OHRISTIAN SOIENCE.

Editor of the COLUMBIAN, Bloomsburg, Pa.,

Dear Sir; Editorial opinion seems to be divided upon the recent decision of the Supreme Court of our State regarding the right of Christian Scientists to be chartered. Many papers have taken exception to the ruling, claiming that it is unjust. In your issue of recent date I notice reference to this matter, and in view of its importance I would like to add a few words from the standpoint of a Christian Scientist.

It is unjust to assume that the practice of Christian Science violates the laws of sanitation or any other public health regulation. In no instance has infection followed this practice which, on the contrary, has effectively prevented the spread of contagion as well as healed disease. The Christian Scientist at all times recognizes that disease needs to be met and mastered. Its presence is by no means ignored, and at no time would a true Christian Scientist consent to endanger the health of his neighbor by omitting necessary precaution to prevent spread of disease. Christian Science stands for purity and cleanliness, and wherever understood and advocated has resulted in elevating the standard of citizenship. In this connection Dr. Ernest Lederle, President of the Health Department of New York City, recently stated: "Since I have been at the head of the Health Department I have received no proof of any violation of the rules and regulations of the Sanitary Code by a Christian Scientist. I know they are reporting their cases of contagion, as required by law, and are taking the necessary precautions of isolation and disintection."

Christian Scientists in their profession go no farther than other Christians. Their works however, are the logical outcome of this profession, and should be so recognized. God's word rightly understood ever has healed and ever will heal the sick, and neither Christian Scientists nor any one else can alter this fact any more than the sun can be restrained from casting its rays upon the earth. To contend that Christians are not justified in relying entirely upon prayer for the recovery of the sick is to charge the Founder of the Christian religion and his disciples with being at fault. He advocated no other means, and bade his tollowers look to God through the medium of prayer for rehef from all ills.

Christian Scientists make no attempt to practice medicine. They rely entirely upon prayer. They practice only upon themselves and upon others who apply to them for relief, and in no way do they try to enforce their beliefs upon others. The right of religious liberty granted by our Constitution insures all the protection reeded in the exercise of these Protective league, located at Litchrights, and this liberty cannot be field, Ill., which has a present memberwithheld by the Courts of any Commonwealth. The present decision changes in no way the present status of Christian Science. Many religious organizations have never sought incorporation, considering it unnecessary. Withholding a charter can in no way interfere with the growth and prosperity of this organization. Progress will some day demand that it be given legal recognition in this State. Faith in God will ultimately triumph, and until better understood Christian Scientists can afford to wait.

ALBERT E. MILLER.

A Big Uar and its Burden.

Probably the largest car ever seen in Centralia was drawn over the Lehigh Valley railroad on Saturday afternoon. People who happened to be near the railroad all paused and viewed this monster car with surprise. It was a specially constructed car on 32 wheels and measured 103 feet in length. It conveyed two steel castings weighing 227,000 pounds, consigned to the Carnegie seel plant at Homestead. The castings are a part of the 13,000 ton forging press for the Carnegie plant and were manufactured by the Bethlehem Steel Company. The engineer in charge of this monster cargo had instructions to avoid passing east bound trains on curves.

CURIOUS INVENTION.

It Consists of a Portable Stove Which Is Strapped on the Back and Heated with Oil.

In many portions of this country the cold in winter is intense enough to make one prefer a warm fireside to exposure in the open air, no matter how much we may talk about the "bracing" effect of this kind of weather. For those who are compelled to face the cold under conditions where the natural heat of the blood is not sufficient to keep the body comfortable an Oregon inventor has produced a portable foot and body warmer, which he thinks will at least prevent the extremities from freezing.

It is well known, says the Chicago News, that when a person is overcome by the cold the numbness first starts in the hands and feet, chilling the blood until the circulation is reduced to such an extent that it no longer carries the heat from the heart and lungs to the surface to fight the cold. The use of this invention is to maintain the warmth of the extremitles artificially by circulating a continuous stream of warm water from the miniature stove through a series of pipes leading to warming pads in contact with the hands and feet or other parts of the body.

The stove, which is strapped on the back, is provided with oil for fuel and the flame maintains a comparatively high temperature inside the adjacent boiler, through which the liquid passes is its circuit of the pipes. These pipes are of rubber and can be easily adjusted inside the clothing. While it is not expected this novelty will come into general use, there is little question that it is capable of overcoming the effects of the intense cold of a northern winter and its introduction will make extreme low temperature easier for the body to withstand.

He is also a leading politician in his county and is quite a fraternal man, being a member of all the leading fraternal organizations of importance. He is married and has a happy family, composed of wife, two sons and a daughter.

A Mother to the Girl.

The woman who had lost her maid at the moment that she was expecting visitors went to the janitor in her distress, hoping that he might be able to find some one to help her out. He was Hibernian and effusively sympathetic. 'Shure an' it's too bad," he assured her, "an' you afther bein' a mither to that girl!" As the girl was as black as a negro could be, the woman took the compliment with reservations.

A Valuable Publication.

The Pennsylvania Railroad 1903 Summer Excursion Route Book.

On June 1 the Passenger Depart ment of the Pennsylvania Railroa l Company published the 1903 edition of the Summer Excursion Route Book. This work is designed to provide the public with descriptive notes of the principal Summer resorts of Eastern America, with the best routes for reaching them, and the rates of fare. It contains all the principal seashore and mountain resorts of the East, and over seventeen hundred different toutes or combination of routes. The book has been compiled with the greatest care, and altogether is the most complete and comprehensive handbook of Summer travel ever offered to the public.

The cover is handsome and striking, printed in colors, and the book contains several maps, presenting the exact routes over which tickets are sold. The book is profusely illustrated with fine half-tone cuts of scenery at the various resorts and along the lines of Pennsylvania Railroad.

On and after June 1 this very in. teresting book may be procured at any Pennsylvania Railroad ticket office at the nominal price of ten cents, or, upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, Pa., by mail for twenty

A Memorable and Sumptuous Exposition-The Grand Biblical Spectacle-Solomon, His Temple, and the Queen of Sheba.

The Enquirer, the Commercial Tribune and other leading papers, both German and English, of Cincinnati, are prolific in their praises of this new and most impressive of all spectacles, which, at an expense that would seem fabulous, the enterprising manager of John Robinson's 10 Big Shows Combined produce this year in connection with their myriad other attractions. There is no sense so vivid, so lasting and so conclusive as the sense of seeing, and however studiously we may search the Scriptures or other sacred history, the ideas that we may form and the impressions we may receive concerning the patriarchs and sages, and the scenes, incidents and events consequent to their time, can be but fractionary and imperfect. To have reproduced those personages and effect before you; to hear Solomon RAILROAD TIME TABLE events and have placed scenographic re-utter his wise and prophetic words; to see in person Sheba's illustrious Queen; and the pomp and circumstance of her surroundings; to view the great Temple of Solomon, not by description, but by actual inspection; to witness personally the sumptuous and resplendent festivals of the great Solomon's court-these are the inestimable privileges which the John Robinson's 10 Big Combined Shows accords its patrons in connection with the great circus, the menagerie, and Illinois association numerous times in the royal Roman hippodrome. The spectacle of Solomon, his Temple, and the Queen of Sheba, will be exhibited here Tuesday next, June
