

LISBON IN BIG REVOLT

Troops Fire Volleys at Mobs--Barricades Erected--Women Aid.

BATTLE LASTS HOURS

Premier, on Journey to Oporto: Hissed at Every Station--Fighting in Capital Renewed Last Night--Square Was Filled With Killed and Wounded.

Paris, June 25.—Despatches received from Lisbon by way of Madrid report that popular hatred of the system of government by decree instituted by Premier Franco after the dismissal of Parliament in the beginning of May has as its outcome a barricade fighting between the troops and the people and much bloodshed.

The Premier made a journey from the capital to Oporto in the hope of obtaining a popular indorsement of his policy, but at every station between Lisbon and Oporto crowds gathered and hooted the train as it passed.

Oporto received the Premier with wreath banners in place of flags, and hissed and insulted instead of the hoped-for cheers.

When the Dictator returned to Lisbon there was a furious riot outside the railway station. Cavalry charged the mob, and infantry fired into it. The officers, commands were drowned by cries of "Death to the Dictator!" Revolvers were freely used by the crowd and a young officer was mortally wounded.

A neighboring square was filled with killed and wounded, 1 addition with killed and wounded, laid out in rows. The principal fighting occurred under the windows of the Hotel F Angletiere. Several English visitors witnessed the struggle. It is said that the people fought for hours with sticks and stones against the soldiers, who fired volleys.

FIVE YEAR OLD GIRL MURDERED

Her Body With Bag Tied Over Head--Is Dug Up on Farm.

West Chester, Pa., June 25.—Five-year-old Mary Robbins Newlin, of Landenberg, who was buried alive, according to the appearance of the body, which was dug up on the farm of her stepfather.

Irwin Lewis, the young stepfather, held under the finding of the coroner's jury. He asserted his innocence, and when in collapse and raving repeated his protestations that he was not guilty.

It is the conclusion of the autopsy physicians that the fair-haired child, one of the prettiest the country found, was not dead when buried, from all appearances she was seized from behind and gagged with a burp bag. This tough cloth was then pulled over her head and down over her neck, where it was tied with a rough hemp string.

While the girl's screams were stifled she was thrown face down into a ready-made grave. As she lay on her face the grave was filled and the earth packed down. Beating on the bars of his cell with his hands and shrieking that he was innocent of the murder of Mary Robbins Newlin, his 5-year-old stepdaughter, Irwin Lewis, the young farmer locked up in the Chester County Jail, is either a maniac or is suffering insanity. The keepers are unable to quiet him. He was assured that he would have a fair trial and that if innocent he would be a free man, but he paid no attention to their words. He paced up and down the cell like a caged beast, and his cries could be heard throughout the prison.

JURY TO TRY JUDGE LOVING.

Less Than Two Hours Required to Get the Twelve Men Needed.

Houston, Va., June 25.—The trial of Judge Loving for the murder of Theodore Estes began at a special session of the Halifax county Circuit Court, Judge W. R. Barksdale presiding. The morning was spent in selecting a jury, as had been anticipated, very little trouble was encountered. Sixty-four takersmen had been summoned. Less than two hours after the opening of court the jury had been chosen. It is composed almost entirely of farmers.

Elizabeth Loving, whom it is alleged Estes attacked, was in court with her mother. The taking of testimony began upon the reconvening of the court, and this afternoon the Commonwealth rested its case, and Judge Loving, whose defence is the unwritten law, took the witness stand in his own behalf.

The plea of the defence was outlined as emotional insanity, made familiar in the Thaw case, and the "unwritten law." N. Y. MARKET LETTER

(From our Special Correspondent.)

WHEAT.—The wheat market developed a downward tendency during the early dealings, but prices rallied later and closed steady. There was pressure from bearish pit traders and also scattered selling by commission houses during the whole week. During the late trading the market held steady, owing partly to further reports of export buying, and partly to the unfavorable Modern Miller report. The session ended with prices 1/4c. lower to 1/2c. higher.

CORN.—There was little activity displayed in the corn market, although the undertone was slightly easier. Sentiment was influenced by lower Liverpool cables, rather liberal receipts and favorable weather conditions. Rumors of export buying closed the market steady with prices quotably unchanged.

BUTTER.—The market is drifting along in about the same manner as has been noted since the week opened. There is general dissatisfaction over the question of prices, and the few operators that have taken hold for storage purposes are merely taking moderate quantities and reject everything offered under fancy. Stock of the latter description is very firm, but under grades are dull and weak. The official prices were not revised, as members of the committee feel that the high prices ruling in the Western markets offer no encouragement for a local break. Owing to the lateness of the season, some butter is arriving, showing that the feed of the cows is hay and grass. From some sections, however, the butter is full grass flavor and suitable for either high-class consumption, or storage purposes. The position of renovated, factory and packing stock was unchanged.

CHEESE.—Trading for the week was practically over Friday, and the price committee, after a short session, made no changes in late prices. The receipts last week were not large, considering the season. This has resulted from keen competition at primary points, and considerable speculative buying for western interests. Very high prices have ruled in Cuba and Cattaraugus, and have completely shattered all hopes of getting values on a lower basis.
