

WASHINGTON

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C. April 17, 1907. With the fight in Ohio fairly started, it is only natural that the people who have become used to something doing every minute should be looking for fresh developments. They are likely to come in the fight for the presidential nomination and come frequently. One of the next things that is expected is a show of hands in the south. There have been a number of conferences at the White House recently with influential men from the south and it is thought the President will try to win the support of the negro vote now strongly inclining to Foraker. Of course the white vote of the south will not figure largely in the state primaries of the Republican nomination, and it is said that the outlook for the President among the colored voters is not so bright as it might be. For instance, Judson Lyons of Georgia, former register of the Treasury, is supposed to be able to swing the Georgia delegation, and he is believed to be for Foraker or Fairbanks or anything to beat the president's choice. There will be a strong effort made to line up some of the southern states for President Roosevelt's nominee, but the outlook just now is none too bright and if there is anything done it must be done quite speedily.

Charles Conant, an old newspaper man and now a statistician and financial writer of recognized standing, called at the White House to pay his respects to the President this week. He is just back from Cuba and he explained the situation as it appeared to him. He says that both the local and the foreign governments are loath to see the United States let go of the island for purely practical reasons. Much money is needed for the sugar crop on which the prosperity of the island depends. The banks are perfectly willing to lend money on the crop so long as conditions are stable. But they are not willing to raise a loan if there is danger of a revolutionary outbreak while the money is still tied up in the crop. Everybody knows there is not going to be any revolution so long as the United States is in charge of the island, and so everyone is anxious for this government to keep hold till after the crop is harvested. And then they will want us to do the same kind of office till the next crop is harvested and so it will go. This government does not want a perpetual job of lid-sitting in Cuba. But it looks as though it were going to be very hard to let go.

Plans are continually being made to further immigration to the south, and one of the latest has been laid before the Secretary for Commerce and Labor by Chas. Allen of Evansville, Indiana. Mr. Allen is a large land holder in the south and he wants to import a lot of farm laborers with the understanding that they shall farm his plantations on shares. The scheme is legitimate enough and if it could be followed there are doubtless many other southern planters who would be glad to make contracts abroad to have their farms worked on the same conditions. But it looks as though the alien contract labor law would be in the way of this scheme and the matter, after being considered by Immigration Commissioner Frank Sargent, has been laid aside to be referred to Secretary Strauss on his return from the Peace Conference in New York.

Quite a little excitement was caused among the correspondents one night last week by the report that E. H. Harriman was making a hurry up trip to Washington as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

from New York. The immediate conclusion was that there was something big doing in the railroad situation. Several of the New York correspondents received wires from their home offices that Harriman was flying to Washington by special train and to catch him and interview him at all costs. The information was true enough, but Mr. Harriman alighted from his private car outside the depot and drove up town on his mysterious errand. Newspaper Row as turned upside down for awhile in an endeavor to locate him and it was not till the small hours of the morning that it was discovered he had been harmlessly attending a dinner of the Academy of Sciences at the home of Chas. D. Walcott, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. It seems that Mr. Harriman and Mr. Walcott are old friends and he asked for an invitation to the dinner some weeks ago. Of course it was given, and he jumped in his private car and came down to Washington to attend it, returning in the same way to New York long after midnight. He had spent the evening very innocently sitting between a Doctor of Philosophy of Johns Hopkins and a professor of Harvard. But it was hard to make the newspaper men believe anything Harriman could do was harmless.

Speaking of the Academy of Sciences, this is the premier scientific institution of the United States, and it meets annually in Washington. The session it has been holding this week was important in that Prof. Alexander Agassiz of Harvard who has been the President of the society for five years, resigned and there was elected in his place Prof. Ira Rensen of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, who is the foremost chemist of the country. Chas. D. Walcott was elected to the vacancy in the vice presidency caused by the promotion of Prof. Remsen.

