GRANGE PRINCIPLES.

Dignity of Labor, Fair Dealing and Good Citizenship.

We have nowhere seen a better presentation of the principles and purposes of the grange than the following in the American Agriculturist by Mr. J. A. Herr:

The character of the grange membership and their faith in the Order are such as give permanence to the organization. The effect of united grange effort is seen and felt in the legislature and other benefits secured in the interest of the farmer, along all lines of work.

The grange organization stands entirely for good. The principles are dignity of labor, honest dealing, justice to all, courage, temperance, thoroughness, peaceful citizenship, charity and unspotted character.

The grange encourages advanced education and seeks to elevate not only its membership, but the community in which it exists to a higher plane of culture, refinement and social standing.

THE GRANGE AT WORK.

Petitions That Filled Barrels When the Anti-Boiler Bill Was Up.

In the year 1899, when the oleo question was being agitated, the grange thought it about time that we as an organization began to do something to protect our interests; therefore we passed some resolutions that we would take up what is known as the Groul bill and would use the forces of organization on it to see what could be brought about.

The subordinate granges in Minnesota are flourishing, and a healthy growth is everywhere manifest. There is some opposition manifest by people who would use the grange for their own purpose, but faithful members are working in season and out of season to block such schemes.

It is the farm that marks our progress; it is the barometer of our prosperity and commands for us our proud position that we occupy among our sister states.

Thanks to the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, in Minnesota means are provided which will enable farmers to acquire this art and skill. Our agricultural college stands at the head of all such institutions as to quality and extent of work.

At the last session of the Illinois state grange resolutions were adopted in favor of central township schools; to give No. 2 corn its former grade in grain inspection system; for parcels post and postal savings banks; against one cent letter postage until the rural delivery is fully established; for the people to initiate and ratify important legislation; against ship subsidy; to manage state institutions under civil service rules; for highway control of motor vehicles; people to elect United States senators; for government control of monopolistic corporations; for the isthmus and inland ship canals; for pure food and anti-shoddy laws; for reciprocal treaties to widen foreign grain markets; to enlarge powers of the interstate commerce commission.

It is well for us to consider in our fraternal relations that our happiness as well as the happiness of others depends upon our belief in the goodness of bad people a lot more than it does on our belief in the badness of good people.—George A. Fuller.

The minor advantages of membership in the grange are directly financial, but the principal advantages are social and educational.

Rowes Corner (Me.) grange is only a little over a year old, but has 200 members and property valued at $6,000.

HORTICULTURE

AN EFFECTIVE HOTBED.

Valuable Suggestions for Farmers Who Are Thinking of Giving Gardening a Fair Trial.

The location for a good hotbed needs to be chosen with some care; it should be sheltered by trees or by a good, broad fence on the north side. This fence should be six and one-half feet high, and is usually built leaning back about six inches from perpendicular at the top so that mats, sashes or shutters leaned up against the fence will not so readily be blown down by the wind.

The best material for heat is fresh horse manure from a stable where not less than eight horses are kept, well fed with grain. The manure should be piled up near the bed until enough is ready. It will need a cord of manure for each ten or 15 sashes. If not needed immediately, it should be pitched over frequently, to prevent burning.

The frames for hotbeds are usually put in order in the fall before the ground freezes, and are covered with leaves or other litter deeply enough to prevent freezing.

The advantages in building beds in this manner over the method of building them above ground are that the manure in a pit will retain its heat better than when exposed to the wind, and the bed will need far less watering. Hotbeds thus constructed are used for forcing winter crops of lettuce and radishes, and for starting seeds of tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, peppers, cucumbers and onions for transplanting to the open field in April and May.

The garden plot may be cleared off and the trash burned before the ground is in condition to plow. If you have only a few raspberry and currant bushes on the place, put the coal ashes about them. Good seed, well planted in good soil, well prepared, seldom fails to grow. Once up and good culture given, they generally give satisfactory returns.

Burn all trash from the garden; besides the tidy appearance given by the operation an untold number of insects and fungi germs will be put beyond the power of doing damage to the garden this summer. The ashes will do good, not harm, to the garden. Gooseberry and currants may be propagated from cuttings. Take last year's growth of wood, stick in well prepared soil so that two or more buds are below the surface. Do this before the buds swell. Keep free from weeds this season. Next spring you can transplant a nice little bush.

Dust Spraying in Favor. Spraying materials have been applied more or less from the first in the form of a dry powder, usually diluted with slaked lime, flour or some other cheap substance. This method has generally been used in treating low-growing plants like potatoes, but in some sections it has within the last few years been given a wider application and used in combating orchard pests. It is highly recommended by some of those who have adopted it, and appears to be of growing importance. It would seem to be of special value in places where it is difficult to get water for the wet method. Several machines for dusting plants and trees are on the market.

To the Holder or Holders of a mortgage dated March 15, 1848 given by Edward Holmes and J. S. Woods to Ralph R. Carpenter, on one hundred acres of land situate in Fishing Creek township, Columbia County, Pennsylvania.

Whereas Elias Wenner has filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Columbia County setting forth that Edward Holmes and J. S. Woods executed, and delivered to Ralph R. Carpenter a mortgage on one hundred acres of land owned by them in Fishing Creek township, Columbia County and state aforesaid, for $250.00, on March 15, 1848, which mortgage is recorded in the Recorder's office at Bloomsburg in Mortgage Book Vol. 3, page 160 etc; and that said Ralph R. Carpenter has not legally entered satisfaction on the record of said mortgage, but has acknowledged payment of the same; and that the said J. S. Woods could not legally enter satisfaction on the record of said mortgage, but has acknowledged payment of the same; and that the legal presumption of payment exists from lapse of time that said land is bound by when now or late of Ralph R. Carpenter and J. S. Frick, J. Deterick, and others, and contains one hundred acres. Now therefore the legal holder of said mortgage is hereby notified and required to appear in the said Court on the second Monday of May 1903, to answer the said petition.
