The boys are schoolmates and had planned to run away long before vacation time came. They told their parents that they were going for a swim in the Harlem River, but instead went to the railroad yards and concealed themselves in the box car.

A brakeman locked the door and the car was coupled to a train which soon started. When the train arrived at Boston the box car was run onto a siding in the yards.

For many hours the boys kicked at the door and cried for help. Finally a brakeman heard them and opened the door. The lads were lying on the floor, weakly pleading for a drink of water. U. S. COURT DEFIED

Clash Between State and Federal Judiciary Precipitated by Judge.

R. R. RATE LAW CAUSE

President Roosevelt Has Sent Assistant Attorney General Sanford to Asheville to Try to Avert Trouble--The Attorney Suggests that Matter Be Hurried to the Court.

Asheville, N. C., July 25.--United States Circuit Judge Pritchard rendered his decision in the railroad rate cases, discharging from custody James H. Wood, District Passenger Agent of the Southern, and O. C. Wilson, ticket agent, who had been sentenced to thirty days each on the chain gang by Police Justice Reynolds, of Asheville, for violating the new Passenger Rate law.

Judge Pritchard declared the penalty clause of the new Rate law unconstitutional. Gov. Glenn will defy Judge Pritchard's decision. Gov. Glenn telegraphed this morning that special counsel, including Speaker of the House Justice, was being rushed to Asheville, and requesting counsel for the State to try to secure a postponement of the Federal court decision until Justice and others could arrive. Judge Pritchard completely ignored Gov. Glenn's request and Glenn was so advised.

President Roosevelt, disturbed by the reports of trouble between the Federal and State courts here, sent Assistant Attorney-General Edward T. Sanford to Asheville to be present at the proceedings and try to keep down a clash between State and Federal authorities.

Mr. Sanford stated to-night that he will advise that the case be taken by the State to the Supreme Court, and that the Department of Justice will request the Supreme Court to expedite its progress to an early decision, and that this case and the Southern Railway case at Raleigh be allowed to settle the question at issue, and that all other proceedings stop.

FAD OF A FASHIONABLE.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Uses Hand Painted Plate and Glass Mats.

Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt, who has a very luxurious camp in the Adirondack Mountains, has had leather mats made to be used under the plates and glasses, as well as a large centerpiece, for her bare table. These mats are made round, the large ones for the plates and the smaller ones to go under the glasses.

The leather is burnt to form an artistic design, and used on a large, well polished mahogany table, the whole effect is most attractive. These mats are most useful for a country house, and particularly in the mountains, where one is obliged to lead a rough outdoor existence during the summer months. Some of Mrs. Vanderbilt's leather mats are not only burnt but painted. She has one set which is ornamented with pink roses, the roses first burnt and then colored with oil paints; they are beautifully shaded, and the work is very finely done.

Respect for Parents.

If the girl who speaks disrespectfully to her mother only knew the impression she creates on outsiders she would change her tactics.

The false pride that makes a girl ashamed of the hard-working mother and father should be strangled at its birth.

Many girls who really love their parents grow into the habit of thinking them old-fashioned and ignorant.

The American girl is the best girl in the world, but she is just a trifle too independent and cavalier in her treatment of her elders.

Nothing is more beautiful than the tender respect and deference shown by youth to age, and it is a great shame for the American girl to let her charms be marred by this one blot.

There is nothing that so prejudices people against a girl as seeing her by word, look or deed show the slightest disrespect to her parents.

Bit of Advice to Women.

Don't pick out a man for a husband simply because you love him. The most important thing is whether he loves you. A woman who loves her husband better than he does her is a doormat on which he treads. If he loves her better than she does him, he looks up to her as a goddess and spends his life trying to win her favor.

A too adoring wife bores a man with her affection, but no woman ever had enough love given her to satisfy her, and the more affection the man lavishes upon her the stronger the claim he establishes. After marriage a thousand things draw a woman's heart to her husband; a thousand things estrange him from her.--Woman's World.
