NEWTON WALKER IN DANVILLE.

Former Court Stenographer Temporarily on Duty Saturday—Pleasantly Greeted.

Newton Walker of Bloomsburg, formerly court stenographer in this judicial district, was temporarily on duty at court in this city, Saturday owing to the illness of William Linville, the regular stenographer.

Mr. Walker is a genial gentleman of the older school, whose attainments and personal integrity commend him to all classes. After an absence of some ten years he was warmly greeted Saturday by members of the local bar and others and his presence served to awaken many pleasant recollections of the past. Advancing years seem to rest lightly on the shoulders of the former stenographer and he is looking exceedingly well.

Saturday was the first that Mr. Walker had ever ridden on the Danville and Bloomsburg trolley and the first time that he had been in our town since the new bridge was built and Mill street was paved.

At the opening of court Saturday morning Judge Evans made an order assigning Mr. Walker to take notes in the testimony.—Danville News.

LEARN A TRADE.

The general tendency of parents to-day is to make professional men out of their sons, although there is a great unsatisfied demand for first-class mechanics, while the clerical ranks are overflowing with men who have high ambition but are unable to earn a livelihood. It is a noteworthy fact that every time a class graduates from a high school the large percentage of the male graduates endeavor to become professional men. Entering a profession they often find the ranks overcrowded, and gradually become clerks and subordinate employees in capacities where there is no opportunity for them to better their situation. The really independent, happy man today is he who has mastered a good trade. If he is an industrious worker and willing to live economically he will spend his declining days in independence free from labor. The rule, on the other hand, is that a professional man is never done working until he dies. Especially desirable these days are the trades of bricklayer, carpenter, mechanical engineer, machinist, iron and steel worker. Men in these trades can earn high wages, and the hours are not long. Telegraphy is another line in which the supply of men is nearly equal to the demand, and the wages are constantly climbing higher. In many towns the death of good tradesmen is very noticeable. Boys, learn trades and you won't regret it. Parents, induce your son to take some of the many trades that will enable him to, in the long run, greatly improve his condition in life.

"TEN TALKS TO MEN."

A pamphlet has been recently printed at this office, which contains ten of the addresses that were delivered by Hon. Fred Ikeler to the Men's Bible Union on Sunday mornings. It is unnecessary to say that they are able and interesting. They are more; they are entertaining and instructive, and while their author did not intend them as flights of oratory, they are the kind of plain, practical, every day talks that men like to listen to. The fact that Mr. Ikeler's addresses have increased his class from sixteen up to more than three hundred, is all that need be said of them.

They are in convenient form, and have been placed on sale at Bidleman's book store by the Bible Union. They will be found excellent reading.

THIS SEASON'S PLAYS.

The Grand Opera House will open next month, and during the winter will offer the following attractions: "No Mother to Guide Her." "The Master Workman." "The Ragged Hero." "Way Down East." "The Toy Makers." "The King of Ko Mo." "Vogels Minstrels." "The Flight of Princess Iris." "Bertha, The Sewing Machine Girl." "The Lion and the Mouse." "Ma's New Husband." "The Flaming Arrow." "Too Proud to Beg." "Hello Bill." "Thelma." "The Beauty Doctor." "A Human Slave." "The Ranchman's Daughter."

Considerable excitement was caused in the Nicetown post office last Tuesday by the explosion of an infernal machine addressed to Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou. It was in the shape of a small package, and when the mail clerk attempted to cancel the stamps on the harmless looking object an explosion of great force occurred, which however, did little damage. There is no clue to the sender.

MURDER CHARGED AGAINST BLACK HAND GANG.

Last Thursday afternoon a hearing was held before Justice Weiss at which three Briar Creek members of the Black Hand Society were charged with the murder of Dominick Colozne in the fall of 1905. The three men had been in jail charged with another crime, and habeas corpus proceedings had been instituted for their release on bail when the information charging them with murder was laid against them. Other charges of robbery were likewise laid against these men and others of the same gang.

MRS. MARY A. COLEMAN.

Mrs. Mary Anna Coleman died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Boyd Shultz, in Benton township, last Thursday morning, aged 77 years. The following children survive: Zehania, Howard and Mrs. Wm. Stine, of Nebraska; Mrs. John Trimble, of Mountaia Top; Mrs. Henry Keller, of Rohrsburg; Mrs. Boyd Shultz, of Raven Creek; Thomas J. Coleman, of Benton, and two brothers, John R. Keeler, of Benton, and J. C. Keeler, of Minnesota.

Danville Sewage.

Danville is much disturbed by the discovery that the sewage from the Hospital for the Insane is emptying into the river just above the town. The river is very low, and there is no current on the south side.

Three years ago the Danville Hospital Trustees installed a modern sewage disposal plant but it never worked satisfactorily and the present is one of the times when it is out of order and the sewage necessarily is being dumped into the river.

The borough council is taking action in the matter.

Black Hand "King's" Roll a Large One

During the second raid by the Constabulary of the Black Hand dives at Briar Creek last Wednesday a big roll of bills and a quantity of silver to the amount of several thousands of dollars in all, was discovered in the house of Fortunato Calabra, one of the men who is charged with murder. It is the belief that Calabra intended to make good his securities with this sum, and skip his bail. Since the raids many Italians have disappeared from West Berwick and vicinity.

NOTORIOUS HOUSE RAIDED.

After sixteen years immunity, the house of ill-repute of Mrs. Anna Houch in Catawissa was raided on Monday, and the proprietress was arrested on two charges, one for keeping a bawdy house, and the other, for selling liquor without license.

Information was laid against her by one of the state constabulary, under instructions from District Attorney Small. Deputy Sheriff Maust and the state constables made the arrests which included the mistress and several girls, the latter being held as witnesses. The prisoners were taken before Justice Barwick, who held the woman in $500 bail for court, Stephen Rhawn became her surety.

It is said the woman has made a large amount of money in her nefarious business. She sports an automobile which she uses largely for advertising purposes.

The case will probably be tried next week.
