What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If your have any considerable number of If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from dillousness, urpid liver with indi-gestion, urphysephers Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowal regulator and news strengthener.

Six times a year a sale of plumage birds is held in Mincing Lane, Lon-Look down the long tables over which stoop the connoisseurs in color and the quality of feathers. There are goregous tail feathers from Australian lyre birds, and humming birds from Venezuelan thickets. ibis wings from up the Nile, parrots and tanagers from the Amason, with peacocks and pheasants from India. There are purple, yellow and green fruit pigeons from North Africa, orloies, swallows, honeysuckles, toucans, trogous, the quetzal, too, sacred and respiendent, with crested orange and scarlet cockof-the-rock. Lastly, there are the glorious bird of paradise from New Guinea, with sweeping plumes of sifk and gold, and sixty varieties of algret and heron.

Surely the world has been despoiled of its feathered beauty for women's hats. And each bird differs In beauty from the other, as one differs from another star in glory.

"Item, 5.026 oz. of osprey," the milliner's pride, you read in the cata logue. India, China, Japan, Austra-Ila, Africa and both American continents have been diligently hunted for it is fine and preicous stuff, filmy and delicate as a woman's hair. Each beautiful bird yields but one sixth of an ounce of osprey, and 230,000 birds were sacrificed for the Paris market alone last season.

The much sought after trophy consists of the loose, slender waving plumes of the snowy heron, which cannot be imitated artificially. Human fingers may dexterously model a white wax arum lily; a rose that would deceive the honeysucking bee, but the snowy silver, fiber plume of the white aigret is beyond imitation.

And so the heron's enemies are abroad over the earth, and the dealers in great cities seek to reenforce them by making tempting offers to traders, missionaries, naval and military officers on foreign stations, Consuls and explorers generally.

In China the blue bloused peasants call these birds "the good to see," and they encourage them to search the rice fields for food. But now that the plume hunter is found in every province of China, seeking noddling bunches of slender beauty for women's hats there is no more homing of the herons to their hereditary nests above giant Buddhas, telling the hour of the dusk to all the village.

The finest tufts are the wed-ding garments of both birds. They grow only as breeding time on the algret's back and droop gracefully over sides and tall. The less fine plumes, with shorter and stiffer filements, such as form the yellow sigret, are plucked from the buff backed or squacco heron, which properly speaking is not an algret at all. The snowy heron has plumage of surpassing whiteness. Viewed side by side with it, the swan, the wood fbis and the stork look earthly. Referring to this excessive whiteness different species have received such scientific names as "alba," "immaculate," "candidissima." It is as if the lovely bird had some luminous quality existing within itself and showing through the plumage. The havoc wrought among these beautiful creatures in Florida was enormous before the Audubon societies stepped between them and their slayers. The latter having discovered a rookery by watching the birds flying to and from their nests would survey the ground, learn the lines of flight followed and the perches or lookout stations commonly frequented. Then, armed preferably with a small rifle, the plume hunter would secrete himself and wait for his prey. The busy birds, having families to provide for, would be active all day, and as they returned with food for little mouths they would rest a moment on the lookout perch, offering, an excellent mark to the hunter below. The bird fell; a slight report did not alarm the others; and in a few days most of the parents would be slain for the sake of their nuptial plumes. At present the Florida egrets are strictly protected, yet such is the supidity of plume hunters that Warden Guy Bradley of the local Audubon Society was shot dead by poachers while watching over his feathered charges two or three years ago.

May Be Strike on the Reading.

Railroaders and Operators Expect Ten Per Cent Advance by Next Fall.

Reading railroaders and operators are expecting another advance of ten per cent. before the first of September. News has been sent out that the increase will undoubtedly be granted and although it is unofficial it is generally accepted as certain to come.

For some time the Reading has been having trouble in keeping men on the road because of the higher inducements offered by other :oads. Particularly has it been found impossible to keep operators and the scarcity of responsible men for this position is very great.

Under the present scale of wages Pennsylvania employes get on an average thirty three per cent. more than the Reading men and New York Central men get correspondingly as much. Brakemen on the Pennsylvania get within a fraction of a cent as much per hour as engineers on the Reading. Reading conductors, who get 23 cents an hour, are now looking for jobs as brakemen on the Pennsy and other roads.

It is pretty generally understood among the railroad men that there will be a big strike next September if the wages are not adjusted. A ten per cent increase, which, it is should be bathed with warm water, believed, is sure to come might stave off the threatened strike, but even if this is granted there is likely to be a repetition of negotiations with the railroad officials, and the Brotherhood men are practically a unit in their determination that the wages must be adjusted commensurately with that paid on other roads.

AARNESS FOR VOCAL CULTURE.

Dit Intended to Aid Future Singers

in Voice Production.

