THE DOG-DAYS.

BY JOHN G. SAXE. "Hot-hot-all piping hot."-City Cries Heaven help us all!-in these terrific days! The burning sun upon the carth is polting With its directest, fiercest, holtest rays, And everything is melting.

Fat men infatuate, fan the stagnant air. In rash essay to cool their inward glowing. While with each stroke, in dolerous despair, They feel the fervor growing!

The lean and lathy find a fate as hard. For, all a-dry, they burn like any tinder. Beneath the solar blaze, 'til wither'd, chai'd, And crisped away to cinder!

The dogs lie lelling in the deepest shade, The pigs are all a-wallow in the gutters. And not a household creature-cat or maid-But querulously mutters!

E'en stoics now are in "the melting mood," And vestal cheeks are most unscouly florid, The very zone that girts the primest prude, Is now intensely torid!

"T is dreadful, dreadful hot," exclaims each one Unto his sweating, sweltering, roasting neighbor, Then mops his brow, and pants, as he had done A quito herculean labor! 7 . · · ·

And friends who pass each other in the street, Say no 'good morrows,' when they come together But only mutter, if they chance to meet, "What horrid, horrid weather!"

While prudent mortals curb with strictest care All vagrant curs-it seems the queerest puzzle, The Dog-Star rages, rabid, through the air. Without the slightest muzzle!

But Jove is wise and equal in his sway, Howe'er it seems to clash with human reason, His fiery dogs will soon have had their day, And men shall have a season!

Sales of 2,500 or 3,000 derive their name. The efforts of civilized travelets have been for centuries directed to the recess of this continent, yet four-fifths of it is blank upon our maps. Ins whole centre is one broad unexplored region, and the information obtained by recent travelers is of the most aggravating kind, showing us mines of wealth which it is impossible to work.

Before giving the result of these discoveries, let us look on Africa as described, and it may be familiar-to most of our readers.' Egypt, an old, worn-out country, in its antiquities one of the most interesting places on the continent, occupies a small portion of its northeast border. The river Nile has been explored to its sources by Bruce and other travelers, who have given us some curieus facts. The Barbary States occupy the northern portion of it bordering on the Mediterranean. South of this, and stretching from the Nile to the Atlantic, is the Great Desert of Sahara, Along the whole western coast are small establishments or factories for trade in slaves, gold dust, ivory, palm oil, and vegetable productions .-This trade has been nearly monopolized by the English until lately, but now American enterprise has taken ar large portion of it out of their hands. On this coast are the settlements of Sierra Leone and Liberia, established as colonics of our emancipated slaves, but both, we have reason to believe, are in a wretched condition. The En-which we despise? This is not honest. Do we not lie daily for the sake of half-pence, and so pick men's pockets: and look lies for the sake of empty smiles and compliments? This is not honest. Do not some of us go about with cold, sneering lips, as if we were of custom's frost-work, when our hearts are burning within us; making conventional grimaces, and repeating formal catechisms, when our inmost thoughts are struggling for utterance? But we should displease this friend, give advantage to some foc, he laughed at by some fool, he deemed rudo by the world; and so we sell our hearts. for the rewards of worldliness, and live, not like true men made in God's image, but rather like automata, manufactured by custom's patent.

A NAUGHTY PRINTER .-- A young type-sticker of Philadelphia, who had eloped with another man's wife, was found in Wilmington, Del., by the husband, living as snug as a bug in a rug, with the fair runaway. This "corser half" showed real grit, and told her husband she should elope again with the typo on the first opportunity ; but he carried her home.

reignties, which carry on a limited trade Quite recently the English have made a settlement at Aden, near the mouth of the Red Sca. Having once obtained a foothold, they, English like, began to yush about them, and one of their first discoveries was a river where none was marked upon any chart, and upon this they steamed 300 miles without finding the least obstruction. Having now passed round this continent, let us look up in the interior. For half a century the English Government has been expending lives and treasure in a partial exploration. They have found that this whole truct of country is one of amazing fertility and beauty, abounding in gold, and all sorts of tropical vegetation.

