

X-RAY FOR THE HAIR

SUCCESS IN THE TREATMENT REPORTED IN PARIS.

Scientists Say That Baldness and Loss of Color if Taken Before the Disease Has Run Its Course May Be Overcome.

Much interest has been aroused recently in the reported cures of baldness and the restoration of natural color to gray hair by use of the X-ray.

The scientists who have been working on the problem do not say that women whose hair is gray and eventually possess a fine head of hair, but they do say that in many cases this result can be effected and that in all cases, when taken in the beginning, the trouble may be prevented. When the hair has turned entirely gray or the scalp is entirely bald nothing can be done. These conditions mean the death of the coloring matter of the hair, and in the case of baldness the extinction of the hair roots. The cause of the hair turning gray has always been uncertain nor has the treatment by the X-ray thrown much light upon these causes. One hypothesis is that the color of the hair is made by the blood and that grayness comes from a microbe which destroys the color matter faster than the blood can make it. If this microbe is destroyed by the X-ray, then the blood can resume its natural function. This is the most plausible explanation, yet put forth why grayness is so often accompanied by baldness and baldness is by no means synonymous with grayness. Baldness is rather more an affection of the scalp and can be prevented by the X-ray, but can scarcely be cured. Grayness, on the contrary, the scientists say, may be cured. The restoration of color, moreover, is attended with increased vigor of the hair. This is, however, extremely likely to be preceded by a temporary falling out of the hair, but in a short time it takes on a new growth.

It has been known ever since the X-ray was first used that it had an effect upon the hair, and it was used in the beginning without taking special precaution against letting it fall upon the hair, the result was it was supposed to damage the hair. The contrary by degrees was found out, but the real discovery of the method of restoring color is the work of Dr. Imbert, head of the electrical department of the University of Montpellier in France, and his first assistant, Dr. Marquess. Dr. Imbert, who is constantly experimenting with the X-ray, found out that his own hair and beard, which were quite gray, were becoming dark again. He began experimenting with the assistance of Dr. Marquess, and proved that a certain mild action of the rays had the power in most cases to restore the color. The French X-ray specialists became interested in these experiments and in a very little while worked out a practical formula and treatment.

In ordinary cases daily treatments should be made six in the week for about three weeks. The treatment has been given in Paris for about two years and with increasing success. The X-ray men have found out, they say, that cases can be cured and that wherever there is any of the original color left it can be restored. In those advanced cases it is not possible to restore the color entirely to all of the hair. There are liable to be light colored places where the grayness has been most marked. Dyed hair, however, is very difficult to restore. The original color of the hair seems to be badly affected by the use of dyes and as a rule the X-ray specialists do not attempt to restore the dyed hair until the dye has worn off. This is a matter of months.

The process has been in use in Paris for about two years and is daily growing more popular. Three weeks is the usual period of treatment for a typical case. But it is quite two months before the full effect is accomplished. As soon as the hair begins to fall out the treatments are stopped for a time and is not resumed until the falling out ceases. Generally, however, it is possible to get eighteen treatments without any falling out of the hair. There is nothing in the least alarming or even trying in the treatment, and the only sensation noticeable is sometimes a slight sensation of warmth on the spot treated. The patient seats himself in a chair before the X-ray apparatus, the hair hangs loose to the shoulders and the ray is turned on it for six minutes. The use of the X-ray is far less expensive than in America, 20 francs ($4) being the usual charge for a treatment.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their results, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley, of Howard, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Fiske, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of other equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such pronounced endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

INDICATES TIRE DEFLATION

Device to Inform Auto Occupants That Tire Needs Inflation.

Among recent automatic accessories patented is a device for indicating the deflation of pneumatic tires. It is almost impossible for the chauffeur or occupants of the automobile to determine the amount of air in the tires without stopping the machine occasionally and carefully examining them. Obviously it would be of advantage to overcome the necessity of constant stoppages. In order that the deflation might be instantly indicated to the driver a very simple method is employed by a New

SIGNAL FOR MORE AIR.

