Occurred.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 19 .- According to D. A. Turner of Maford, Utab, an old volcano forming part of the Wasatch range in southern Utah between Beaver and Plute counties, which apparently has been extinct for centuries, has broken out afresh. Explosions apparently emanating from the crater have been heard for miles around, while at times columns of smoke and dust have arisen from the old volcano, and new lava formations, all very hot, have been found on the sides of the mountain.

There has been a number of slight earthquakes in that vicinity recently." said Mr. Turner, "and we have heard explosions for a distance of twenty miles from the crater. Not long ago I ascended one of these old volcanoes and found a small quantity of lava that had apparently recently overflowed from the crater, for it was still very hot, and several times of late smoke and dust in considerable quantities have been seen arising from the crater. Monday's earthquake, which was quite severe in that locality, was fresh evidence of the renewed volcanic activity in the Wasatch range."

CROWDS AT HORSE SHOW.

President's Daughter Attends and Attracts Much Attention.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 .- The second day of the annual horse show at Madison Square Garden brought out a large gathering and presented a diversified programme. The morning was principally devoted to judging backney and trotting breeding classes, neither of which was very well filled. The backneys were generally acknowledged to be of a poorer class than usual. The principal winners were Frederick C. Stevens of Attica, N. Y., and E. D. Jordan of Boston. In the trotting classes Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Bain of Poughkeepsie were very successful.

James Hobart Moore of Chicago continued his victorious career, winning in the four-in-hands over the entries of Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia, Harry Payne Whitney and A. G. Vanderbilt.

In the afternoon Miss Alice Roose velt, the president's daughter, was an attendant at the show, sitting in James W. Hyde's box. Miss Roosevelt was also present at night and was the cen-

WAGE INCREASE CONTINUES.

Many Railroads Follow the Example Set by Pennsylvania Officials.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 .- Announcements of increases in wages have been made by officials of the New York Central, the Philadelphia and Reading and the Eric railways. On the New York Central system the order applies to the train operating department and will give to 15,000 men on its lines from 8 to 13 per cent more wages. A conference at Cleveland of the representabund fully 500 people, practically all | tives of the Nickel Plate and several he negroes from the surrounding other roads was followed by a statement from a high official that advances would inevitably be made by at least twelve systems, increasing their aggregate pay rolls by $50,000,000 annually.

These announcements follow closely sylvania railroad, though it is stated that the New York Central officials began to revise their wage schedules early in October.

POET'S HOME BURNED.

Former Residence of William Cullen Bryant at Roslyn, N. Y., Destroyed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 .- Much regret is expressed in the literary circles of this city over the destruction by fire of the former home of the poet Bryant at Roslyn, on Long Island.

All the furnishings of the house, including rare paintings, costly rugs and furniture and the original library of the poet, were saved.

Peculiar Phenomenon In Australia. LONDON, Nov. 15 .- According to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Sydney, N. S. W., an extraordinary red dust storm has been experienced in Victoria and New South Wales. Darkness enshrouded the city of Melbourne at noon, and balls of fire fell and set fire to several buildings. The people were thrown into a state of panic, as they thought the world was coming to an end. A similar cloud of red dust hung like a pall over the city of Sydney and many inland towns.

UTAH VOLCANO BREAKS OUT. THE WINE EXPERT.

HE MUST BE AS TEMPERATE AS AN ATHLETE IN TRAINING.

By Sight, Smell and Taste He Tests the Quality of Liquors and Hence He Must Lead a Life at Once Rigorous and Ascetic.

Many hotels and restaurants of importance as well as many wholesale and retail liquor dealing firms employ a wine expert. It is the duty of this man to pass upon the quality of all wines, brandles, whiskies and other alcoholic beverages handled by his house. He works with an empty stomach, and he makes his tests through the three senses of sight, which tests the spirit's color and clarity; smell, which tests its odor, and taste, the most important sense, which tests its flavor. To keep these senses at once delicate and sharp the expert must not use tobacco, and in the use of liquors he must be temperate to the point of teetotalism.

If two glasses of champagne are set before a clever wine expert, one a champagne of the vintage of 1864, the other of the vintage of 1888, he will tell readily which is which. There are indeed a half dozen vintages which he can designate by their taste alone without the helpful presence of the labeled bottle.

The wine expert must also have a profound knowledge of red wines. Among the red wines of France he must be able to tell those of the Garonne from those of Burgundy and of Dauphiny.

In the white wines also he must be learned, and he should have no difficulty in distinguishing the champagnes of Sillery, of Ay, of Reims and of Eperpay and in distinguishing also their best vintages. Among the other French white wines he must know those of Sauterne, Barsac, Preignac and Bommes. And the Spanish white wines of Xeres, the German white wines of Johannisberg, Steinberg and Hockheim must be like old time friends. Whiskies and brandies are divisions of his work that are as important as the wines. He must tell at a glance whether a brandy has been aged in wood or in glass, and he must not only separate with ease the Irish, the Scotch and the American whiskles, but he even must designate the districts in which each was distilled. Considering his knowledge the salary of the wine expert is not great. It averages $40 a week. Occasionally it falls as low as $25, and occasionally it mounts to munificence.