There are hundreds of woods, invaluable for dying and architectural purposes, not found in any other portion of the world. Through it for thousands of miles sweeps a river from three to six miles broad, with clear water, and of unsurpassed depth, flowing on at the rate of two or three miles an hour, without tock, shoal. or snag, to interrupt its navigation. Other rivers' pour into this tributary waters of such volume as must have required hundreds of miles to be collegted, yet they seem scarcely to enlarge it. This river pours its waters into the Atlantic, through the most magnificent delta in the world, con-sisting, perhaps, of a hundred months extending probably 500 miles along the chast, and mostly broad, deep and cities, some of which are estimated to contain a million ry, and, as they hope, a successful outbreak.

of inhabitants, and the whole country teems with a dense population. Far in the interior, in the very heart of the continent, is a hation in an advanced state of civilization. The grandeur and beauty of portions of the country through which the Niger makes its sweeping circuit, are indescribable. In many places its banks rise boldly a thousand feet, thickly covered with the richest vegetation of 'tropical climes. But all this vart and sublime countrythis scene of rich fertility and romantic beauty-is apparently shut out from the world. It is the negro's sole possession. He need not fear the incursions of the white man there-for over this whole levely country moves one dread malady and to the white man it is the "valley of the shadow of death." In expedition after expedition, sent out from the English ports, on the island of Ascension, not one man in ten has returned alive; all have fallen victims to this scomingly beautiful, but awful country. It seems impossible for an Englishman to breath that air. So dreadful is it-so small the chance of life, that criminals in Lingland have been offered pardon on condition of volunteering in this scivice, more terrible than that of gathering the poison from the fabled Upas. This country, tempting as it is, can only be penetrated at the risk of life ; and it is melancholy to think that those who have given us even the mengre information that we have, do so at the sacritice of their lives.

Simmonds' Colonial Magazine. HONESTY.

What is honesty? "To pay one's debts." Exactly so. No definition could be nearer correctness. Always mind ug, however, that there are other ledgers than the tinder's, that a man's debts are not to be calculated in a pounds, shillings and pence. It is not honest for a man to deteriorate his own nature, to blight his own heart, to ontechle his mind, or even to neglect his physical culture. It is not houest in a woman to swear to love a man when sho only loves his house and equipage; nor any houester for a man to purchase a woman the same as he would purchase a beast. For everything has its certain value; and to pay that which is fairly due is the prerogative of thonesty. It is not honest to make a poot an excise officer, any more than it is to steal a legislator's robes to say one thing and to do another. Alas for our daily custom! Do we not continually, bribed with the hope of 帮,

They then rung the chapel bells, when scended from the neighboring hills, armed to the teeth, who remained in Carrick all night lest an attempt should be made to arrest Father Byrne. The release of the prisoners and the withdrawal of the troops was considered as a triumph.

The clubs having been charged with being formed for the purpose of killing and murdering, the Dublin stabs ueld a meeting, and on motion of Smith O'Brien, declared that the purpose of this organization is the overthrow of the British power in Ireland. Twenty-three catholic priests in the deanery of Tuam have protested against the club, and a few priests in other parts have also disavowed them.

Devin Riley continues to write and speak treason. All absent officers belonging to the regiments in Ireland, have been ordered on duty. The purchase of arms is proceeding briskly among the people.

The rebels have prepared a map of the city of Dublin sub-divided into districts, in each of which are points, at which the clubs are respectively to muster, and barricodes to be thrown up are indicated.

The latest accounts from Dublin state that it is now ar ranged that if upon the formation of the jury to try Duffy. or his fellows, it shell appear probable that a conviction navigable for steamboats. Upon this river are scattered will be had, the cluba will prevent a trial by an anticipato-
