

Miscellaneous, Politics and News. GEN. TAYLOR'S SOUTHERN FACE.

"Look on this Picture!" An eventful, thrilling, and highly dangerous crisis has been forced upon the country by the demagogues, regardless of the sanctity of the Union, which is so dear to every American citizen. The Whim Proviso, as it is called, is a fearful blot beneath the foundations of the sacred Constitution. That mine may explode at the hour of midnight, and forever destroy the proud fabric of human genius and virtue. To avert this threatened evil, to close the mighty chasm that begins to yawn between the free and slave States, is a duty we owe to ourselves, to our posterity, to the memory of the illustrious dead. How shall this be done? We must elect a man for President of the United States, who lives in our own sunny South; who is willing to peril all for the Constitution; who loves the South and her cherished institutions, and yet will do ample justice to the North. And last, though not least, we must, to ensure success, support a candidate for the Presidency of such an overwhelming popularity, of a reputation that towers as the Himalaya mountains above all others.

Such a man is General Zachary Taylor. He lives in the South, and makes 12000000 of cotton, on the banks of the Mississippi. His interests, HIS FEELINGS are ALL WITH US! Throughout the Northern and free States, he enjoys the unbounded confidence of the entire people. His patriotism, his genius, his undoubted honesty, and entire devotion to the Constitution and the Union, will ever ensure him the support of a large majority in every portion of the United States. Who shall say that Gen. Taylor has not been raised up at this eventful crisis, by an All-wise and overruling Providence, to quench the fires of discord, and prevent the downfall of the Republic?

Where is another man in the Slave States, who can receive even a respectable vote at the North? If we elect Gen. Taylor, his genius will enable him to guide our ship through the gathering storm; his honesty, his sterling integrity, will secure to his best interests; his immense popularity will enable him to triumph over all opposition. Then, we ask in all candor, who will oppose Gen. Taylor?—Alabama Whig.

"We rejoice at the selection, because we feel that under such leaders victory is certain—because we feel that the interests of the country will be protected by him who has declared that his sole aim will be the country's good—because we feel assured that our rights as southern men may be safely trusted to one who has been a slaveholder and a SLAVEHOLDER."—Florida Whig.

GEN. TAYLOR AND THE WHIG PROVISION.—The Matagorda (Texas) Tribune, on the 24th of May, has the following emphatic paragraph with respect to Gen. Taylor and the expected benefits of his election.

"If elected, our institutions—we speak of slavery, will be under the protection of his eagle eye and his giant arm. Who does not know that that institution is in some shape or other under daily discussion in Congress, and that at this moment, the Southern members are ill at ease in consequence of some new and fearful measures being made in relation to it? The old Nestor of the South, Mr. Calhoun, warns us that we are approaching a precipitous with danger, and that before long we will have to see the mark."

"We know, that, in this great paramount and leading question of the rights of the South, he (Gen. Taylor) is of us! he is with us! and he is FOR US!"—Resolution of a Taylor meeting in Charleston, S. Carolina.

"In regard to the conversation had with General Taylor, I have to say, we did not talk on the tariff as did on the other side. He expressed himself in favor of the tariff. He said he was decidedly in favor of prosecuting it rigorously, till it should yield an honorable peace; he was for indemnity, captain, AND THAT TERRITORIAL; but was not decided on any line particularly, but thought perhaps, as a kind of compromise with the Whim Proviso, we had better go up to 32 deg., making the Rio Grande the southern boundary up to that degree; and said the South would be contented with the Whim Proviso; although he did not believe there would ever be slavery there, yet if the country was acquired, the citizens should be left free on that subject. He says all Mexico will eventually come into our Government by degrees; that it cannot be avoided. On the subject of politics, he said he was no politician; had been three-fourths of his life in the army, and had done nothing for service, and paid but little attention to any thing else."—Statement from one of the Committee of the Mississippi Legislature, appointed to invite General Taylor to visit that State.

