HOW GERMANY GETS TRADE.

Leaves no Stone Unturned in Order Get Lion's Share.

The American people have no conception of the vigor and aggressiveness with which Germany is urging her claims in the foreign markets and circumventing so far as possible the efforts of other countries to secure a share of the foreign trade. It is German influence, exerted through certain well-known channels, that has helped to defeat our ship-subsidy bills, and other plans and measures designed to develop and promote our foreign commerce. It is the same policy that has led to the formation of the German syndicate to help defeat Mr. Chamberlain's protective tariff. Alert, shrewd, resourceful and indefatigable, the manufacturers and business leaders of Germany are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to capture a lion's share of the world's trade.

The reports of our foreign Consuls located in German cities and in the trade centers of Africa, South America and Asia, have been filled for several years past with accounts of the means and measures devised by the German Government and German business men to push the sale of German goods in every quarter of the world. Of a score of recent con-sular reports, all except one devote a large amount of space to describe the work that Germany is doing in the development of her trade interests abroad, frequently contrasted with our feeble and inadequate efforts along the same line.-Leslie's Weekly.

Scarcity in Spruce Gum.

Spruce gum is very scarce and very high. What little there is in the market brings 15 cents an ounce at retail. Some dealers think it is due not so much to the scarcity of the gum in the trees as to the few gum pickers. Gum picking is hard work and nets but a steady wage

PLAGUE EXACTS GREAT TOLL.

Since 1896 There Have Been 3,500, 000 Deaths.

Three million five hundred thou sand deaths is the terrible toll the plague has exacted in India since 1896. During the week of April 1 of this years the terrible record of plague mortality throughtout India was 57,702 deaths and 65,789 cases reported.

Commenting on these startling figures, the Lancet says:

"In 1903 the number of deaths from plague in India was $53,000; in 1904 it was 1,040,000. Of the deaths more than 350,000 occurred in one province, and that province was the Punjaub, the one from which some of our best Indian soldiers are recruited.

"The Punjaub is not a large province, its actual population being about 20,000,000, and yet the deaths in the Punjaub during 1904 from plague amounted to over 250,000 in the course of twelve weeks only.

"What would be thought, said or done in England if in the course of twelve weeks over 250,000 persons were swept off by one disease? Surely there would be something like a panic.

"We think that the policy of concealment-or the absence of policy that has necessitated concealmenthas gone on long enough.

"Three and a half millions of people have died from plague in India since 1896, and the proposal to send out two bacteriologists to look into the cause of the tragedy strikes us as farcical."

Chestnuts a Paying Crop.

The boys may be interested to know that chestnuts prove a very profitable crop. Experts claim that apple orchard of the same size, as the nuts are retailed on the street while the Italian who sells roasted chestnuts receives pay for them at the rate of at least eight dollars a bushel. The tree is one of the most rapid growers, and has been known to bear fruit at five years of age .---St. Nicholas.

Doctor-Oh, that's easily remedied. Before retiring soak your feet in hot water

DISEASE OF GRAPES.

May be Prevented if Given Proper Treatment and Care,

The vines should be thoroughly cleaned at this season then: if subject to black rot, the buds should be sprayed, just as they begin to open, with bordeaux mixture. Give a second spraying in about ten days and a third when the fruit is well

Of course, the number of treat ments depend on the season and, if It should prove a very rainy one, extra spraying should be given at Intervals of from twelve to fifteen days until the fruit begins to turn.

Another disease which troubles grapes 14 called downy mildew. This may also be prevented by a careful following of the directions given for black rot; in fact the two are very apt to be tound together and the same treatment is successful with both. Downy mildew, as a rule, appears later in the season than black rot; so it is not necessary to begin the treatment as early as for ulack rct where it occurs alone.

Anthracnose is another and quite cerious disease. The directions given above should be followed most thorougoly in compating this disease; for it does not readily yield to treatment. The vines should also be carefully examined before the leaves put out, and whenever large scars are seen they should be cut out.

One more disease is powdery mildew; but, as a rule, it causes little trouble as it generally comes on too late in the season to do much harm. However, when it occurs every year. applications of ammoniacal will hold it in check.

