TRICKS FOR HORSES.

THE ANIMALS ARE EASILY TAUGHT AND QUICK TO LEARN.

They Can, Without Much Trouble, Be Made to Signal "Yes" and "No," to Shake Hands and to Lie Down at the Word of Command.

There are so many things that a horse can be taught to do, says Success, that it is hard to tell which to select as best illustrating the methods by which we teach them. The following, however, will furnish the key:

Take a pin in your hand, and, standing abreast of a horse's near shoulder, prick him lightly on the breast. This resembles the bite of a fly, and to drive off the nuisance he will bring down his nose to his breast. This you accept as "Yes" and immediately reward him by feeding him a lump of sugar or some other trifle that he likes. Repeat the operation till he brings down his head at the slightest movement of your hand toward his breast. By degrees you can substitute a simple downward movement of the hand, which is less noticeable to an onlooker, but equally effective.

Standing in the same position, prick him lightly with a pin on the top of his neck. He will at once shake his head, which is accepted as "No;" then reward him as before. Repeat this until he shakes his head at the least upward movement of the hand. This signal, as he learns his lesson more perfectly, ean be gradually lessened until it is very slight indeed. To say "Yes" or 'No" is a very simple trick, and yet there is none that shows to better advantage. Of course when a horse has thoroughly learned to obey the signals you can ask him some questions and then, by the motion of your hand, make him say "Yes" or "No" as you

To teach a horse to shake hands, fasten a short strap to one fore foot below the fetlock. Then, standing in front of the horse and having the strap in your hand, say, "Shake hands," and immediately pull up his foot and take it in your hand. Then, still holding the foot, reward and caress him exactly as you would if he had given it to you of his own accord. Keep repeating the operation, being careful to reward him only while his foot is in your hand. He will very soon learn to give you his foot the moment you reach your hand to-

To teach a horse to lie down at a word of command first select a good, smooth piece of greensward, where he will not hurt himself. Harness him with a surcingle and bridle and strap up his off fore foot. A common breeching strap is best for this, the short loop around his foot between the fetlock and the hoof and the long one around his forearm. Fasten one end of a strap to the near fore foot below the fetlock, pass the other end up through the surcingle and take it in your right hand and the bridle rein in your left hand. Push him slightly, and the moment he steps pull sharply on the strap.

This of course will bring him to his knees. If he is a horse of any spirit, he will generally fight very pertinaclously before he goes down; but, having the use of only his two hind legs, fall over the other way.

Hold him down for some minutes, meanwhile speaking to him very soothingly. Feed him lumps of sugar; in fact, make as much as possible of him while in this position. Then release him and repeat the lesson. He soon learns to lie down very readily, and then you can omit strapping his off fore foot. Later you can also abandon the use of the strap and surcingle by taking his near foot in your hand. Then you can accomplish the purpose by simply touching the near fore leg with your hand and finally by a motion of your hand toward his leg.

You should always accompany the signal by the command, "Lie down!" By degrees he learns its meaning, and the signal can be dispensed with. If a horse is large and strong, the trainer must be cool, wide awake and alert; otherwise he may make a botch of it and injure the horse or himself or Eggs.

An English traveler who has visited every nation in the world is authority for the statement that one food is universal throughout all countries. "There is not a part of the world," he says, "where you cannot get an egg." While in western China, however, he at first had some difficulty in getting even eggs. The natives could not understand him and refused to recognize the pictures he drew as pictures of eggs. "The way I got out of the difficulty," he adds, "was that I squatted down on my haunches, flapped my wings and tock-o-doodle-doo'd until the entire nation grasped what I wanted, and I was simply provided with hundreds of Possibilities of the Feet. If instead of the cramping imprisonment of boots and shoes the foot from infancy were allowed a free and natural development, it may be questioned whether under such conditions it might not be rendered capable of performing other functions besides those of locomotion and sustaining the weight of the body. Certain at least it is that some unlucky mortals born without arms have managed to use a knife, fork, spoon, pen, paintbrush and even a violin bow .- Pall Mall Gazette.

SEA FLOWERS AS PETS.

The Queer Little Creatures Knows na Anemones.

The queerest pets in the world are kept in a beautiful row of clear, flashing, round glass tanks on an upper floor of a large aquarium. As you approach the tanks you behold glowing little groups of color and artistic blending and mingling of fantastic weeds and shining stones. Then when you peer into the tanks you see what at first seem to you just like particularly handsome and gorgeous flowers growing all over the little rockeries. Some of the flowers look like dainty pink and white and yellow and purple and crimson dahlias. Others look almost like daisies, with lacelike petals. Others look like little star flowers, all pure white and perfect. These flowers are of all.sizes, from tiny ones barely large enough to see to great ones almost large enough to fill a saucer.

But if you will watch these "flowers" for a few minutes you will jump suddenly, for all at once you will see one move its petals. Then you will see another and another do it. Slowly the petals unfold or contract, with little jerking movements, sometimes twining in the water like snakes.

