

GOLD STORAGE OF FOODS

Pure Food Expert Tells of Experiments.

DETERIORATION OF MEAT

Milk and Eggs Begin To Deteriorate Immediately When Placed in Cold Storage—Should not Freeze Oysters, Nor Ship Them After Opening.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Chief of the Chemistry Bureau of the Department of Agriculture and the Government's pure food expert, has made some extensive experiments with the deterioration of foodstuffs in cold storage at two cold storage warehouses which are at his disposal at Washington.

"Milk begins to deteriorate right away, and so does cream," he says. "Eggs also begin to deteriorate immediately. Fruit is improved, and sometimes continues to improve for three months in cold storage. Meat improves up to six or eight weeks. But after three months for meat you can see that it has reached the maximum, and then it begins to go down. I do not care how hard it is frozen."

When asked for a further explanation of the deterioration of meat frozen in cold storage, Dr. Wiley said: "We find that meats do not taste as well and they do not smell as well, and every time a jury can pick that which has been kept more than three months. Take a quail a year old and a fresh quail cooked at the same time. We cook them just alike, and you can distinguish between them; first by their looks and then by smell and taste. Every time a jury can pick them out blindfolded."

Dr. Wiley was asked many questions about oysters, and said that the oysters should be prevented from entering into interstate commerce, as they are dead. "An oyster is dead an hour after it is opened," said Dr. Wiley, "and is not good. It loses its flavor."

In response to inquiries from Representative Haskins as to the advisability of freezing oysters for shipment, Dr. Wiley said: "Oh, they ought not to be frozen. That ruins them and as soon as they thaw they are dangerous." He then urged that oysters should be shipped alive and in the shell and said that the greatest outrage of the oyster trade is to soak oysters with fresh water and swell them up, making them look fat.

Dr. Wiley said the oysters sent out in tin cans are all right, but in further denunciation of bulk oysters shipped in tubs and buckets, said: "They are either preserved with some preservative or are dangerously near the pommato line, one of the two."

Gelatine of certain kinds was denounced by Dr. Wiley, who said of it: "It is made out of hides of the scrapings from hides. These hides go into the tanners' vats and these hides that smell to heaven are treated and trimmed, and these trimmings are used to make gelatine. The Marine Hospital Service found the tanners' gurns in gelatine."

Dr. Wiley said such gelatine factories are the dirtiest in the world; that the hides used are treated with alkali, which is rubbed into them for shipment. The hides are scraped and trimmed and are then put into the tanners' vats and the residue used for gelatine. He said that this gelatine is sometimes made in glue factories and that what is not fit for glue is made into gelatine.

It is used for putting into ice cream and candies and for making capsules that you take your medicine in."

He added that there is no objection to gelatine if properly made and that there is plenty of wholesale raw material to make it of. As to the proportion of gelatine made from material containing live germs, Dr. Wiley said: "No one wants to run the risk of getting lockjaw by taking a powder or a pill or eating ice cream."

The Earliest Men.

Recent studies by Professor Penck in the Alps, combined with those of Mr. Hugo Obermaier, a distinguished pupil of Penck, in the Pyrenees, have had the effect of considerably shortening the estimate of the length of time that has elapsed since prehistoric man left the marks of his presence in Europe. It now appears that both in the Alps and the Pyrenees there exist contemporary geological records showing four successive periods of alternate advance and retreat of glaciation. Heretofore it has been considered probable that prehistoric man dwelt in the neighborhood of these mountains during the last two invasions of the ice, but the new evidence is regarded as proving that it was only of the last, or fourth, glacial advance that man was a living witness.

Waging War on Hares.

Belgian hares imported into the Argentine Republic have multiplied at an astonishing rate. Some fifty of these hares were introduced into the country and they have now spread to such an extent as to be found at a distance of 500 miles from the spot where they were first turned out and have increased so prodigiously that 10 hunters have been known to kill 1,000 in a day. Their ravages on some proprietors have gone to the extent of fencing in extensive ranches with wire netting in order to exclude them. Some attempt has been made to turn their flesh into a source of profit by sending them to Europe and other markets in a frozen state.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, doctors and writers on Natural Medicine who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

PECULIAR MOTOR CAR.

Built for One Passenger Only and Steered by Foot.

The illustration below shows a new type of motor car that should in the near future have many supporters. It is a foreign invention, and on account of its peculiar construction attracts attention immediately. In size it is about as small as a motor car can be made, there being seating capacity for only one passenger. There is also a total absence of complicated steering apparatus. The operating motor is placed immediately in front of the rider. One lever is sufficient to regulate the speed and is placed in close proximity to the seat. Probably the most peculiar feature is the method of steering. This is done by means of the feet, very much like a young boy would steer his express wagon. The hands are at all times free, the rider being able to enjoy a smoke with pleasure. Other peculiar features are the size of the wheels and the height of the frame above the ground.

When the Kaiser Travels. Even when travelling the Kaiser is at work, for being the chief of a great nation he must keep the Government machine in motion, says the Review of Reviews.

A large staff of Government officials accompanies him. A high official from the Foreign Office attends to the duties of foreign politics, makes reports on the affairs of state, receives the orders of the sovereign and keeps up the communication between the Kaiser and the Chancellor. Then there is a privy councillor who takes dictations, decipheres telegrams and transmits the same. Besides, two adjutants accompany the suite.

For the very lively exchange of messages between the Kaiser and the Chancellor special arrangement is made by the Imperial postal department. Telegraphic messages must be presented at once to the Kaiser. When necessary to be deciphered a postal official is in the nearest telegraph office to attend to this duty.

When the Kaiser is out hunting a special messenger goes after him in case urgent messages must be delivered. Even at a late hour in the night the Kaiser has ordered that regardless of his own convenience he shall be awakened if important communications arrive. In addition to these telegraphic reports, mail matter, which arrives daily by courier, must be answered; then, also, attention must be given to the reports of Ministers from other departments, conferences must be held at all times of the day, and long dictations given in the study where the Kaiser is stopping, be it on board of the Hohenzollern or in his sleeper.

Added to this must be reckoned the hours when he is working alone, consisting of the reading of newspaper clippings, the active correspondence with his wife, from whom he receives a daily letter, and the correspondence with royalties or friends.
