THE COLUMBIAN, BLOOMSBURG, FA

WASHINGTON

From our Regular Correspondent. Washington, D. C. May 23, 1907.

The President returned to Washington this week from a short out-ing at Mrs. Roosevelt's lodge at Pine Knot, Va. He was away from the city about a week, shot a little and walked and rode a great deal. "He is looking much better for the outing and will put in the time working till the start is made for the long outing of the whole family at Oyster Bay where they will spend the summer. Secretary Loeb has already shipped most of the office furniture for the temporary executive office that the Pres'dent occupies over one of the stores in Oyster Bay, and the home of family at Sagamore Hill will be kept as free as possible from visit-ors in the rather vain hope of giving the President a real rest. His way of resting is rather a joke and amounts to what would be a good days work for most men. There is about as much business' carried on in the summer at Oyster Bay as there is at the White House in the winter, but the President has told some of his friends laughingly that he intends to be good this summer and will merely get off some reams of literary work as recreation.

It is understood that this will include some more reviews of Irish folk lore. This was a comparatively recent line of research by Mr. Rocsevelt. He is said to have been introduced to it last winter by Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, the professor of the Catholic University who has just been offered his choice between the mission to Denmark and that to Portugal. Dr. Egan is himself an Irishman as might be suspected from his name and is authority on Gaelic literature. He got the President interested in the subject which he promptly devoured, and when Douglas Hyde, the President of the Gaelic League was here in the winter he was surprised to find that the President apparently had no recreation except studying the Irish classics. Then when the row came on with Tillman, Chandler and Bailey over the rate bill, the President decided that he would divert himself a little and forget what the papers were saying about him. He started work on his magazine article "The Irish Sagas", promptly forgot all about politics outside of office hours, and by the time the partizan papers had gotten through dissecting the rate bill row, the magazine article was finished and the President had missed the bulk of the newspaper criticism.

There are not proportionately very many women carriers, there being only 253 women out of a total force of 35,666. Attention was first called to the work during the past winter of Miss Ella Banks, a carrier on one of the New England routes. She had a route of 25 miles and had kept it up regularly through the worst snowstorms of the winter, times when everyone else was stormbound. Trial of the Russian Bride.

A Russian bride has not to submit to the trying ordeal for her beauty of appearing in white attire in the cold light of day. The wedding takes place by candlelight in the drawing room of the bride's mother. After the ceremony there is a banquet, followed by a ball, and after that there is a supper, after which a new satin slipper is filled with wine and passed round to the bridegroom's friends, who drink from it to the health of the bride

Where Women Wear Trousers.

There is a point on the coast of France where not only the men but the women and donkeys, too wear trousers. At He de Re the peasant women work in the sait and the oyster beds, catch shrimps and take their turns in the fields. They don't draggle around in petticoats, however, but wear baggy knee breeches, loose waists and light-colored sunbonnets. The sabots of the winter have been put aside and the feet are left bare, although the legs of old stockings are often drawn up as far as the knee as a protection from the heat and insects. It is, indeed, a country of trousers. Nor does it stop with humanity for many of the donkeys, as well, wear long striped 6:00 a. m.

Scotch moors. It was almost a year ago that the first indications of the disease were found by the Department in some birds that had died of a mysterious malady in the hands of a Washington dealer. More birds died in the same way in the hands of the same man and his healthy stock was infected on the premises. It was found that the disease came in shipments of birds from a point in Alabama. Then there were similar reports from Kansas and up to date areas of infections have been determined in Kansas, Alabama, Indian Territory, Massachusetts and Nova Scotia. The disease attacks quail and grouse and is something like infectious pneumonia. The germof the disease has been isolated and it appears closely allied to if not identical with the dreadful English grouse disease. The spread is serious enough to cause alarm, and the Department has sent out circulars asking for reports wherever there seems to be an outbreak of infectious disease among the quail and grouse. It is to be hoped that the infected areas can be defined and quarantined and the spread of the disease checked. The Department will be grateful for any speci-

Speaker Cannon was averse to touching the tariff on the eve of a national election, and in this he is understood to have the backing of the leaders in both Houses of Congress. Value of Cellulose.

From the standpoint of industrial utility, says Professor Duncan, in Harper's Magazine, the subject of cellulose can only be characterized as stupendous. Take a pine tree, for instance. GOOD ROADS.

Commenting on good roads, the Pittston Gazette says: "Good roads like good streets, make habitations along them most desirable. They economize and force in transportation of products, reduce wear and tear on horses, harness and vehicles, and enhance the market value of real estate. They raise the value of farm land and farm products and tend to beautify the country through which they pass; they facilitate rural mail delivery and are a potent aid to education, religion and sociability. Charles Sumner once said: 'The road and the school master are the two most important agents in advancing civilization.' Good roads have a money value to farmers as well as political and social value, and looking at them from the 'almighty dollar' side, they pay handsome dividends
