

GAME IN THE STATE MORE PLENTIFUL.

Commission's Report Says That the Recent Hunting Season Was Unusually Good-Deer Rapidly Increasing.

The State Game Commission has filed its biennial report with Governor Stone with a number of recommendations and suggestions.

The report says that the interest in game, song and insectivorous birds has very materially increased in this state since the enactment of wise laws looking to their protection. The laws prohibiting the killing of certain game for sale, and shipment of all kinds of game out of the state, and the killing of song and insectivorous birds and the Spring shooting of aquatic fowl have attained the purpose intended, and many States and Territories and several of the provinces of Canada have followed Pennsylvania's lead in these matters.

The commission says that public opinion is with it in the enforcement of the game laws, and it is mater; ally assisted by sportsmen and those engaged in agricultural pursuits who realize the value of the living bird.

The law requiring non-resident hunters to pay a license unless they own property in the state has been avoided in a number of instances by men who purchase a small tract of "wild cat land" and hunt as they To Be Made a Transfer Point For Outlet of please with no license requirement. The commission recommends an amended law that will require the noaresident to pay the tax even though General Superintendent W. A. Garkind of a bird.

The commission lost nine cases and way. It has private information of fity dogs caught chasing deer and bined hunters of the state both in and out of season. Deer are rapidly increasing in this state, and if the dog and at proportionate rates from other question is settled, as now seems points. probable, hunting will be as enjoyable in Pennsylvania as in any state in the Union. The game wardens of the state discovered and destroyed many deer licks, and found many hunting camps in operation after the deer season had closed, the hunters claiming that they were hunting bears, which leads to the suggestion that the open season for deer and bears be made the same.

The commission takes strong ground against the shooting of deer with buck-shot, claiming that the game is wounded and wanders off to die.

The commission found much valuable timber destroyed by ferest fires kindled by careless hunters, resulting in the killing of many nesting birds and young animals,

It is suggested that the State Forestry Commission set apart a certain portion of the state lands as a game refuge, and absolutely prohibit on for a stated period.

Reference is made to the prosecution of forty members of the Blooming Grove Park Association in Pike county. These men are all non-residents, but claim by virtue of a special act of 1871 to have the right to do as they please on their reserves regardless of subsequent laws. This right the commission has questioned, and will have the matter adjusted in court, but it outside to push the cases, as the men prosecuted are all wealthy and are making a great resistance.

Reports from all over the state show there has been more game in Pennsylvania than for many years, and more has been killed during the season just closed, a hunter seldom returning home empty-handed. The report says: "We are reliably informed there is still a colony of beaver in this state; they are found in the western portion of the wild sec tion. There is no possible way where by harm can come to any individual or the state through their absolute protection. A sufficient increase in their numbers might result in benefit to the state, and we recommend a law protecting this animal in the Commonwealth."

In closing the commission asks for $20,000 to carry on the work for the next two years.

Pennsylvania to Make Effort

The power of the coal sharks who have been raising the price of tuel in the cities is likely to be broken shortly. Sales agents of the Pennsylvania road declare that no necessity for exorbitant prices exists and they have decided to use the vast power of their corporation to keep the price from dred Dollars for any case that it fails reaching higher than $7.50 in the territory supplied by them.

WASHINGTON.

Washington, January 19, 1903. An attack almost as cutting as that Senator Hill made on the protective democrats in the Senate when the Wilson bill was under consideration was made this week by Senator Dolliver of Iowa to the atter consternation of his high protection colleagues. Mr. Dolliver states what every newspaperman knows to be a fact, that the rates in the Dingley bill were placed the killing of all kinds of game there- far higher than was deemed necessary from the standpoint of protection with a view to leaving a margin for trading purposes, that is, with the expectation that the duties would be reduced by the negotiation of reciprocity treaties. Senator Vest made this statement sev eral days ago and it was immediately contested by Senators Aldrich, Hale and other extreme protectionists. Its confirmation by Senator Dolliver, himself a republican, was, therefore, from has had to collect financial aid from the standpoint of the republicans, a most injudicious and damaging admission and the criticisms of the Iowa Senator were severe in the extreme.

> "More violence has been done to the prospective system by the stolid, quiet, uncommunicative failure of the Senate to take action upon the reciprocity treaties than all the noise made by the democrats on coal" said Mr. Dolliver. He charged that it re mained a reproach on Congress that not one line of the wisdom of James G. Blaine remained on the statute books and not a step had been taken to fulfill the purpose and spirit of the last Buffalo address of President Mc Kinley. The interjection of what they term the "lowa idea" in the Senute is regarded as the first gun in what promises to become eventually a long and bitter fight between those senators who are in a measure responsive to the wishes of their constitutents and that class which is wholly subservient to the protected interests of their For Piles.

The House passed yesterday an exraordinary and ludicrous piece of legslation with the alleged hope of relieving the coal situation. The bill. after having been rushed through the House, came over to the Senate, and was immediately taken up. The measure provided that all the duties on coal should be collected but that they should be rebated to the importers for a period of one year. When it came up in the Senate, however, the democrats made a unnanimous charge and it resulted in the measure's being so amended as to place anthracite coal on the free list permanently. The House accepted the amendment and the bill will go to the President today As it is in entire accordance with the recommendation in his message, Mr. it may result in affording the consumers a modicum of relief.

Many former friends of the President are disgusted with his avidity for renomination and he is constantly estranging memders of his party by his tactiessness. During the past week he gave out the statement that unless legislation in accordance with the Attorney General's anti-trust recommendations was enacted at this session he would call the Fifty-righth Congress in extra session for that purpose immediately after the 4th of March. Asked what legislation must be enacted to forestall such a call Mr. Roosevelt said such legislation as the Attorney General shall pronounce adequate. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has decided to report the Cuban treaty, but they did not dare to do so without pledging the United States to make no further concession on the duty on sugar than is now provided by the treaty, 20 per cent from the Dingley rates. By this means they have probably effectually blocked the negotiation of any reciprocity treaty with a sugar producing country as the treaty provides for a 20 per cent differential in favor of Cuba.

The Statehood bill still holds its place on the Senate calender but the republicans are straining every nerve to displace it and as the session grows older without a vote it is feared that they may prove successful.
