Miser Dies in Rags.

Hempstead, L. I., Nov. 7 .- William Henry Jay, known as the "Hermit Miser," is dead. He was apparently destitute ,and was clothed in rags, but it is reported that he was worth from $12,000 to $15,000. He lived in a little house on the plains on the old Cherry Valley Road, between Garden City and Munson, and was rarely seen except when he went to a grocery for provisions.

He is said to have made his living from a strawberry patch which was patronized by wealthy residents of Garden City. The house in which he lived is a shanty, the ground floor answering all living porposes, with a ramshackle cot in the corner on which he slept most of his life, and on which he finally died. Though the clothes in which he died hardly hung together a new suit of fine underwear was carefully laid away.

A NAVAL BATTLE.

Torpedo Boat Crew Mutiny and Fight At Vladivostok.

Vladivostok, Nov. 5 .- An exciting little naval battle took place in this harbor between the mutinous crew of a Russian torpedo-boat destroyer and their loyal comrades. The mutineers finally were subdued, but not before a number of men had been killed and wounded.

The mutinous boat is the Skory, and she gave fight to the gunboat Mandschur, the destroyers Garsovoz. Smely, and Serditz, and the garrison of the harbor forts, manued by the Twelfth Regiment of Artillery.

The Skory soon was overwhelmed. and she had to be beached to save her from sinking. This was not accomplished, however, before her guns | dam Theatre in New York. had done considerable damage and several officers and men of the other ships had been killed or wounded.

The crew of the Skory were incited by agitators, incluiding some Jews. who had managed to get on board and take charge of the destroyer. She steamed out into the harbor with the red bag flying, and at once opened fire on the town and forts.

Fur Fashions for These Days.

Fashions in furs for the coming winter are of the graceful and careless looking order rather than the spruce, neat and tightly-fitting.

The coat sleeve is out of date, because of those muslin and lace underneath. A lovely three-quarter length coat of chinchilla has the dark sliding of the fur carefully treated round the figure, edged with a long band at either side ornamented with very handsome gray cords and tassels. The sleeves are moderate bell shaped, the dark part of the fur going round, and the coat is lined with ivory white satin. One of Thaw may have been an inheritfinds that on the new models there ance. is no trimming of lace or embroidery.
