THE COLUMBIAN, BLOOMSBURG,

WASHINGTON

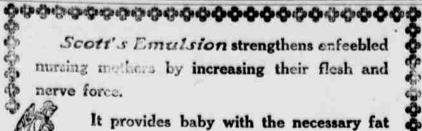

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., April 27, 1908. The President's policies have received a severe jolt in Congress, the Senate leaders having practically decided to do almost nothing which the Executive has recommended. The Steering Committee of the Senate held a formal meeting to decide on the legislative programme for the remainder of the session. The first decision reached was that adjournment should be taken on cacy of postal savings banks and the Senate would make no conces- session. sions to the House on the subject

Last week in the House was and outrageous ruling ever perpetrated by a Speaker of that body. In the face of an explicit demand for the yeas and nays preferred by the Democratic leader, Mr. Williams, the Speaker declared the House adjourned on a vive voce vote, despite the constitutional provision that the minority shall always have the privilege of demanding the yeas and nays. Mr. Williams introduced, the next day, a resolution censuring Speaker Can-non but his cowed supporters promptly voted it down. Mr. Williams sald later that in all the history of the House no Speaker had so deliberately struck at the dignity of the body as a deliberative assembly as had Mr. Cannon who by this piece of tyranny fairly outdid anything attempted by Speaker Reed at the time when he won the sobriquet of "Czar" of the House. _

New Knowledge in Farming.

An editorial talk in the April 25th issue of Farm and Fireside:

"It's as plain as a red barn on a side hill that the business of farming has reached a sharp turn in the road, that the ranks of the soil tillers are rapidly being separated into two camps: the Do-It-As Dad-Did-It and the New Knowledge Group. Right now, of course, the members of the New Knowledge Group are in the minority; the old-line farmers can outvote them on any proposition and not know that there has been a contest.

"But just the same, the agricultural colleges are turning out every year an increasing number of young men who can tell the veteran farmer a whole lot about his own game. Senator Borah in a powerful open mind instead of closed eyes speech denounced the effort to play and tools that Dad used. Liquid Shaker. An entirely new novelty of recent origin is the "liquid shaker" shown in the illustration below. It is a hygienic device, designed to rest upon and overlap the edge of a vessel in which liquids are to be shaken. It comprises a disk composed of two layers of cork, between which is a sheet of rubber to render the shaker waterproof and non-absorbent. This treatment also renders the cork aseptic. Around the edges of the disk are guides, whereby the shaker is held in position on the rim of a glass. A slight pressure on the shaker causes the periphery to yield forcing the center into the vessel. This action has the effect of expelling some of the air, creating a vacuum which holds the cover tightly upon the rim and prevents leakage of the liquids however hard the vessel and cover are shaken. The device is also useful in a sickroom or in any instance where a vessel containing a beverage or medicine is allowed to stand exposed to the possible deleterious effects of the atmosphere.

Sandwiches.

Walnut sandwich-Mix finely chopped walnuts with cream cheese, a pinch of salt and just cream enough to spread easily on slices of bread cut thin.

Chicken pate-Pass cold chicken or veal through the chopper, add 34 teaspoonful of English mustard. pinch of salt, also pinch of pepper and lemon juice enough to moisten, spread on thin slices of bread and cover.

Ham sandwish-Thinly sliced ham covered with finely chopped onion and a little mustard between two thin slices of bread. Russian sandwiches-Olives ston ed and chopped and mixed with mayonnaise, spread between two soda crackers. Very nice. Chicken and ham sandwich-To ½ cup of cold chicken, chopped fine, add a slice of chopped ham mixed with enough chicken gravy to spread like a paste; put between slices of brown bread.

Stirring Fiction in the May Lippincott's.

Coursing blood and the call or the outdoor world ! Only the very brightest of fiction can now hold the interest-such a story, for instance, as the complete novel in stance, as the complete novel in the May Lippincott's: "The Pirate of Alastair." Rupert Sargent Hol-land, the author, will be pleasantly remembered as the writer of that clever book, "The Count at Har-vard." He has invested his new Bloomsburg D L & W... 900 2 37 6 15 6 00 tale with a healthful outdoor atmosphere. You will feel that you too would like to be on that remote corner of the Maine coast, taking part in such stirring adventures as befell Felix Selden.

Lippincott's always excels in the matter of short stories, and this month is no exception to the rule. Dorothea Deakin, creator of "Georgie," contributes a blithesome tale called "The Serpent's Tooth," which contains a lesson for a certain class of mothers who would do well to take it to heart. Thomas L. Masson's story, "A Man's Game," shows the humorous touch and the keen knowledge of human nature which have earned this author his reputation as one of our foremost humorists. "Helen's First Sunday," by George Herbert Clarke, is a dainty little tale apropos of Decoration Day. "Patience Fes-senden's Scandalous Story," by Ja net Garth, and "The Bed of Pro-crustes," by Jane Belfield, are also worthy of special mention.

An article of decided importance to the literary world is "The Tragic End of Guy de Maupassant," by Albert Schinz. There has always been considerable mystery anent the last days of this famous French writer, and now for the first time for many it is cleared up. The third of Joseph M. Rogers's remarkable series of articles on "Educating Our Boys'' ceals with "Athletics and Sentiment." It is perhaps the most important of all -as you may agree when you read it. Other notable papers in the number are "Going to the Dogs," by Clifford Howard; "The Benefaction of Tuberculosis," by John Stone; "Co-operation," by Ellis O. Jones; "The Passing of the Home," by Minna Thomas Antrim; and "The Summons of Spring," by Edwin L. Sabin.

Good cooks know the value of a few drops of glycerine added to the flour in cake making in the proporeaspoonful to one pound tion of of flour.