"In a letter to the editor of the Tallapoosa (Alabama) Monitor, General Taylor himself avows that he has not endorsed all the remarks of the Cincinnati Signal, to the effect that he would not visit the Whim proviso. He says:

"I reply to your remarks concerning a letter which I addressed some time since to the editor of the Cincinnati Signal, in relation to a question of time that would be in my power to visit the Convention to express an opinion either in concurrence with, or in opposition to, any of the views embraced in the editorial article to which it refers. The letter itself, like most other letters of mine of official matters, which have found their way into the newspapers, was not intended for publication, but simply written as a matter of course, in answer to a query I had received from the gentleman in question. It was simply intended to express my opinion, as has been my custom uniformly through life, to express my respect for opinions which I believe to be honestly entertained, and as long as this held, my approval of his maintaining them."

"The charge carries such authority on its very face, as not to deserve a serious refutation. Gen. Taylor, a southern man, the destiny of himself and his children like, says that the South, his innocent wife existing in slavery, and that he has to be cultivated by slaves to produce a valuable enemy to the South; he is in favor of prostrating southern rights and interests! The very injustice of absurdity! They might as well say that General Taylor is a Free Negro! They would be believed just about as soon, and exhibit fully as much reason and truth, in making the charge."—Marion (Alabama) Herald, Taylor paper.

"The subjects of a tariff, bank, and internal improvements, are dwarfed into insignificant dimensions when compared with the great overshadowing one which an unprincipled northern and northwestern Democracy has dared to throw before us, [alluding to the freetrading principle]. It is of a vital consequence that the South should march up to this question. By birth, education, sentiment, feeling, association, and interest, Gen. Taylor is one of us. South may well answer the North through him, and redeem the pledge it has made to support no man who is not of us or with us."—Charleston South Carolina Courier.

"One reason why the South should sustain Taylor for the Presidency with great unanimity is, because his nomination affords a final and unlooked-for chance of electing a Southern Man to that office.—The importance of placing at the head of Government one who, from birth, association, and connection, is identified with the South, and will fearlessly uphold her rights and guard from oppression, cannot fail to strike every mind. In this view, his election becomes an act of vital moment to the 'Starveling portion of the Confederacy.'"—N. O. Bee.

A desperate attempt is making, and will be made, to impress on the public mind the belief that Gen. Taylor is not thoroughly with the South on the subject of slavery. Such an attempt will only prove to what resorts our opponents are driven, in order to injure him in the estimation of his admirers. Why, who is Gen. Taylor? and where does he live? Every body knows that he is a citizen of Louisiana, an extensive and successful farmer; and owns more land than the most of his slanders can ever hope honestly to obtain. Is there any fear of such a man on this subject? Born in a slave State and still residing in one; with a large portion of his capital invested in this species of property; identified from interest, inclination, and education, with the institutions around us; will any sensible man hesitate on this subject to prefer him to his opponent?—Columbus (Geo.) Enquirer.

THE LAST PLANK GONE.—The opponents of the old Zachary Taylor, in their reckless attempts to injure him with the people of the South have asserted, that, in his letter to James W. Taylor, editor of the Cincinnati Signal, written in reply to and answering certain interrogatories propounded in a letter from him, he had pledged himself not to veto any bill which might be passed by Congress in which was embodied the Whim Proviso. This monstrous declaration, so entirely at variance with the character of the man and the editor, could only have been made by political leaders when in the last stage of desperation—when they saw that everlasting political ruin and ruin was approaching them as fast as the course of time would permit.

How dare these miscreant maligners say that Gen. Taylor—a man of such pure, noble and unselfish character—would prove a traitor to those among whom he was born and raised?—that he would betray the sacred principles of his country, and that he would prove false to his own interests, and scornfully turn his back upon old associations?—What ground have they for putting forth such vile and unfounded statements? In the course of a long life, has Gen. Taylor ever displayed any disposition to betray his country? No! Let his vilest traducers point to a single act of his life that smacks of treason? On the contrary, for forty years he has stood by his country, and on many desperately contested battle fields his strong arm, stout heart, clear head, indomitable bravery and iron will, have rolled back the lurid tide of battle, and covered himself with his country's flag with imperishable renown. Why should such a man—so pure, so exalted, so patriotic, so devoted to his country, who has consecrated a long life to his country's service, who has shed immortal glory upon her arms, and who has so honestly and magnanimously sought in all the relations of life—the vindication of this sort of style? True it is, that we have not yet met with any Democratic editor who dare openly charge Gen. Taylor with abolitionism; yet such a game has been for two or three months, and is now going on all over the South by implication and insinuation. They insinuate slyly that he made bare charges against the Whim Proviso, and that he had pledged himself that if the charge was made, he would thereupon denounce it as a manliness about the matter.