There has been a little breeze in diplomatic circles this week over the revocation of the exequatur of vice consul Ekerstrom representative of Sweden in St. Louis. It is not often that the United States asks for the recall of a consul, but Mr. Ekerstrom has been mixed up in a fight with the Postoffice Department over a publishing company in St. Louis that had been barred from the use of the mails. It was not a thing in which a foreign consul would usually be involved, but Mr. Ekerstrom had not only engaged in the fight but had written a letter to the President attacking ex-post-master General Cortelyou. His recall was therefore asked for and he has been spending all of this week in Washington trying to explain to the State Department how sorry he was. His apology has been taken under advisement by Secretary Root but no decision in the case has yet been announced and it is likely that he will be made an example of as a warning to foreign officials to let our internal affairs alone.

The Old Story.

It's the old, old story. A few weeks ago the hasty marriage took place of a pretty Snydertown girl to a member of a theatrical company that was playing at Shamokin, where the girl was employed. She was engaged at the time to a young farmer, who was very much wrought up over the affair. Now the sequel comes from New York, where the bride, husbandless and penniless, writes home for money to bring her back.

CHILDREN AS MODELS

THEIR BEAUTY MADE USE OF BY PHOTOGRAPHERS.

Children Able to Earn From $12 to 25 a Week by Posing—Little Girls With Chubby Faces and Curly Hair Sought Most.

So great has become the demand for child models in the last few years that according to a New York photographer almost any pretty child can command an engagement. It not infrequently happens, says he, that the support of families rests upon the small shoulders and cases in which children earn sufficient not only for their maintenance and clothing but also for their education are plentiful.

It is perhaps in the line of commercial photography that the best field for child models lies. Commercial photography supplies pictures for advertising the product of business and manufacturing houses. Children who pose for these illustrated advertisements earn anywhere from $12 to 14 a week and sometimes, as in the case of Ruth Wells, $25.

White children from 2 to 4 years old are most in demand, those from 4 to 10 can be used in one way or another. Another branch of photography in which child models are used is that in which beautiful pictures, ideal heads and the like are sought. These are sold to art dealers for reproduction.

The demand for child models is not so great among artists as among photographers. It is somewhat difficult for the little ones to pose as steadily as is necessary for an artist, but before the camera they can be taken in a moment in all their simplicity and sweetness and they are not fatigued by the effort.

Girls are much more desirable than boys. Out of fifty best known models in the city not more than one-quarter are boys.

When asked what the requirements of a child model are a photographer said: "Beauty is, of course, the primal requisite. While the infantile type is preferred by many, the piquant child has many admirers."

"Girls, particularly blue-eyed tots with curly hair, snub noses, dimples and round chubby faces are eagerly sought as they make pretty angel heads and are particularly adapted for ideal pictures for art and commercial purposes. They must be plump."

"Little girls with straight locks haven't the same chance of getting employment as those with ringlets. To some children posing is as natural as breathing. They fall into graceful postures very easily. Others are naturally awkward despite their pretty faces and winning ways."

"As to the remuneration which these little artists receive it varies to no great extent from that received by their older sisters in the business. An hour's posing generally brings from $1.50 to $3 and after an hour's work the average child is generally too tired to sit longer, though Ruth Wells, one of the noted child models of the city, can pose for two hours steadily without getting weary."

"It is understood that the children shall furnish their own costumes, unless it is a character costume, in which case, perhaps, the professional costumer will be called in. Most of these children have good wardrobes of simple, dainty gowns used expressly for professional engagements. But only recently a dirty but undeniably pretty Italian child was brought in here by some one who picked her up in the street."

"A very soiled and ragged cotton dress barely covered the little one's nakedness, but there was a charm about the kid that was simply irresistible and so I took her just as she was. The picture will be used for a dyeing and cleaning establishment, and it will be a winner, if I mistake not. But that is the exception that proves the rule, of course."

For the Teeth.

The accumulation of tartar on the teeth makes them unsightly and is often the cause of a bad breath. If the teeth are properly brushed each day tartar will not have the chance to accumulate, but it has already been allowed to do so it can be removed by a very simple treatment. Moisten the toothbrush in warm water and dip it into magnesia; rub on the teeth and after three applications the tartar will have entirely disappeared.
