The Live of Life.

When Eve is purpling cliff and cave. Thoughts of the heart, how swift ye flow Not softer on the western wave,

The golden lines of sunset glow. They all, by chance or fate removed, Like spirits crowd upon the eye; The few we liked—the one we loved— And the whole heart is memory.

And Life is like this failing flower, Its beauty dying as we gaze; Yet, as the shadows round us lower. Heaven pours above the brighter blaze. When morning sheds its gorgeous dye, Our hope, our heart, to Earth is given. But dark and lonely is the eye, That turns not, at its eve, to Heaven.

OREGON;

Its Coast, Harbors, Climate and Population. We are indebted to a friend at Washington for a copy of the report of Lieut. N. M. Howison, of the U. S. Navy, on the Coast, Harbors, Rivers, Soil, Climate and Population of the Territory of Oregon. The statement is based on an examination that was made in 1846. Lt M. reached Fort Van Couver, 100 miles from the mouth of the Columbia River, on the night of July 14th. He found there, moored to the river bank, two barques and aship in the employment of the Hudson's Bay Company.

"The persons of any consideration who have been longest settled in Orogon, are the factors, clerks, and servants of the Hudson's Bay Company. Their first point of residence was at Astoria; but the country hereabouts was forest land, and difficult to clear, and it became necessary to increase their resources of provisions and other domestic productions as their establishments enlarged. About twenty-two years ago, leaving a single trader to conduct the fur trade at Asioria, they made a now settlement 96 miles up the river, and called it Vancouver. This eligible site is the first prairie land found upon the banks of the river, sufficiently elevated to be secure from the summer inundations. The control of all the company's affairs west of the Rocky Mountains, was at that time in the hands of John McLaughlin. As this gentleman figures largely in the first settlement of the country, and still continues to occupy a most respectable and influential stand there, it may be proper to describe him. He is a native of Canada, but born of Irish and parents; his name is solden spelt aright by any one but himself; he is well educated, and, having studied medicine, acquired the title of doctor, which is now universally applied to him. Of fine form, great strength, and bold and fearless character, he was of all men best suited to lead and control those Canadian advonturers, who, influenced partly by hopes of profit, but still more by a spirit of romance, enlisted themselves in the service of the fur-trading companies, to traverse the unexplored country west and north of Hudson's Bay .--They came, I think, as early as in 1820, to assume the direction of the Hudson's Bay Company's interest west of the Rocky mountains, and immediately organized the necessary trading posts among the indians of Oregon and those on the more northerly coasts."

The whole population of Oregon, exclusive of therough-bred Indians, amounted at the time to about nine thousand souls, of whom two thousand were not citizens of the United States. Nearly all the inhabitants except those connected with the Hudson's Bay Company, were settled in the Williamette Valley, the extreme Southern cottage being on the St. Mary's River, about one hundred miles from the Columbia. Between Astoria and Fort Vancouver, only one white man resided on the banks of the river, for the purpose of cultivation.

The people of Oregon had lived without law or politics, until the latter part of '45; and it is strong evidence of their good sense and disposition that it had not proviously been found necessary to establish some restraints of law in a community of several thousand people. Among the emigrants of this year, however, were many intelligent and reflecting minds, who plainly saw that this order of things could not continue in a rapidly in-creasing and busiling population; and that it had become indispensible to establish legal landmarks to secure property to those already in its possession, and point to now comors a mode of acquiring it. A convention was accordingly held and a majority of votes taken in favor of establishing a provisional government, "until such time as the United States of America extend their jurisdiction over us." The organic law or constitution was of course first framed, and made abundantly democratic in its charneter for the taste of the most ultra disciple of that political school. It makes the male decendants of a white man 21 years of age, no matter of what colored woman begotten, eligible for any office in the Territory; and grants every such person the privilege-of selecting six hundred and forty acres of land, "in a square or oblong" form, according to the situation of the premises." provides for the election of a Governor and other officers, civil and military, and makes it the duty of such elected to take the following oath:

"I do solemnly swear to support the organic laws of Oregon, as far as they are consistent with my duties as MRS. ROOD would inform her old customers and the ladie of Company as far as they are consistent with my duties as n citizen of the United States, or as a subject of Great Britain, and faithfully domean myself in office: so help

One of the first enactments of the legislature under the organic law, was, "that in addition to gold and silver, treasury drafts, and good merchandize, wheat at the prarket price, shall be a lawful tender."