If the people of the South demand stronger evidence of a man's soundness on the slavery question, than the fact that he is a southerner by birth, habit and association; that he has never identified himself with the South, and that all the property he has in the world is invested in a cotton plantation—it is not likely they will ever get it. They do not deserve more."—Miss Courier.

WHERE DO THE WHIGS STAND.—The following description of Northern Whigery is from the Albany Atlas, the leading bartering paper in New York:

The Whigs have nominated a southern man, a slaveholder and dealer in military equipment, a property man, and a man without civic capacity. He was first nominated by Native Americans, and consented to be brought into the field, by them. He was nominated by Independent Democrats, and consented to be nominated with more cordiality than any other man.

He accepted the nomination of the southern Nullifiers, who had rejected Fillmore. He refused to pay the postage on the Whig letter of nomination—and when after a month it was returned to him, replied to it in cold and guarded terms. He refused to sign and approve a letter got up by the Whig leaders, in which he declared himself of their party. He says he is not fit for the Presidency. Mr. Webster says that he is not even fit to be a candidate for that office. The Whig Journals which support him, also admit, in the language of the Albany Evening Journal, "that he is not fit to be the Whig candidate." This "gentle" of unfitness is the only one upon which the Whigs and the Whig candidate, the Secord, the Fillmore branch, the New York City Whigs, and the people of the West without distinction of party, all harmonize upon this platform. Upon it the whigs are gaining great accessions, and if (as we were given, would carry out their principle of "unfitness" by nearly a unanimous vote of the people. Yet, despite all this, the whigs, who believe with Mr. Webster, Weed, Hall, Selden, and Taylor himself, that he is unfit, are to be denounced if they do not vote for him. Gen. Taylor himself never voted for a whig. If any whig follow his example once, next November, he is to be drummed out of the party! General Taylor thinks he is unfit for the office.—If any whig agree with him he is to be denounced. Thus, agreement with Taylor, either in his actions or opinions, equally exposes the whigs to prosecution. If they disagree with him, of course they are no better. The Taylor whig journals affect to assign the Free Soil party as a combination of discordant elements, uniting on a single principle to which they at the North also assent. Yet they admit that they have thrown aside all principle to stand in a common organization with Nullifiers and Southern Independence and Slavery propagandists, to install the great slave holding general into the chief executive office in the nation. The politicians who have got their party into this inextricable confusion, acknowledge that they were led to their position by the "Will of the Whig," availability. They confess that though they have never avowed in the mire and feel themselves sinking every moment under the guidance of this sign of our glorious Union, they are farther from their former. And yet they are implored to remain under the same guidance; because "returning was as tedious as to go over."

TOM CORWIN GIVES UP THE GHOST.—In a letter to the Cincinnati Chronicle, a day or two after the State election, Tom says:

THE WEEKLY OBSERVER. SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 28, 1848.

Democratic Nominations. FOR PRESIDENT, GEN. LEWIS CASS, OF MICHIGAN.

"Having full confidence in your abilities and republican principles, I invited you to my cabinet and I can never forget the warm reception and the confidence which you pressed over the Department of War, which entitled you to my thanks and will ever be recollected with the most lively feelings of friendship by me."

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, Gen. Wm. O. Butler, OF KENTUCKY.

"BUTLER and his five sons" was a favorite boast with Washington, and WILLIAM BUTLER is one of the best. The Butlers have fought on every field from Bunker Hill to Monterey, and there is a tower of strength in the very name.
