

THE MOHAVE INDIAN

He Is the Lowest Type to Be Found in the Southwest.

In Former Years Members of This Tribe Indulged in Cannibalistic Orgies—Short Talk with an Old Sinner.

[Special Arizona Letter.]

IT HAS long been a question with students as to whether any of the Indians now living in United States territory were ever cannibals in historic times.

OLD MOHAVE CANNIBAL.

seems to be a general reluctance to even believe that the Indians of our country were ever guilty of so loathsome and terrible a practice.

- 1. They are not cannibals. 2. They do not eat any portion or portions of the body of an enemy slain in war.

But if individual confession goes for anything, the photograph here presented of a Mohave Indian is that of a cannibal.

After showing how the poor murdered wretches were scalped, he would then describe the building of a fire, and the dismemberment of the white man.

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Man beef!"

To civilize such degraded specimens of humanity is hard, and I never think of that old man but my heart goes out to the men and women who are engaged in trying to elevate the Mohaves.

Some of the younger members are quite bright. The older ones, however, still stick tenaciously to old customs as can be seen by looking at the second photograph, where the rabbit skin blanket is still worn by the aged Indian.

Their looseness of morals is past belief, so that one is quite prepared to believe the old man's horrible stories of his murders and cannibalism.

Needles and Yuma, where a large number of this tribe resides. They are without doubt the most degraded of all Indians of the southwest.

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Man beef!"

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Man beef!"

When I asked the old wretch which he liked the better, human flesh or beef, he showed his teeth and exclaimed: "Man beef!"

He fairly seems to glory in his debasement.

Listen to him as he tells his revolting story, while I try to picture his appearance, of medium height, well boned and muscular, he is evidently a strong athletic fellow, though now old enough to have many gray hairs.

It is of the long ago, before any white man had established himself in the Mohave country.

There were no reservations, and the "big father" at Washington did not know of their existence, nor did they know anything about him.

There were a few white men up the river. One came in a big boat that belched out fire and smoke.

Had No Use for It. "Now, here is a showense," said the dealer, pointing to a peculiar-looking specimen of his wares.

"Can't use it in my business," replied the prospective customer. "What I want is a case that will seemingly reduce the actual size of its contents fully one-half."

"What is your line?" asked the dealer. "My speciality is ladies' shoes," replied the other, with a half-sneering grin.

"Cheer up!" cried the statesman, whose side met defeat. "The verdict will soon be reversed. They'll blunder so much they'll be easy to beat."

Next time. Let us hope for the worst!

ORDINANCE NO. 118

The Town of Bloomsburg, Pa.

WHEREAS, the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad Company desires to extend the switch now connecting with its main line of railroad from its present terminus in the rear of the plant of the Bloomsburg Electric Light & Power Company so as to connect with the manufacturing plants situated on the southern side of the Pennsylvania Canal in the town of Bloomsburg and

WHEREAS, the said D. L. & W. Railroad Company has already prepared the right of way over all private property through which the extension of said switch will pass and

WHEREAS, by the draft heretofore submitted to the Town Council it appears that in the extension of said switch it will be necessary for the same to cross Catharine street in said Town near the intersection with Ninth street and to diagonally cross and occupy Ninth street as well as to a point west of the manufacturing plant now known as the Elevator Works:

Therefore be it ordained and enacted by the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same: Section 1.—That the said D. L. & W. Railroad Company is hereby permitted to locate, construct, establish and use as a railroad switch of two single tracks across and over Catharine street in the Town of Bloomsburg, near the intersection of said street with Ninth street and of one track over and along the south side of Ninth street as well as to a point immediately west of the plant now known as the Elevator Works subject to the terms and conditions in the ordinance mentioned and to such other reasonable and lawful regulations as may be hereafter by the Town Council from time to time made or required.

Section 2.—The route of said railroad switch, its grade and construction shall be to the satisfaction and approval of the Engineer of the Town; and it shall be constructed, maintained and used in all its parts at the crossing of other streets or highways or upon or along the same at such grade as shall be fixed by the Town Council and to the satisfaction and approval of the Engineer of the Town and so as not to interfere with the use of such streets and highways except so much as is actually necessary and shall be by the said company so kept, maintained and used, and the said company its successors, lessees or others operating the same shall submit to and observe all legal and reasonable regulations which may be at any time made by the Town Council with reference to speed of trains, grades, flagmen, etc.

Section 3.—That under reasonable conditions all companies or individuals owning land along the line of said switch shall have the privilege of connecting therewith and the said railroad or switch shall be so operated and managed that there shall be no unjust discrimination in freight or charges and that under just and equitable conditions opportunity shall be afforded to the industries along its line to have their merchandise transported over it to and from the tracks of other railroads than the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

Section 4.—The said company shall be liable for all damages to public or private property by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said switch or by reason of any privilege granted by the Town Council, and nothing in this ordinance contained shall be construed in any manner to affect the rights of individuals or others as to damages by reason of the location, construction and maintenance and use of said switch or any construction connected therewith in this ordinance mentioned or referred to and the said company its successors, lessees or others owning or operating the said switch or constructions shall keep the same in good order and save the Town of Bloomsburg harmless from any responsibility or liability whatsoever by reason of the location, construction, maintenance and use of said switch or constructions.

Section 5.—The said company shall pay all costs and expenses incident to the drawing, printing, posting and publishing this ordinance and all services performed by the Engineer of the Town or other Town officers, or employees and expenses incurred by the Town by reason of their services necessary under the provisions of this ordinance in the construction, maintenance and use of the works of the said company shall be paid by the said company.

Section 6.—This ordinance shall not be of force until it shall be certified to by the D. L. & W. Railroad Company and by said Company accepted and approved and such acceptance and approval certified to the Town Council. Attest:—FREDERICK QUICK, Secretary. Passed November 16, 1902.