Goo. Abernathy, an American, was elected the first Governor. He visited Oregon as Secular Agent of the Methodist Mission, in 1838 or 9, and afterwards engaged in the mercantile and milling business. He was a native of New York, and married a lady of Newa Scotia. There were about thirty colored persons among the population. The number of British subjects throughout the territory, did not exceed six hundred, exclusive of French Cana-

Besides Fort Vancouver, six sites have been selected for towns: of those Astoria takes precedence in age only. It is situated on the left bank of the Columbia, thirteen miles from the sea: it contains ten houses, including a ware-house, Indian lodges, a cooper's and blacksmith's shop; it has no open ground except gardens within less than a mile of it. It may be considered in a state of transition, exhibiting the wretched remains of hygone settlement, and the uncouth germ of a new one. About thirty white people live here, and two ledges of Chinook Indians. The Hudson's Bay Company have still an agent here, but were about transferring him over to a new warehouse they are putting up at Cape Disappointment. A pro-emption right to the principal part of this site is claimed by an American named Welch; the other portion, including Point George, is claimed in like manner by Col. John Maclure. Leaving Astoria, we ascend the Columbia eighty miles, and there entering the Williamette, find, three-miles within its mouth, the city Williamette, find, three miles within its mouth, the city of Linton, on its left or western shore. This site was solected by a copartuership of gentlemen as the most natural depot for the produce of the well settled Twelity plains, and a road was opened over the ridge of hills in-fervoring between the plains and the river. It contains only a few log houses, which are overshadowed by huge fir trees that it has not yet been convenient to remove. Its inhabitants are very poor and severely persecuted by musquitoes day and night. Not one of its proprietors resides on the spot, and its future increase is, to say the least of it, doubtful. Eight or nine miles above Linton, on the same side of the Williamette, we come to a more promising appearance of a town. It has been named Portland by the individual under whose auspices it has come into existence, and mainly to whose efforts its growth and increase are to be ascribed. This is Mr. F. W. Pettigrone, from Maine, who came out here some years back as agent for the mercantile house of the Magnes Ranges of New York. Messrs. Bonson, of New York. Having done a good business for his employers, he next set about doing something for himself, and is now the principal commercial man in the country. He selected Portland as the site of a town accessible to shipping, built houses, and estab-lished himself there; invited others to settle around him, and appropriated his little capital to opening wagon roads (aided by neighboring farmors) into the Twality plains, and up the east side of the river to the falls where the city of Oregon stands. Twelve or fifteen new houses are already occupied, and others building; and, with a poputation of more than sixty souls, the heads of families, genorally industrious inechanics, its prospects of increase are favorable. A good wharf, at which vessels may lie and discharge or take in cargo most months in the year, is also among the improvements of Portland. Twelve miles above we come to the falls of the Williammette. and abreast of and just below these, on the cast side of the river, stands Oregon city. This is considered the capital of the Territory, contains seventy-odd houses, and has a population of nearly five hundred souls. The situation of this place is very peculiar: the river here is about eighty yards wide, and at its lowest stage is twelve situation of this place is very peculiar: the river here is about eighty yards wide, and at its lowest stage is twelve feet deep; in fresheits it sometimes rises thirty feet allow-water mark. The rocky rampart, over which if alls almost perpendicularly, is parhaps forty feet high; and from about its upperfevel, a narrow strip-offevel ground three hundred yards wide, (between the bed of the river and a precipitous hilly ridge,) is the site of the town.

A Methodist and a Catholic church, two floar and saw mills, a tavern, a brick storehouse and several wooden and a precipitous hilly ridge,) is the site of the town.