York man, who has patented the idea. A ball is held at a fixed point in the tube of the tire—the ball being of a less diameter than the internal diameter of the tube when fully inflated. When the latter is the case the ball remains inoperative, but when the tube is partially deflated the wheel will run upon and over the ball at each revolution. The jarring thus occasioned will be at once noticeable to the occupants of the car and is a signal that the tire needs inflation.

In the British Navy.

The ships bell is struck every half hour to announce the time.

The quarter deck must always be saluted on being approached.

Postal orders are sold at face value without poundage being charged.

The master at arms or chief of police is the only man in the ship not being an officer allowed to wear a sword.

There is a government savings bank on board every ship, paying 3 per cent, but officers may not use it.

Ropes are marked with a thin colored thread interwoven red if made at Portsmouth, blue at Devonport, yellow at Chatham.

From the minute a ship commissions to the day of paying off there is always an officer on watch day and night without intermission.

Grog is always mixed with three-parts water before being served out to the men; warrant officers and petty officers alone receive it undiluted.

At any time of the day or night a man may be called upon for duty if necessary. Leave to go on shore is regarded by the Admiralty as a privilege and not a right.

An officer's sword at a court-martial is laid on the table, point towards him, when he enters to hear the finding if he has been adjudged guilty. It is reversed if he is acquitted.

WOMEN IN BRITISH POLITICS.

They Work as Individuals, Also in Various Leagues.

Among the notable women in British politics is Mrs. Millicent Fawcett of the Liberal Unionists, a fine speaker with a clear voice and the author of various books, political and biographical.

Mrs. Cornwallis West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill, is described as "a politician to her finger tips," says the World To-day. She has both canvassed and spoken frequently in behalf of her son, Winston Churchill. She was also the founder and editor of the Anglo-Saxon Review.

The Primrose League was organized in 1883 by Lord Randolph Churchill and others in memory of Benjamin Disraeli (Lord Beaconsfield). It has become a great conservative body, with more than a million members—men, women and children. At its annual festivals the leaders of the party make known their political purposes and enlist its assistance in carrying them out.

A rival organization was instituted by Mrs. Gladstone in 1886—the woman's Liberal Federation—which has developed some strong women speakers. It draws together women of all ranks and is a large educative force politically.

In 1888 the Liberal Unionists followed suit in establishing a federation which differs from the other mainly in its opposition to home rule. It has thirty-six branches and a membership of from fourteen to fifteen thousand. These three organizations are influential factors in political affairs in Great Britain.

The Ladies' Land League was founded by Michael Davitt in February of that year as an auxiliary to the Irish Land League. When the latter was suppressed by Mr. Gladstone the women took entire management of its work until Mr. Parnell's release from prison, $550,000 passing through their hands in eight months.

Hand Weaving by Cripples.

A number of charitable people in Birmingham, England, about five years ago, started a small handloom factory to provide a useful and remunerative employment for crippled girls. Many of the delicate fabrics are artistically handwoven in silk, serge, and flax, and the results are most attractive. The product of the factory, which is also a school in hand weaving, is acquiring a reputation for artistic merit and quality, and the enterprise is now paying its way. It seems as if this Birmingham charity should be of interest to people who desire to help in making cripples self-supporting and at the same time in procuring textiles of an attractive kind.

The Complaint Spotter.

The hotel keeper, after turning away three guests for lack of room, began to talk complacently about the secret of his unusual success.

"My unusual success is due," he said, "to that tall handsome man conversing with the neat couple over there, he is my complaint spotter."

"My complaint spotter is engaged, at a liberal salary, to fraternize with the guests, and by clever questioning to find out what they dislike about my place. Their dislikes if reasonable, are remedied at once. You'd think there was no need of a complaint spotter. You'd think the average guest was too ready to come to the office and register his klick. This, though, is not the case. The average guest klicks, he klicks vigorously, but not to the office. Through cowardice he is mild in the office, pleased with everything. He does all his growling to his fellow-boarders, where it does no good, but only creates a nasty spirit of discontent."

"But my spotter get hold of these soreheads at once, we remedy their grievance at once, and so, instead of harming, they help the hotel—instead of knockers they become boosters."—Philadelphia Bulletin.
