the other hand, the identity of that party whose labors have conducted this Republic to its present greatness, is perfect; its platform is 'erected-broad enough for all to stand on who love the Constitution, and uphold the country in her perils, and who sympathize in the great principles of Democracy.

But, sir, for a moment I must remark on the consistency of the Whigs. We all remember with what bitterness they denounced and deprecated the election of General Jackson. "War, pestilence, and famine," would have been preferred to the election of a military chieftain. Now, sir, a man is selected alone and exclusively for his military services, nothing else!

othing else! They had a perfect horror of Mr. Van Buren, because of his non-committalism, as they called it. Now, this is the chief virtue of their candidate!

They have opposed the war with Mexico with one consent-denounced it as "unholy," "unjust," "unnecessary," and "unconstitutional," and applied every epithet of condemnation to it that could be thought of -yet, notwithstanding all this they seize upon its gldries, bind them around the brow of a General, make him their candidate, and hope to win their way to power through its very existence.

They declaimed against Mr. Van Buren on account of the enployment of bloodhounds in the Florida war. In vain his friends applogized—insisted that it was his officers-the War Department; all would not do. They pressed it upon us. And I remember well the impression made on the public mind by pictures of the "poor Indian," as he was called, running for life, almost exhausted, struggling, onward and onward, fainting with fear and exhaustion, still pursued by the relentless blood-hound, with fiery eyes and bloody tongue. Sir, 1 remember it well. And now they have forgotten this, and nominated the man that, I think, the following letter will show to be the author of the scheme. It is addressed to the War Department; and the author "begs leave again to arge" it, as the only means of ridding the country of the Indians. But here it is:

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE SOUTH,

Tort Brooke, July 28, 1839. Sin: I have the honor to enclose you a communication this moment received, on the subject of procuring blood-hounds from the Island of Cuba, to aid the army in its hounds from the Island of Cuba, to aid the army in its operations ugainst the hostiles of Florida. I am decidedly in favor of the measure, and beg leave again to urge it as the only means of ridding the country of the Indians, who are now broken up into small parties, that take shelter in swamps and hammocks as the army approaches, making it impossible for us to follow or overtake them without the aid of such auxiliaries.

Should this measure meet the approbation of the department, and the necessary authority be granted, I will open a correspondence on the subject with Mr. Everston, through Major Hunt, assistant quartermaster at Savan-nah, and will authorize him, if it can be done on reasonable terms, to employ a few dogs, with persons who undorstand their management.

1 must now say a word about the candidates of the Democratic party. They are before the nation; the platform is erected, and all may examine it freely, and become acquainted with it, and accept it if they choose. Few men in our country possess the eminent services, both civil and military, of the candidates of our party; lives of service, filled with the unwavering confidence of the people at all periods, attest their value. No man in the field, in the executive chamber, in the Senate, the cabinet, or as a diplomatist, has been more eminently successful than has General Cass. A life of active service furnishes the clearest insight into his principles, and proves their purity and his patriotism.

"Just our Leek .- This was the exclamation the other morning, by several of our Whig friends, when the news of the apmination of Taylor was received. Did you ever know a Whig Convention, says one, but that made fools of themselves ! Here we have been for the last six-months abusing the war-the officers and soldiers, and above all, manifesting our sympathy for slaves, and just as we got ready to hurra ! over goes our dish by the nomination of one the greatest slave holders in Christendom. 'Othello's occupation is gone,' and we have either got to 'cut bait, fish, or go ashore.' "

THE WHIG CANDIDATE FLOORED .- We understand that Mr. Manly, in his speech at Germenton, said, if it shall hereafter turn out that Mr. Polk. in giving the pass to Santa Anna, intended thereby to give aid and comfort to the enemy, "it will sink him into an abyse of political damnation so deep that the hand of resurrection can never reach him!

approved of the terms of the capitulation at Monterey, and he desired his competitor to answer him this question: If this giving of a pass by Mr. Polk to one Mexican shall "sink him into an abyes of political damnation so deep that the hand of resurrection can never reach him," how deep will the giving of a pass to a whole army of Mexica s, (consisting of thousands) at Monterey sink Gen. Taylor? This was a sockdoleger. Of course the "inimtable Charley" was brought up all standing.—Raleigh (N. C.) Standard.

*The following is the concluding paragraph of most of the memorials: "As a Territory of the United States. Florida is subject to the control of the General Government, and we earnestly beseech Congress to interpose its authority to avert this attempt, and preserve our country from the deep dispace which must be inflicted by so foul ablot upon the national character." VELOUITY OF ELECTRICITY .- A copper wire the fifteenth of an inch in diameter, and half a mile long, is insulated in such a manner that its parts are not in contact with each other, three breaks being made in it: one near the beginning, another near the end, and the third near the middle of the length. These breaks are then brought near each other and arranged in a vertical line, before a small mirror, which can be made to revolve by means of watchwork at the rate of 8 0 times in a second. When the mirror is at rest the sparks appear one over the other; when in motion the reflections of the three sparks from the three lines of light in the mirror, indicate that the duration of the discharge occupied an appreciable portion of time. The spark at the beginning of the wire was vertically over that at the ending, whilst the spark at the middle was thrown a little, to one side, which proves the disturbance of the electrical equilibrim takes place list at the middle of the wirer. By measuring this deviation, and compating it with the motion of the mirror, Prof. Wheatstane found the velocity of the discharge was about Col. Reid in reply to this said, that Mr. Manly 238,000 miles per second, or greater than that of light through the celestial spaces.

The opinion of Court is, that the law is constitutional, being a social and political regulation, giving a preferance to no religious establishment or mode of worship.