A Methodist and a Catholic church, two floar and saw mills, a tavern, a brick storehouse and several wooden ones, an iron foundry just beginning, and many snug dwelling houses, are at this moment the chief constituents of the capital of Oregon. The site on the opposite side of the river, upon which some good buildings are beginning to appear, is called Muntaomah. Communication is kept up between these two places by two ferry boats.—

1)r. McLaughlin claims the square mile which includes Oregon City on one side, and an American named Moore claims an equal extent on the other side. The doctor has fixed a high price on his lown loss, more than can conveniently be paid by those desirous of living in town, nud persons were occasionally constructing upon his land, in definance of his remonstrances and threats of the law. Our government is already, I understand, in possession of the evidence upon which his claims rost, and I need therefore say nothing more on the subject.

A sixth spot dignified with the name of town, is Salem, high up the Williammette, of which too little exists to be worthy an attempt at description. It would seem from this sorry catalogue that Oregon cannot yet boast of her cities. Even in these, however, her improvement has been great and rapid, and population comes into the capital faster than the gigantic fir trees, which have lately con its sole occupants, can be made to disappear.

Very fine Salmon are caught in the Columbia. Liout M. complains of the scarcity of game, and says that in a ride of 150 miles in the Williammette Valley, he saw but three deer. Wolves are numerous, and the black hear in her complaints and the black hear in her complaints. boar is by no means uncommon. Nearly all the birds and fowls of the United States are found here, with soveral varieties of the grouse and patridge which we have not. The turkey is not indigenous to Oregon, but has been introduced and successfully reared there. Wild fewl, from the swan to the bluewing, are very abundant fowl, from the swan to the bluewing, are very abundant during the winter. The wild guess move over the country in clouds, and do great injury to the wheat fields upon which they determine to alight. The field lark, the robin, the wren, and the sparrow, alternately flit before the traveller and identify the country with scenes at home.

The products of the soil, he says, depend mainly upon the climate, and the excellence of the latter is indicative of the abundance of the former. In the valley, wheat is the staple commodity, the average yield b ing twenty bushels to the acre, with common farming, and forty to fifty, with superior.

"The quality of the wheat produced here, is, I believe, unequalled throughout the world; it certainly excels in weight, size of grain, and whiteness of its flour, that of our Atlantic States, Chili, or the Black sea, and is far beginning the states, and the states with core fore any I have seen in California. Oats grow with cor-respondent luxuriance; but the nights of this salubrious valley are too cool for Indian corn or rye. These last grow to perfection further interior, where the summers grow to perfection intener interior, where the summers are warmer than they are westward of the Cascade mountains. The few experiments made with hemp and tobacco have proven the competency of the soil and climate to their production. In short, I can think of nothing vegetable in its nature, common within the temperate zone, that Oregon will not produce. Fruits have been, so far, very sparingly introduced; there are a few orchards of apples, peaches and pears among the Cana-dians; but growing upon seedlings, the fruit is inferior.— A great variety of borries are indigenous and chundant; a great variety of cerries are indigenous and ebundant; among them the strawberry, cranberry, whortleberry, and a big blue berry of delicious flavor. The traveller stopping at the humblest cottage on a summer day will be regaled with a white loaf and fresh butter, a dish of luscious berries, and plenty of rich milk; to procure all of which the cottager has not been outside his own en-closure. The fields for cultivation comprise, as before remarked, but a small portion of the country; outside the fences is a common range for the cattle. These have increased very rapidly, and in nothing does the new emigrant feelso sensibly relieved from labor as in having to make no winter provision for his stock. Large droves of American cows and oxen have annually accompanied the emigrating parties from the United States, and the Hudson's Bay Company have imported from California but of this indispensable appendage to an agricultural district, the far greater number in the Williammette valley have sprung from a supply driven in from Califor-nia, through the instrumentality of Purser Sleeum, United States navy, who visited Oregon eight or nine years ago, as an agent of the government."

Green vegetables grow abundantly; and although the sweetbriar and honeysuckle abound, the honey-bee had not yet been naturalized there. Coal had been discovered in the northeastern portion of Vancouver's island.

