L. B. Bayne who since July last, has been the affable and efficient book keeper for the Danville & Bloomsburg Street Railway Com-pany, has resigned. He left on Saturday for his home in Pittsburg, carrying with him the best wishes of a host of admiring friends.

Rehearsals for the Wheelmen's big minstrels are being held up, owing to the inability of the Club to rent a piano. All the music has been received and the stage setting planned, but the music dealers of town have only new instruments in stock, and they refuse to hire them out.

The death of John Staver, father of our townsman James M. Staver occurred at his home in Jersey Shore on Friday last. He was somewhat enfeebled by age, being 88 years old, but the end was hast-ened by a fall which he sustained nearly a year ago.

The Calvary basket ball team of Wilkes-Barre defeated the Normal boys in the gymnasium Saturday evening by the narrow margin of one point. It was a hard game for Normal to lose inasmuch as they led from the start up to within the last few minutes of play. Petitioned Court for Writ of Mandamus-

The first move in the legal proceedings to have the bridge across the Susquehanna River at Mifflinville erected, was made on Monday, when District Attorney A. W. Duy petitioned the Court for a writ of mandamus to require the County Commissioners, William H. Fisher, William Bogart and George W. Sterner, to build the bridge. The Court directed that a writ should issue. It is made returnable at the May term of court. The matter has been taken up by the Commissioners, and they have instructed their engineer to prepare plans and make estimates to construct the bridge in conformity to the direction of the Supreme Court. They will be obliged however, to wait the action of the Court, as the funds must be provided, or bonds issued to meet the additional cost of an overhead crossing.

We see by the city dailies that a Chicago man is in court because he was "frozen out" of a mining company in which he owned $200,000 in stock. The capital was $3,000,-000. Some other fellow bought $300,000 worth of the stock for $3,000 and helped freeze the com-plainant out. This is a sample mining deal and shows how much chance the average small stockholder has in these schemes. As a rule the winning schemes are of two classes. In the one there is no value to the mine, and in the