The Ruling Passion.

The ruling passion is often very strong in death. A senator from Tennessee discovered this some years ago. Among his constituents was a cortain man who came to him regularly twice a year for the purpose of obtaining a pass to Baltimore. The man and his family had served the senator when he was first making his way up the ladder of politics and as a result of this he always obliged him, and had, moreover, a soft place in his heart for the man. He obtained for him a position in one of the departments at Washington; but this did not seem to be enough, for regularly at the end of six months he applied for the ticket to Baltimore. One day he sickened and was reported to be dying. The senator, very much grieved, immediately called upon him.

"Joe," he said, leaning over and speaking very softly, "is there anything I can do for you?" "Yes, senator; please get me a pass to Baltimore."-Harper's Weekly.

To Starch Napkins,

A good laundress never allows her napkins to be teo stiff. They are glossy and just stiff enough, and this is how it is done; after washing them she dries them, in the air if possible

She then dips a large, soft, clean cloth into starch and rolls the dry napkins in 'his, spreading them out on the starched cloth, which also is apread out, rolling up all together. When ironed, they will have acquired the desired satiny stiffness

THE JOLLY HOUSEWRECKER.

Reckless He May Seem, but He Is Really Systematic.

The housewrecker may seem to be a very reckless sort of individual, burg, county and state aforesaid on his madnes. He may seem to be rlpping and smashing and tearing things up the back and generally regardless, but actually he never breaks anything that can be disposed of more profitably whole, though as to everything else he is always most economical of time and labor.

So, when he is about to tear down a building, he puts up on the front of it a covered wooden chute with its open mouth at the top on a level with the floor of the top story, and its spoutlike opening at the bottom high enough above the ground to allow a wagon to be driven under it; and as he tears down the walls of that upper story he tosses the bricks from it into the mouth of the chute to go slam-banging gaily down it and be shot out at the spout straight into the wagon ready to be carried away, all without any interme late handling. As he tears away story after story of the structure the housewrecker shortens the chute, to bring its wide receptive mouth down to the level of the floor on which he is working; and so he continues down until he comes, in the case, for instance, of a high stoop dwelling in process of demolition, to the parlor floor. From such a floor the chute would no longer carry the bricks down by gravity, and here he adopts other methods. From the sill of one of the parlor windows he builds out over the sidewalk to the street a platform on which wheelbarrows can be wheeled, and this takes the place of the chute When it comes to the cellar, why, there it's different; from there more or less stuff must be picked up and carried; but the housewrecker never picks up and carries anything that he can drop.

Care of Raspberry Patch.

Very few people know how to properly care for a red raspburry patch or they do not do as well as troy know how. As one rides through the country he sees many an unsightly briar patch which is a nuisance, instead of a source of pleasure and profit. The trouble lies in the fact that red raspberries increase or make new plants from the roots, unlike the blackcaps or parple raspberries, which increase from the tip ends of the canes when buried. A grower may set out 100 respherry plants and in a few years have thousands of them but the more young plants that come up outside . the hill like thistles or other weeds SATURDAY, AUGUST 19, 1905, and cut them off with a hoe. The red raspberry is the most popular cane fruit. It commands ready sale, because of the exquisite quality. When we learn that with right culture they are nearly, if not quite as productive as strawberries we can readily see that they are profitable to grow. Knowing that the red raspberry yield is in inverse proportion to the number of canes, the grower should see to it that he gets just the right number and length of cane necessary for maximum crops.

To Suppress Cock . Crowing.

Portsmouth, Eng., has passed an ordinance for the suppression of cock crowing. The chicken fanciers say it cannot be suppressed but the London News says that a partial remedy consists in placing the perch where the cock roosts so high that when he stands up to crow he knocks his head against the roof and desists. A swinging board hung over his head answers the same purpose, it says.

Tooth Stainers of Asia.

The trade of tooth stainer, followed in eastern Asia, is as odd a calling as any. The natives prefer black teeth to the whiter kind, and the tooth stainer, with a little box of brushes and coloring matter, calls on his customers and stains their teeth. The process is not unlike that of blacking a boot, for a fine polish is given to the teeth.