A ROLAND FOR AN OLIVER .- The Marquis of Waterford and some friends one day took their place in the fourth class carriage of a railway. To punish such doings the railway people hired a couple of sweeps covered with soot, and put them in beside them. At the next station the marquis bought first class tickets for the sweeps, and put them in to adorn the silk and velvet covered seats .- Liverpool Albion.

HEAVES! HEAVES! HEAVES!

THERE never was a renedy discovered, by the ingenuity of man for removing diseases from Horses, that equalited COLEMAN'S HEAVE POWDERS, in curing that most troublesome, obstinate and dangerous complaint. If a case is at all curable, these powders will just as surely remove it as they are taken. This is no fletion, as many of the most respectable persons in different parts of the country, can testify from actual trial. One, two, or three bottles at most, is all that is necessary to cure the worst casea; also in cough and where the wind has been injured, ONE bottle will befound of great service. And what is the cost of three bottles compared to the loss of even an ordinary horse? Try it then, you who have horses suffering for the want of such an article. Price 50cts. per bottle. GREAT PALL AND WINTER MEDICINE. GREAT FALL AND WINTER MEDICINE:

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over al other medicine is, while it cradicates discases, it invigorates the body. It is one of the very best Fal and Winter medicines over known; it not only purifies the whole system, strengthens the person, but it creates new, pure and rich blood; a power poissered by no other medicine. And in this lies the grand secret of its wonderful success. It has performed within the past two years, more than 33,000 cures of revere cases of discase; at least 20,000 of these were considered incurable.

2,000 cases of dispensia; 4,000 cases of General debility and Want of Energy; 7,000 cases of the different Female Compitaints; 2,000 cases of Scroula; 1,500 cases of Scroula; 1,500 cases of Consumption; hood cases of Consumption; de thousands of cases of diseases of the blood, viz. U

TO MOTHERS & MARRIED LADIES. TO MOTHERS & MARRIED LADIES.

This Extract of Sar-aparilla has been expressly prepared in reference to female complaints. No female who has reason to suppose she is approaching that critical period, "the turn of lite," should neglect to take it, as it is a vertain preventative for any of the numerous and horrible diseases to which females are subject at this time of life. This period may be delayed several years by using this medicine. Nor is it less valuable for those approaching womanhood, as it is calculated to assist nature, by quickening the blogat and invigorating the system. Indeed this medicine is invaligable for all the diseases to which women are subject.

It braces the whole system, renews permanently the natural energies—by removing the impurities of the body—not so far stimulating the system as to produce a subsequent relaxation which is the case of most medicines taken for female weakness and disease. SCROFULA CURED.

GREATEST MEDICINE OF THE AGE! GREATEST MEDICINE OF THE AGE!

STANTON'S EXTERNAL REMEDY, CALLED HUNT'S

LINEMENT, has received the above title from thousands who have been benefited by its use. Its operation is wonderful. Never failing to give immediate relief, and permanently curing the discases for which it is recommended. For the last year I have placed before the public testimony of undoubted character from many persons well known broughout the county of Westchester, where the great reputation of this medicine was first established. During the past year I have received from all parts of the county a mass of evidence of the great value of this celebrated remedy sufficient to fill volumes, of which I have selected a few certificates. For the following diseases Hunt's Liminent is a certain, safe and speedy cure Rheumatism, Spinal affection, Weakness and Pains in the back Rheumatism, Spinal affection, Weakness and Pains in the bacl and chest, contractions of the muscles, sore Throat, Quinsey, Is sues, Ulcers, Ague in the breast and face, Tooth ache, Spraus Bruises, Salt Rheum, Burns, Croup, frosted Feet, Bunions, Corns and all diseases of the Nerves. As a strengthner of the Nerveu Spatem it executed all the plasters and, mediternes in the world. It souly necessary to try it to be convinced that it will do all that the proprietors professes. Its reputation is constantly increasing and in every instance where it has been used it is always kept a necessary Fannly Medicine. Read the evidence from abroad.
