BOND IN A PICTURE.

A SHOWER OF RATS.

Woman in an Old Daguerreotype Frame.

The treasury department lately rereived from United States Consul General Guenther, at Frankfort-onthe-Main, Germany, a United States bond for $500, which he forwarded for redemption for the benefit of Mrs. Martha Schnell, an old woman living at Bornheim, reports the Washington Star.

He writes that Mrs. Schnell has a fad for collecting daguerreotypes, and recently in cleaning one she had had about ten years, she accidentally broke the glass covering the portrait, disclosing the bond, which had been neatly folded and placed in its hiding place many years before.

Mrs. Schnell was about to throw it away, but was persuaded to take it to the United States consul to ascertain if it had any value.

The portrait is faded beyond possible recognition, but the old case tlous, were terribly frightened and shows that it was made in Worcester, Mass.

The bond is of the issue of July 1, 1867, series C, and has 28 coupons attached, showing that the last one was removed for interest due January 1, 1873. Interest on the bond, however, ceased on April 6, 1879.

United States Treasurer Roberts forwarded to Mr. Guenther for Mrs. Schnell a government warrant for $6$7.81, covering the principal and interest to 1879 .- Washington Post.

THE LOST SIXTEENTH.

That Much of a Second Missing and Scientists Cannot Tell Where It lins Gone.

If one grain of sand on the shore of the ocean were lost, and scientists were to spend years in trying to find it, they would be attempting a task resembling that to which leading astronomers of England and France are now devoting themselves, says the Toronto (Ont.) Mail and Empire. and no one can tell where it has stood at Paris, there is that brief and seemingly unimportant discrepancy. No expense is being spared to trace the missing fraction. A special building has been erected at Paris, costly instruments installed, a corps of mathematicians engaged, principle, and a process that may take years to complete has been commenced. The inaccuracy is more important than will appear to the lay mind. Longitude is calculated on the basis of Greenwich time. It determines the boundaries of many countries. A slight variation of time may change the nationality of thousands of people. The pursuit of the missing fraction of a second is therefore of world-wide importance. We shall all be much relieved when it has been found, for then not a grain of the sands of time will be missing.

> The town of Bougie, in Algeria, was Jately visited by a shower of rats. in company with many hundreds of monkeys, inhabited the Couraya, a high mountain towering over Bougie. The great storm which swept them from the mountain arose early in the afternoon, and soon developed into a furious hurricane. A huge funnelshaped cloud of dust and stones hurled itself over the mountain, destroying everything in its path. Oddly enough, most of the monkeys managed to hold on to the pine trees, sithough the larger portion of them were killed; but literally thousands of rats were carried high into the air and strewn and the suburbs of Bougie.

The Kabyle tribes of the neighborhood, who are extremely superstifled in all directions, spreading terror over the district. They believed that the rats were sent down from the skies to punish them, and that the end of the world had come. In the town the more intelligent Arabs were less superstitious and promptly set to work to kill those rats which were not already dead. But there were so many of them still alive and they found such convenient hiding places that the hunt is still going on,

The suprefect of Bougle went out into the country on his motor car to reassure the Kaybles, and finally succeeded in pacifying the chiefs so that the people returned to their homes. REVEALS INCONSISTENCIES.

Charles Meissen, French explorer, in traveling through Siam, observed a species of small gray ants which were new to him, says the Kobe (Japan) Herald. These ants were much engaged in traveling. They lived in damp places and went in troops. To his surprise he noticed among them from time to time an occasional ant which was much larger than the others and moved at a much ants, M. Meissen saw, always carried one of the gray ants on its back. While the main body of gray ants were always on foot they were ac companied by at least one of their own sort mounted on one of these larger ants. It mounted and de' tached itself now and then from the line, rode rapidly to the head, came swiftly back to the rear, and seemed to be the commander of the expedition.

The explorer was satisfied that thi species of ant employs a larger ant possibly a drone of the same spe cies-just as we employ horses to provided with a mount.

Agree to Lash Each Other Rather Than Go to Jail for Their Theft.

In Anderson county, S. C., two negroes were recently caught in the act of robbing a farmer, and, rather than go to jail, they offered to accept any punishment the farmer might inflict. The farmer decided that they should not interfere with the plans for the congregation together every week. lashing. Each was given a buggy trace, and they fought each other until the blood began to flow.

A big erowd gathered to watch the man who had been robbed acted as referee, and made the negroes break clean when they clinched.

Under the rules the contest had to | teepth and eighteenth centuries. continue until one negro had given the other 100 lashes. Foul tips were not counted. Finally, after a desperate fight, the referee lifted his hand as a signal to stop. The man who suggested the whipping had given his enemy 100 lashes. He got 75. QUEER USE FOR HUMAN SKIN.

Mummies Ground by Machinery and Converted Into Paint for Artists' Colors.

Not many persons are aware of the fact that the best brown paint used by artists is made from human bodies. 'The bones and skin, which are ground up by artists' colormen swifter pace. d each of these targer and sold in tiny tubes, are those of mummies taken out of the Egyptian mausoleums.

When a person died in Egypt a century or two B. C. he was preserved in the finest bitumen. The remains of a body treated thus in those times on being unwrapped to-day present an appearance similar to lightcolored leather. The bitumen and the leather-like remains are ground down by machinery, and turned into a beantiful brown liquid paint which is the delight of all artists. In the manufacture of artists' colors, animal, vegetable and mineral substances are largely used, states ride upon, though scarcely more than the Detroit News-Tribune. Crimson one ant in each colony seems to be and purple lakes and carmine are all obtained from the cochineal insect. Sepia is the dark fluid discharged by the cuttlefish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked by a larger fish. Prussian blue is made by fusing the hoofs of horses with impure potassium carbonate, and ultramarine is obtained from the precious mineral known as lapis lazuli.