Students in vocal culture are drilled in throwing the tones forward in the mask of the face, in order to produce musical tones having the desired quality, resonance and volume necessary to good sing-The tendency of beginners in vocal culture is naturally to follow the speaking voice, and to overcome the many difficulties, and to acquiro the proper placement of the voico requires constant and persistent esercising. In order to reduce the strain on the singer, a New York man has devised an instrument which he calls a "volce placer." It is made of a thin vibratory strip of opring steal, shaped to conform to the general outline of the human face, a rubber ball on the lower end pressing against the small cavity in the mouth just above the front teeth. The pressure of this ball has the function of localizing and holding the attention of the singer, while the vibratory movement of the strip measure to some extent the volume of the sound emitted. The strip is supported in position by a nose guard and a band around the head.

To Aid the Singer,

Care of the Hands,

Various causes combine to make the hands very coarse and rough. Less attention is given to the hands than to the face, and yet a white and delicate hand is very charming. Even a cook may have less coarse hands if she will by always using glycerine and cucumber after washing her hands, and by nevor using coarse soap, but bran and ontmeal. which will clean hands guite as well as soap, and keep them soft at the same time, whatever may be the amount of work she may have to do and to whatever exposure to heat and cold the hands may be subjected.

GUIDES TO HEALTH.

Castor oil may be easily taken mingled with orange juice, a little sugar added to the juice if the orange is not sweet.

A simple application for the removal of tan and sunburn is made by combining ten grains of borax, 4 ores. of lime water and 2028. of oil of almonde At night the face pure soap and a complexion brush, the rinsing being thorough and the drying gentle. Salt as a tooth powder is better than almost anything that can be bought. It keeps the teeth beautifully white, and the gums hard and rosy. Sait used for this purpose should be very finely pulverized. If after the extraction of a tooth the mouth is filled with salt water it will prevent hemorrhage.

CLAY PIPE FOR MADSTONE.

It Will Do the Work Just as Well, Says a Physician.

Physicians are often asked whether there really is any virtue in what are called madstones. One of them declares they would be of more value. if their limitations were understood. "There is no particular variety of stone or substance which may be designated exclusively as the madstone," he says. "I have seen many of them, so called, and no two were of exactly the same composition,

"Madstones act on the same priniple that a blotting paper does when absorving ink, and there is nothing that makes a better one than baked lpeclay. A new clay pipe, procurable for one cent at nearly any store where tobacco is sold, cannot be excelled by any madstone, no matter how great its reputation. The action can be clearly demonstrated by placing a common dry red brick in contact with the margin of a puddle of water and noticing what capiliary attraction will accomplish.

only necessity is for the stone to be porus and have a strong adhesive and absorbent qualities. Nothing mysterious about it. "I have seen several that appear to be concretions, either vesical, renal or billary, and were found in the bladder, kidney or liver of some animal-those taken from the deer. ropposed to be the best.

the or a dog supposed to be mad and the porus stone applied to the wound the blotting paper action begins and the blood, saliva from the mouth of the animal and whatever poison there fluids contain will naturally, by capillary attraction, be absorbed by and into the substance applied, no matter what name you may give it. The saying that if a stone sticks does not take hold there is no venom present is untrue. If the stone is clean and dry is will adhere when molature is within reach until it be comes saturated. "For instance, a new red brick will absorb one pint of water. After the venom has been taken into the circulation the madstone is worthless, but, as the victim is usually filled with whiskey or alcohol at the same time the stone is being used, the spirits may counteract the effect of the polson.

"I know of a stone which has a wide reputation and makes a good living for the family owning it, They never let it go out of their sight and, when the victim cannot be taken to the stone, one member of the family can be hired to take the stone to the victim. In addition to traveling expenses they charge $5 each hour that the stone sticks.

"This stone is busy a large part of the time. Not long since, the stone held to a man's leg for over 100 hours, yet the man died. His life could have been saved if dependence had, not been placed entirely in the stone."

Price of an Invention.

Cats for Pennsy Stations.

Cats are being placed in every station of the Pennsylvania railroad, by order of President McCrea. Each station will be allowed one cat, and an appropriation will be made for its support. The cat will draw its monthly wages just the same as the baggage man or ticket agent. Its duties will consist of keeping the baggage room free of rats and mice. Frequently baggage is destroyed by rats and goods are gnawed in transit. It is President McCrea's idea that one wide-awake cat in each station will prevent this. He insists that every cat do its duty. Otherwise it is to be discharged and another one hired in its place. Some of the stations already have cats.

Separation Good For Love.

The happiest marriages are ualoubtedly those where a certain amount of daily separation takes place between husband and wife. He and she both mix with outsiders; their ideas are enlarged and freshened; they have a chance of missing each other, which is one of the truest secrets of preserving affection, and when they meet again it is with renewed pleasure, which lasts them till it is time to part again.

And when there are little absences, what a renewal of charm succeeds! We never value a thing til! we lose it; and even temporary loss of another's society makes us think it more attractive than if it were always with us. So let the married resolve to spent at least a little portion of each day apart. Do not understand by this that I mean to advise such an amount of separation as shall produce in them a difference of tastes, pursuits or friends. But it is the wise to lead just so much of daily life apart as shall lend a new zest to tht time spent together, says Woman's Life.

One grave drawback to seeing too much of each other is the tendency in human nature to treat with slight respect the thing with which we are too familiar. A husband and a wife are apt to lose that courtesy in their mutual intercourse which is the very salt of happy family life.
