JAMES BRYCE'S VARIED WORK.

Appreciation of the Character of the British Ambassador.

James Bryce is by nativity an Irishman. He is now sixty-nine years old, for he was born May 10, 1838, in Belfast. His father was the Rev. James Bryce, a clergyman of the Established Church, who came from Glasgow, and his mother was Margaret, daughter of James Young, Esq., of Abbeyville, County Antrim, Scotch-Irish, therefore, is a term which will fairly represent his racial endowment. His education has been Scotch, English and German. He ettended the High School at Glasgow and the University of Glasgow, and then passed to Trinity College, Ozford. He was a scholar of that college and a prize man, and got his A. B. in 1862, when also he was elected Fellow of Oriel.

He received the degree of D. C. L. from Oxford in 1870. Meantime he had studied at Heldelberg and acquired a fine command of the German language, which later stood him in good stead. He became a barrister of Lincoln's Inn in 1867, and was, nominally at least, a practicing member of the bar till 1882. He was made Regius Professor of Civil Law at Oxford, however, in 1870, and only resigned that honor in 1893, though he entered politics (as a pronounced Liberal) as early as 1879, and was elected to Parliament in 1880 from a London constituency in a part of the town known as Tower Hamlets-a commercial quarter, where the population is largely maie up of Germans and German Jews. Mr. Bryce, thanks to his Heidelberg experience, was able to address the electors in fluent German.

His reputation as a scholar and man of letters had been made long before. "The Holy Roman Empire," an expansion of an Arnold prize essay written at Oxford, had been published in 1862, and his "Transcaucasia and Ararat," a narrative of his travels in those regions—he is a famous mountain climber and has been President of the Alpine Club—appeared in 1877. "The America Commonwealth," the book to which, naturally enough, he owes the greater part of his reputation in America, was, however, not pub-Hshed till 1888, while his "Impresrions of South Africa," a volume which might perhaps (in another condition of the British mind) have prevented the Boer war, was not published till 1897. His "Studies in History and Jurisprudence" and "Studies in Contemporary Biograph" belong to the first three years of the present youthful century.

Ambassador James Bryce.

We have seen James Bryce duly made Member of Parliament for Tower Hamlets in 1880. He early attracted attention in the Commons. From the beginning members have been in the habit of coming in to listen when "Bryce is up." When Mr. Gladstone's Government came into power in 1886 Mr. Bryce was made Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, then (in 1892) Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with a seat in the Cabinet, and in 1894 Chairman of the Board of Trade. In the same year he was Chairman of the Royal Commission on Secondary Education, and that year also saw him elected a Creamery, extra.....32 @321/2 Fellow of the Royal Society.

With the fall of the Liberals from power Mr. Bryce naturally ceased to hold office. With the return of the Liberals, after ten years, under Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, he was made Chief Secretary for Irelandthe office which he left to come to Washington.

The new Ambassador married in 1889 Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Ashton of Fordbank, near Manchester. Though he began his life as a men of letters and become a politi-

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive care now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constutional diserse, requires a constitutional treatment Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucons surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the pa-tient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred ollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Smallest Book Printed.

What is said to be the smallest book ever printed has just been published at Padua, Italy, by Salmin Brothers. It is ten by six millimeters in size, and consists of 80 pages, each page containing nine lines of 95 to 100 characters that, despite their diminutive size, are perfectly visible. The book reprodues a hitherto unpublished letter-Galileo's to Chirstina of Lorena (1615).

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The King You Have Always Bought Some Good Lenten Dishes

Mrs. Rorer, in Her Lectures, Tells How to Make Them.

Lenten dishes were lold of by Mrs. Roler in her lectures at the Gimbel store, Philadelphia, last week, "Lenten dishes may be made from eggs or fish," she said, 'and, really, those made from macaroni and cheese have meat value. It is by far easier during Lent to make luncheon and supper dishes than it is to arrange a fullfledged dinner without either fish or meat. Baked fish, planked fish and boiled fish, however, are elegant dinner dishes." Among other recipes, she gave the following:

Omelets.-To make a French omelet the eggs must be beaten until well mixed, but not separated. When the eggs for an omelet are separated it is better to make them in the oven, and we would hardly call this a true omelet. A fried beaten egg is always tough, and the heated butter destroys the flavor of the eggs. Beat the eggs until well mixed, add to each a tablespoonful of water, turn into a hot omelet The gist of the divorce question pan that has been thoroughly greased; dust with sait and pepper, shake, lift with a spatula, allowing the soft part to run underneath; fold, and turn it on a heated platter.

Planked Fish .- Put a half dozen potatoes over the fire to boil. Put a plank under the fire to heat. Put board, brush it with butter, dust with salt and pepper and brown done mash them and add sufficient milk to make them soft; put them into a pastry bag; garnish the fish, brush it again with butter and put it under the fire to brown. Rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of lemon juice and a table-Take the fish from the fire, cover it with this mixture; garnish with parsley and lemon and send to the