The expert must not eat rich, heavy foods and pastries. He must not keep late hours. His life, in a word, must be as temperate as that of an athlete in training. This is in order that his senses of sight and taste and smell may be at their best always. Smoking is bad for the smell; rich foods are bad for the taste; late hours or any sort of dissipation, even the mildest, is bad for the health generally and for all the senses, sight in particular; hence the rigorous and ascetic life of the wine

The wine expert works with stomach empty, for then his taste and smell are the order for a 10 per cent advance in days only in a room flooded with sunlight, for then he can best weigh a liquor's color and lucidity. He uses glasses of the oddest shapes-a different glass almost for every liquor-for these help him to distinguish the most delicate gradations of smell and color. The brandy glass, for instance, has a bowl almost as big as a washbowl. The bottom of this bowl the brandy covers in the thinnest layer. The expert puts his face down close and, with his nose inside the bowl, rolls the brandy about, thus getting the full bouquet of the liquor.

He must never swallow the beverages he tests. He holds them in his mouth about a minute, rolling them upon his tongue and letting them touch his palate, and that is sufficient for an accurate judgment. To swallow them would not aid him, for there are no nerves of taste in the stomach. To swallow them would, on the contrary, hinder him, sending him drunk to bed each testing day.

The expert of a large and fashionable New York hotel in discussing the other day his business said: "What is more difficult than to describe in words the taste of anything? How, for instance, would you say what bread tastes like or meal or potatoes?

"But red wines have, after all, a definable taste. The poor red wines are earthy. They have a flavor of fresh soil. The good ones taste like field mushrooms, and the best ones taste like truffles. But the taste of whiskies and brandles and white wines is not to be defined in any such concrete way as this. "The wine science is a nice one. Few men know it. Few men indeed can tell with their eyes shut whisky from brandy or ale from beer. Few men who use liquor even know the wines that custom demands should be drunk with a dinner at which wine is served.'

When asked what those wines were, he said:

"Sauterne with the oysters, sherry with the soup, Rhine wine with the fish, claret with the roast, champagne with the game, saind and dessert and cognac with the coffee."-New York Tribune.

HOMESICK CADETS.

The New Man at West Point and the Pangs of Nostalgia.

The new man at West Point has one misfortune to endure throughout the first few weeks of his course-he must suffer the pangs of homesickness. He has entered upon a course of discipline quite unlike anything in his experience. Every act of his daily life is regulated by an inflexible system. He has no friend at hand; the word sympathy seems to be unknown. Older cadets look on, understand, pity, but give no sign. H. Irving Hancock says in "Life at West Point:"

It is a common sight for a cadet corporal, going into the room of a "plebe," to find him seated at his table, pen in hand and a sheet of paper before him, staring blankly at the paper or the wall. The cadet corporal takes in the scene before him.

"Homesick, mister?" he asks. "Yes, sir!" replies the plebe, looking shamefaced.

"Sure sign a new man's homesick when he's caught at study table writing his resignation," rejoins the corporal composedly.

The plebe, wondering how it is that the cadet corporal is such a mind reader, flushes, looks at the sheet before him and slowly tears it up. "That's right!" says the corporal.

Then, with a momentary touch of sympathy, he goes on: "Don't get down in the mouth, mister. I've been through the nostalgia drill myself. It's tough on you, but when you've been here a little while there's no inducement on earth that could make you leave of your own choice. Brace up! Homesickness hits 'em all at

Then the corporal glances about and falls at once into the brusque tone of the instructor.

"See here, mister," he remarks, " 'policing' is one of the most important duties of the soldier. Your shoe brush is out of place. Haven't I told you where it belongs? And you cap is on your bed. Now, mister"-

So he goes on with a list of criticisms which at once reduce life to a practical level. The plebe has enough to do for the next half hour in "tidying up," and at the end of that time he is not tempted to resume his letter. At least, he puts it off for one day

A Change Had Come Over Him. There are some things in this world for which not even the most profound rural philosopher can account to his own satisfaction.

"I never saw an animal move so slowly before in all my life!" cried an exasperated traveler in a New Hampshire stage, behind which the clouds of a rapidly rising storm were growing blacker every moment. "Can't the horse go any faster? You had an excellent one ten years ago, when I used to spend the summer here."

"That's the cur'ous thing about it." said the driver, gazing first at his steed and then at the uneasy passenger in a mildly speculative way. Mother's Girl.

There exists often a very beautiful companionship between the mother and her daughter. The intimacy is frank, free and sympathetic. But some day the mother feels as if something had chilled this intimacy. The child is silent and sad, and seems to shun her mother instead of seeking her. This change very often occurs when the young girl is crossing the bor-der line of womanhood. She is morbid, nervous, fearful, as she enters upon this new experience. The use of Dr.

Pierce's Favorite Prescription at such a time will do more than restore the normal balance of mind and body. It will establish the womanly function upon a basis of sound health, as well as improve the appe-tite, nourish the nerves, and promote the general physical health.

the general physical health.

"Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Brodhead, Green Co., Wis. "Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite stout; weighed 170—the picture of good health, until about the age of fourteen; then in six mouths she was so run down her weight was but 180. I fait I could not give her up as she was the only child. I had, and I must say. Doctor, that only for your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave today. When she had taken one-half bottle the natural fanction was established and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be."

This is the season when the turkey gobbler is gobbled.

Woman is often referred to by man as doubling his joys and halving his sorrows. That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife ow thin, pale, nervous and worn without a hought that she is over-burdened, the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have waked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maider and the maiden's happiness.
