in a cell and is branded as a criminal, while absolutely innocent of guilt.

At Caesarea Governor Felix kept him two whole years in military cuitody. To be sure he was not confined in prison, neither was be out on bail, but he was put in the care of a soldier who was held responsible for him when wanted. At the end of that period Felix, the governor, was himself called to Rome to answer complaints against his administration. and a new ruler, Festus, was appoint ed in his place. Three days after as-soming office Festus went to Joronaiem on his first visit, and the very first complaint that he heard was th old trouble about Paul. The cris knaves who had planned the first of spiracy, asked that the spostle mibe brought to Jerusalem, intending assassinate him on his way thit! But again these "black hand" rased are defeated in their purpose, Feature appoints a new trial at Caesarea.

Appeal to Caesar.

At this proliminary learing Faul, who has come to the ponclusion th he cannot hope for a fair trial. Juden, falls back upon his vinitie as a Homan citizen, and appeals Caesar. The pronunciation of t single word Appello, was sufficient to transfer all further proceedings form the provincial tribunal to the Daperor.

While the governor walled an enportunity to forward his prisoner, he was visited by his royal neighbor Agrippa, and his sister tternice, thered Agrippa II, was a Jew. His follow Herod Agrippa L, in this very city of Caesarea had died a trugic death, saten alive by worms. He was the grandson of that Herod who had the headed John the Baptist, and the great grandson of the Herod wi slew the children of Bathtehem at the birth of Christ. Therefore, he hailed with delight the opportunity of reeing and hearing the most urilliant teacher and preacher that christianity had produced. Accordingly a brillant audience gathered in the judgment hall, and Paul was given the opp tunity of telling the story of his conversion to christianity and his subsequent 25 years of missionary sor-

The Point at issue.

After an introduction of singular grace Paul comes at once to the point at issue. He puts the whole charge into a nutshell. His enemies had thrown a great deal of dust into the eyes of his judges in their frantle efforts to get rid of him, but Paul in a single sentence goes straight to the heart of the matter, and affirms that it is on account of the hope held by the Jews themselves that he is now judged. It was the great promise of the Old Testament, viz., the coming of the Messiah. The whole Jewish nation believed God's promise of Messiah, and looked and longed for it. And the only reason for their hatred and persecution of Paul was the fact that he taught that Jesus of Nazareth whom they had crucifled, was that Messiah.

Dodging the Truth.

Both Paul's auditors are moved, but both in a different way dodge responsibility. Festus, the heathen, can account for the apostle's earnestness in no other way than on the ground of a "brain storm." He cries out, "Much theological study has turned your head." And Agrippa, the zealous Jew, sheeringly says, "With but little persuasion thou wouldst fain make me a christian," (Revised Version). The Roman official scoffed in one way, the intelligent blue-blooded Jew sneered in another. But they both dodged the truth.

Paul is not the only man who has been stigmatized as a lunatic. Dwight L. Moody was nicknamed "Crazy Moody" before the world came to recognize the method of his madness. If there were more crazy people, after the pattern of Paul, in the christian church to-day, the world would sit up and take notice. The knees of corrupt judges would knock together again with Fallx, and new Agrippas, hard, selfish, bigoted, would again feel the force of the spiritual earnestness of the soldiers of the cross. If modern disciples felt as profoundly the revolutionary doctrine of the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, there would be a mighty host of believers ready to Cry out, with the apostle, "I would to God, that whether with little or with much, not thou only, but also all that hear me this day, might become such as I am." office which he is or may be authorized to fill; if the vacancy shall happen dur-ing the session of the Senate, the Gov-ernor shall nominate to the Senate, be-person to fill said vacancy; but in any fuch case of vacancy, in an elective of-fice, a person shall be chosen to said of-