Tap smartly on the table on which the tanks stand, and like lightning all the petals will have disappeared. These sea flowers are really not flowers at all. They are living creatures, known as sea anemones. For many years a scientist has tended and fed them, and the little animated flowers actually have come to know him. When he feeds them, he puts a little bit of fish on the end of a long pointed stick and puts it carefully down into the water until it is near the anemone. It did not take long for the beautiful things to understand it, and, whereas at first they used to withdraw their petals and shut up tightly when the stick approached, now they twine gracefully and stretch their dainty arms out as far as they can go in order to reach it .- London

LONDON CAB SERVICE.

Why It Is the Best and the Cheapest

In the World. "Everyone knows, either from experience or hearsay, that the cab service in London is the best and cheapest in the world, but few of us know So when I was over there I made it a point to find out."

The woman who occupied the other seat in the hansom looked as if she would like to hear the result of his investigations. "It is mainly due," he continued, "to the fact that licenses to drive cabs and buses through the London streets are hard to get. An applicant must furnish the most satisfactory proofs of his honesty when he files his application at Scotland Yard, and his references are carefully verified. Then he undergoes such a rigid examination as to his knowledge of streets and localities that but little more than half the candidates manage to pull through it. Those who do are then tested as to their ability to drive through the crowded thoroughfares, the test being a practical one, with an inspector of police, who is himself an expert driver, seated by the side of the would be Jehu as he threads his way through the jam. Probably 20 he soon becomes wearied and rests per cent of the applicants come to with his knees on the ground. Now grief during this test, as the slightest pull his head toward you, and he will infraction of the rules of the road or the exercise of bad judgment in controlling or guiding his horse means absolute failure. If successful, the applicant is impressed with the importance of returning all articles left in his cab to headquarters without delay and told that an attempt to make excessive charges means the forfeiture of his license. The result is comparative safety to the passengers in cabs and a reasonable certainly that there will be no attempt upon the 'cabby's' part to overcharge his fare."-New York Tribune.

> A Story of Cervantes. Cervantes once gave a proof that his generosity was fully equal to his genius. In the early part of his life he was for some time a slave in Algiers, and there he devised a plan to free himself and thirteen of his fellow sufferers.

> One of them traitorously revealed the design, and they were all brought before the dey of Algiers, who promised them their lives on condition that they revealed the contriver of the plot.

"I was that person," at once cried Cervantes. "Save my companions and let me perish alone."

The dey, struck by his intrepidity, spared his life, allowed him to be ransomed and permitted him to go home.

Stringent Regulations for Admissions to the Bar Ordered by the Supreme Court.

The long contest to raise the stand ard of admissions to the Bar has culminated in the new rules handed burg last week, which are to take effect on the first Monday in January, 1903. They provide that no person shall be admitted except upon recommendation of the State Board of Law Examiners, that any one who at this date is a duly constituted member of a county Bar may be admitted after two years' practice, but that this provision shall not apply to any man heretofore admitted on the diploma of a law school, unless he shall have practiced two years in a county court. All other applicants for admission must be registered with the Prothonotary of the Supreme Court at Philadelphia after passing a preliminary exam . nation before the State Board in English language, literature, universal history, history of England and of the United States, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, geopraphy, the first four books of Cæsar's Commentaries, the first six books of Virgil's "Aeneid," and the first four orations of Cicero against Cataline, for which examination a fee of $10 must be paid to the State

After registration candidates for admission must spend three years in the study of law either by attendance upon the regular course of a law a regular clerkship in the office of a part in the service of a clerkship. A candidate must also advertise his inweeks in the Legal Intelligencer of Philadelphia and also in a paper published in the county where he studied, and he must prove good moral char-

For this examination a fee of $20 must be paid to the Board.

Examinations for registration and for admission to the Bar are directed to be conducted in writing and held simultaneously twice a year in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Williamsport and Wilkesbarre. The members of the Examining Board are appointed for five years. One member of the present Board shall withdraw at the end of each year.

Days Are Short.

The shortest days of the year are gradually coming along and merchants and office workers are obliged to turn on the gas or electric lights as early as 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Though short now, especially the afternoons, daylight will be curtailed still further until the 21st of December, when after a stand still of some days it will again begin to lengthen.

The Susquehanna correspondent of Wednesday's Scranton Republican says: Two woodchoppers cut down Daniel Derr.

Seized, taken in execution at the suit of Cathstump they found the skeleton of a man. Clothing was found with the bones. There was a hole in the tree, but it could only be reached by a ladder or by climbing. About 10 years ago a shoemaker named Vandermark suddenly disappeared. Many supposed that he had money and had been murdered for it. The skeleton is believed to be his. The murdered man must have been cut in pieces before being put in the hollow of the tree, as the hole was too small to admit the whole body.
